ROME LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Rome, May 28, 1912.

From every point of view the celebration of the Peace of Constantine is now certain to be a glorious success, as is proved by the results of the latest meeting of the Superior Council—which Pius X charged with the management of all arrangements connected with the event—held at the residence of His Eminence Cardinal Casati, Protector of the Council. Letters were read by the General Secretary, Commendatore de Marzulli, from bishops of various countries promising cooperation, and also a communication from the Holy Father saying that he has already acquired a site for the church, which will be built on the Tiber, near the Malvian Bridge, on the field where Maxentius suffered defeat at the hands of Constantine the Great, exactly sixteen hundred years ago. Several decisions of the Council were then submitted by the President, Prince Obigli, to the Cardinal Protector, and received the unqualified approval of His Eminence. Though the full programme of the celebration is not yet prepared, a good deal of it is already known.

The period of festivity will open in 1913 on Low Sunday, the chief event being a Pontifical High Mass by His Holiness Pius the Tenth in St. Peter's at the tomb of the Prince of the Apostles, Pontifical High Mass will be celebrated also in St. John Lateran, St. Mary Major and other historic basilicas, as well as in the Catacombs of St. Callisto and of St. Agnes outside the walls of the city. A commemorative medal of the centenary will be struck by the Holy Father, and will recall all the great events connected with the liberation of the Church from pagan persecution.

It goes without saying that quite a literature may be expected during the period of universal rejoicing, one interesting publication being an English translation of the Vatican bulletin, "Protestantism—The Catacombs and Protestantism—of Commendatore Marzulli." This book will be in the hands of the publishers within six weeks.

One of the most interesting features in today's issue of the Acta Apostolicae Sedis, the Vatican bulletin, deals with the canonical erection of the Confraternity of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart of Jesus in the Church of the Missionaries of the Sacred Heart in Quebec. In an Apostolic Letter, the Holy Father, while referring to the good of religion accruing from the confraternity, grants this body the faculty of affiliating branches over the whole of Canada. Probably the next issue of the bulletin may contain a report of a case which is the first of this month in favor of the Order of Friars Minor. This lawsuit concerned a strip of property connected with the Franciscan Church and Friary of Woodford, London, England, and has been before the British courts for a couple of years. The decision of the Tribunal orders that the house and garden shall belong exclusively to the sons of St. Francis.

Another little matter worthy of mention is deserving the attention of all Catholics, especially Americans. Every Sunday the Stars and Stripes are seen waving above the entrance to the Methodist Church on the Via Veni Settembre, evidently with the intention of attracting the poorer classes of Italians who naturally respect America; and who are thus made to believe that Methodism is the official religion of the United States. Personally I am acquainted with many Americans who bitterly resent the officiousness of a handful of imported and well-paid Methodists, posing as the representatives of the sincere, pure, American Church. The methods adopted by this trafficking band of American proselytizers among the poor Italians has long since been exposed to the world. Presents in money and kind may lead a few of them from the Church for a time; but they will never make Methodists of Italians. For forty-five years the Methodists have worked hard, late and early, in their endeavors to make converts; they have spent money like water; good American dollars have rained and showered and poured, so that the very flood ought to cause a flow of converts; they have built a few palatial temples—and what is the result? It is scarcely credible. The Methodist converts number at the very outside 350 after the forty-five hard years and the expenditure of millions! This ought to be a sufficient answer from the Roman poor, but still the missionaries, Tipple and Co., stick on like leeches—for the game is profitable.

On the morning of April 3, in the Vatican Palace, a new gathering of the S. Congregation of Rites was held, and four causes claimed the attention of the Cardinals and prelates of the body. These were:

(I) The introduction of the cause of beatification and canonisation of Emmanuel Ribieri, professed priest of the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer.

(II) Confirmation of the worship given from time immemorial to Simeone, Falcone, Marino, Benincasa, Peter II., Balsano, Leonardo, and Leo II., Benedictine Abbots of the Most Holy Trinity of Ova del Terrenti.

(III) Revision of the writings of Carlo Domenico Albani, priest of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate.

