

cause of ¹¹⁵³² ~~his~~ ^{his} carelessness & recklessness. ¹¹⁵³² was on his part. he ended up one evening at about seven by plunging - broadside on - into a bridge! He just was able, by cramming in the tracks & smearing vitexity to save ourselves from going head-on into the bridge & into the river - as it was the front tire blew out, & as he struck the wire parallel with terrific force it gave way entirely & the staves crumpled into the river. He was left on the very brink of destruction, & no one can explain why it was he did not go over.
 Mercifully he didn't - that is all

He can say. The reports which was made. evidently he was those to General's with them he was to spend the week. and that he was able to do & had was a great deal. But it was an end to further matters at that time by way to sustain - work! - by the day's return the track to the "simple life" - I can't say "the great invasion" to go on just then!! In quite a while again, & on making some much provision again. He this summer. In the winter came - from at a alarming village on the side of the & in the Sea. The village comes with the afternoon & I shall
