DEAD AND MUST RESIGN

Balfour's Government as Described by John Redmend.

He Threatened to Reduce Our Numbers, Now We Have Destroyed His Government - What Retort More Crushing?" Ask the Irish Parliamentary Leader-Result of a Series of Parliamentary Coups.

of Parliamentary Coups.

London, July 24.—John Redmond, M.P., chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, is queted as saying:

"It seems utterly impossible to me that Balfour can do other than resign in view of all the circumstances of his defeat. Perhaps for the convenience of both parties, neither of which desires a dissolution in August or September, an arrangement may be arrived at to defer actual resignation until October; but any way you look at it Balfour's Government is dead.

"The corpse may be kept above ground for a time, but decomposition has already set in. It has met the fate of every British Government in my memory in being defeated on the Irish question.

"Just consider the dramatic series of events. A few days ago Balfour introduced his redistribution scheme, the sole object of which was to satisfy the anti-Irish feeling of his followers by reducing the Irish representation in the House of Commons by 22 members.

"Ne-intended to rush it through with "Ne-intended to rush it threugh with a couple of days' discussion. Then he would have introduced his redistribution bill at the next session and kept his Government alive until the autumn of 1966. By raising a crucial point of order I got a decision from the Speaker compelling Balfour to afford ample time for debating the redistribution scheme at this session.

"This was a staggering blow and he was forced to drop his scheme. Following this up the Irish party reduced the Government majority on a question directly affecting the Minister of War to such a low figure that Ballour was panic-striken. He summoned a special meeting of his party members and appealed to them to support him by their votes or, he said, he must dissolve. They pledged themselves, but within two days we have defeated them outright.

"The Irish party naturally feels in The irish party naturally feels intensely gratified ever this result. The other day Balfour proposed to his supporters to reduce our representation. Now we have destroyed his Governments. What more crushing retert could we have delivered?"

W. WIDDIFIELD DROWNS.

Young Surveyor on Holland River Ca-nal Takes Fatal Swim.

Yeung Surveyor on Helland River Canal Takes Fatal Swim.

Bradford, July 24.—Friday night, W. Widdifield of Newmarket, son of J. E. Widdifield, was drowned in the Holland River, and his body found Saturay morning. He was with the surveying party that is working on the canal route running to Schomberg.

It appears that he and two other young men went fishing. Two of them left Widdifield on an old scow while they went further up the river. On their return they found Widdifield's clothing, indicating that he had gone in swimming, but nothing could be found of the body. After searching until late and renewing the search again Saturday morning they found the body of the unfortunate young man. His uncle, Lawyer Widdifield of Newmarket, is here looking after the remains.

NOTES

After supper an impromptu meet-ing was held by the committee in the Garner House parlors, at which votes of thanks were passed to the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Chat-ham, the commanding officers of the 24th Regiment and to those who contributed to the day's pleasure.

All were loud in their praises of All were tong in their praises of Chatham's hospitality, and although the committee had visited Walker-ville, Leamington, Sarnia, and other places, it was unanimously decided that Chatham had more charms to offer than any of the other towns

The next pionic at Chatham will be a hummer, and, as the big crowd at the C. P. R. depot remarked when leaving for home Saturday night, "Au revoir but not Good-bye."

During the afternoon an adjournment was made to the lawn in front of Hotel Sanita, where Mr. Gibson took a picture of the members of the committee, including the genial Police Magistrate of the city, M. Hous-

The judges of babies had an arduous task. It was difficult to decide as to the several merits, and the judges, Messrs, Malcolm, Watson and Skirving, considered there should have been a third prize. This will be remedied in future.

Mesdames Eberts and Gamble certainly have two good looking, fine, healthy "Canucks," and Jimmy Eberts left for St. Thomas just tickled to death. Shake, Jimmy !--you certainly "set 'em up."

As is always customary, matters got somewhat exciting over the tug of war, but Referee Skirving decided the prize should go to St. Thomas.

Officer Jus. Dodson received many compliments for his efficient and good-natured work on the park.