(IV) Revision of the writings of Francesco Seelos, professed priest of the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer.

That North America, Canada and Australia should exhibit tender feelings towards Ireland, now that her long night is closing and that her bath of blood is gone for ever, is not to be wondered at. But the Irish colony in Rome got a pleasant surprise in the warmth of the felicitations given to Erin triumphant by the press of the continent of Europe since the introduction of the Home Rule Bill. For a great number of the continental nations had forgotten that Irish saints of old had brought them the Faith and sealed it with their blood; that others of them, France and Spain especially, had to acknowledge some of their bravest soldiers to have been wild geese of Erin. Only the educated classes remembered that Ireland was not a county separated by a river from her richer sister. Now all is remembered. Her battle for the Faith is lauded and her struggle for liberty is touchingly referred to. Up to a dozen or fifteen years ago Rome was the happy hunting ground for the anti-Irish intriguer. In the Roman press malicious hands penned reports vilifying everything pertaining to Ireland. An old lady, H., who, mirabile dicto, was once young and is now gone to glory, is believed to have been the one who had translated "Parnellism and Crime" into Italian and circulated among the Cardinals of the Curia her well-known hatred of the Irish nation. For several years this has been a thing of the past. Let us give honor where honor is due now before the curtain falls on the black old scene. For years the Irish residents in Rome have annually forwarded as a body a substantial sum to the Irish Parliamentary Party. During a long period Irishmen at home are indebted to the Very Rev. Father David Fleming, O. F. M., Consultor to the S. Congregation of the H. Office, and Very Rev. Dr. Hagan of the Irish College, for great service rendered in Rome to protect the name of Ireland from obloquy and private intrigue at the hands of hereditary foes.

Though all the world knows of the date fixed for holding the International Eucharistic Congress in Vienna a few months hence, another great meeting which will be held a few days previously in the same city is not so well known as it merits. This is the International Congress of Catholic school teachers, the federation of which body comes to a total of 70,000 members. The heir to the imperial throne of Austria, Archduke Ferdinand, has assumed the protectorship of the Congress, as the aged Emperor of the Eucharistic Congress. The school teachers' congress will be held on September 8-11, while the Congress of Catechists of Austria will be held from the 6th to the 22nd of the same month.

One of the largest national pilgrimages seen this year in Rome is that received by the Holy Father in the Consistorial Hall on Monday, surrounded by the dignitaries, lay and ecclesiastical, of the Court. The number of Swiss pilgrims came to the number of eight hundred, under the leadership of the Bishop of Basle. In his address to the Sovereign Pontiff the Bishop recalled that it was in May, 1512, an army of 18,000 Swiss soldiers marched into Italy at the request of Julius II to drive from the country the forces that menaced the States of the Church. In thanking the pilgrimage for its expression of homage and affection, Pius X recalled the defection of so many Swiss in the heresy of the sixteenth century. He lauded the constancy of the faithful and exhorted them to remain ever firm to their lofty ideals of Faith and Fatherland.

The figures are not too good to be published from the tops of the mountains. So here are the statistics: The Bulletin of the Free Masons of France tells us that the Masonic Orphanage of that country received fifteen fatherless ones in 1898, eighteen in 1899, and when half a century had rolled by since its foundation, it had in all received three hundred and fifteen.

This is Masonic charity!

In 1900, before the atheist Government of France had time to drive the Religious Congregations from the country, the religious maintained 250,000 poor persons, 60,000 blind and weak-minded, 60,000 orphans, 12,000 fallen females and 210 old and infirm.

This is Catholic charity!

Louisiana Centenary.

