CAUSTIC BALSAM GIVES WONDER-FUL RESULTS.

Berlin, Ont., March 22, 1904. Lawrence-Williams Co., Cleveland,

I have been using several bottles of Gombault's Caustic Balsam, and found wonderful results. Kindly send me full information in regard to agency, as nearly all who once give it a trial want a M. S. STROME.

Mr. Robert Miller, Stouffville, Ont., writes: "Since last writing you, I have been very successful in winning prizes at the Toronto Show. I won the first for Shropshire flock, and second for Cotswold flock. One of my best Cotswold ewes died, and the place had to be filled with a ewe that came straight from the field; this weakened my flock to a great extent. Have had wonderful sales, but do not allow myself to be short of the very best sires in both breeds at this season. I never had such good rams and ram lambs as I have now. Am pricing them so that any breeder can afford to have a good one. The imported Shorthorns came home on Sept. 6th, and they are a nice lot, well-bred. but not in high condition. Will tell you more about them soon."

HOMEMADE BUTTER-WORKER.

A very effective butter-worker, which will save a great deal of labor, can be made by any man at all handy with tools, out of some strips of hardwood, maple preferred. Fashion the pieces into a wide, shallow trough, tapering at one end to about 4 inches. Set this trough on three legs, two under the wide end and one under the narrow end; strengthen by an extra piece underneath to fit them into.

Make a roller out of a piece of the wood, four inches square and one foot longer than the trough, or body of worker. A very good length for a mediumsized dairy would be 30 inches for the body part and 42 inches for the roller.

with a fine-tooth saw one inch deep on each side of the stick, at a point 12 inches from one end. This extra 12 inches is for a handle, and should be dressed down round and smooth, to about two inches, so that it is easy to grasp by the operator. The remaining 3 feet must be made tapering, the small end (that opposite the handle) being not more than an inch in diameter. Dress the wood square, then cut off the four corners to make it octagon in shape. In the narrow end of the trough drive an ordinary iron staple, and in the small end of the roller a short heavy cut-iron nail, not a wire nail which would be likely to bend. The nail should project about an inch. This fits into the staple holding the roller in place, and completes about as effective a butter-worker as anyone need ask for.

worker and rinse with cold water. Place the butter upon it, and press the roller gently but firmly over it, turning from time to time with a ladle or paddle.

Ten to fifteen pounds of butter can be worked with this worker as easily as five, and in about half the time necessary with bowl and ladle.

In washing, use hot water, and brush the same as in cleaning any woodenware. If there are seams in the bottom where the boards are joined, they should be glued to prevent leakage.

The Big Wooden Fork.

There are times when a wooden fork is very conveniently used in the dairy-room. I like it better than a ladle for breaking apart lumps of butter in the churn, or for removing it to the worker. A piece of maple twelve inches long and six wide, and one inch thick, will make a good one. Let the handy man mark t off with four times, five inches long, the sides rounding in nicely to the handle-part at about seven inches to give plenty of strength. The remaining five inches will make a good firm handle, which should be a little wider than it is thick. Smooth this down sleely with which should bed set too slowery to gether. Make a hadre: the end of the handle to be any to by, and the pob is