The centennial of Louisiana's admission into the American Union was celebrated in New Orleans April 30, with elaborate ceremonies. Secretary of State Knox represented the President, and many governors, foreign diplomats and consuls and other dignitaries attended. Archbishop Bleek delivered the invocation, and Secretary Knox, speaking in front of the Cabildo, the famous Spanish Government House, on the spot where the State flag was first unfurled, reviewed the consequences of the Louisiana Purchase, which brought us territory from which have been carved thirteen great states, with a present population of 18,000,000 as compared with 50,000 in 1803. He paid tribute to the patriotism of the French population which made Jackson's victory possible, and predicted that New Orleans, now next to New York in foreign trade, will, on the completion of the Panama Canal, be the great entrepot of North and South America. The Mississippi, he said, of incalculable value, despite its present ravages, which has rendered homeless a quarter of a million persons and destroyed some $10,000,000 worth of property. He promised government assistance in rebuilding the broken levees and taking measures to prevent future inundations.—America.

"A Modern Instance."

The superintendent of the public schools in San Bernardino, California, has appealed to parents to aid him in stamping out a plague of "puppy love," as he calls it, that is spreading among the boys and girls who attend the mixed classes of the schools of that town. So absorbed have the children become in playing the roles of Romeo and Juliet that the spirit of study has evaporated, and all mental vigor is relaxed, discipline has been weakened, and what is particularly significant, several elopements have occurred among the pupils.

In schools under the control of the Church the segregation of the sexes, as is well known, has always been the rule. The wisdom that has determined the adoption of this practice is the fruit of centuries of experience and of a profound knowledge of human nature. It is justified anew by this "modern instance" from San Bernardino of the dangers inseparable from the American system which puts boys and girls in the same class room.

Children today are no longer "children," we hear it said, and there is far too much truth in the assertion. But may not the prevalence in public schools of conditions like those which this California educator complains of, be the reason that among our young people, as "social workers" maintain, the number of "mental wastings" and "moral jellyfish" is rapidly increasing.—America.

Father Thomas R. Byles, who lost his life on the Titanic, was born in Leeds, England, in 1870, the son of a Congregationalist minister. He was educated at Oxford, and after his conversion in 1894, at St. Edmund's College, Ware, and the English College, Rome, where he was ordained priest in 1902, he served as Diocesan Missionary till 1905, when he became pastor of Ogaire, in the Westminster diocese. It is now ascertained that he not only ministered to the spiritual wants of the victims to the end, but had saved many of the survivors by going down repeatedly to the steerage, bringing up the female passengers and putting them on the life-boats. In both services he was assisted by two other priests, Father Joseph Perushitz, O. S. B., a Bavarian monk from the Abbey of Steier, who was on his way to join the staff of St. John's Abbey, Collegeville, Minnesota, and Father Joseph Mantilla, a Lithuanian priest, who was coming from the Lithuanian orphan in London to do missionary work among his brethren here. These three priests died at the post of duty, performing their priestly functions to the last moments of their lives.—America.

THE POOR DYSPEPTIC Suffers Untold Agony After Every Meal.

Nearly everything that enters a weak, dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant; hence the difficulty of effecting a cure. Burdock Blood Bitters will relieve all the distressing symptoms of dyspepsia and in a short time effect a cure. Mrs. F. C. Gross, Berlin, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with my stomach for the last seven years and tried all kinds of medicine for it, but none of them ever cured me, for as soon as I would quit using any of them, the same old trouble would come back. Last fall I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and used four bottles, and now feel so strong I can do all my house work nicely and can eat almost anything without it affecting me in any way. "Our boy is also using it; he always complained of pain in his stomach and all over like rheumatism, and at the age of ten had to stay home from school. He has been quite used two bottles yet and is feeling good, can attend school regularly and eat heartily. "B. B. B. is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont."

A WEAK ACHING BACK Caused Her Much Misery.

Mrs. W. R. Hodge, Fiddling, Sask., writes:—"A few lines highly recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. For this last year I have been troubled very much with nasty sick headaches, and a weak aching back, which caused me much misery, for I could not work, and had no ambition for anything. My kidneys were very badly out of order, and kept me from sleeping at night. I tried many kinds of pills and medicines, but it seemed almost in vain. I began to give up in despair of ever being well and strong again, when a kind neighbor advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and am thankful for the relief I obtained from them, for now I am never troubled with a sore back or sick headaches. "I will always say Doan's Kidney Pills for mine and can highly recommend them to any sufferer."
