Something for Nothing
The Government carried last night in the House of Assembly their resolutions to allow the export of pulpwood from the Labrador for ten years. This is a reversal of the policy which governed the Bond party and the Morris party for the past twelve years. The very fact that such a permission was likely to be given at this session of the Legislature has gladdened the hearts of those interested in timber licenses on the Labrador, and there is quite a large number of friends of the Government party who have secured licenses to cut timber there since 1909. The rumor that such a course was probable has also had the effect of causing quite a rush for timber areas in that dependency. The course pursued last night is quite in keeping with what was done in 1911. Under the law which governed licenses before that date, they were liable to have their licenses taken away from them for not paying the rents due after a certain time and also for not complying with other conditions of the license relating to surveying and the erection of saw mills or pulp mills. By the law passed in 1911, licenses became forfeitable only for non-payment of rent, but not for non-fulfillment of other conditions of the license. The re-issuing of licenses from the latter obligations for that is what the change amounts to in practice was strongly opposed by Sir Robert Bond and the Opposition of that date. By the law, which is now being made, licensees on the Labrador are being relieved of their obligation of not exporting timber in an unmanufactured state from the Labrador. This is a very considerable concession to these licensees and they are put in a position as speculators to dispose of their limits on more favorable terms to suppliers of pit props and pulpwood to pulp and paper mills in Great Britain and the United States. They are placed on the same level as those who get licenses to cut on Crown Lands and export from the Labrador and who have no limits to sell and merely pay an export duty of One Dollar a cord. This valuable concession they obtain for nothing. There is good reason for the joy of the friends of the Government who have obtained timber limits on the Labrador during the past six years.

Sir,—With reference to your letter of the 18th March, No. 12740, respecting delay in the delivery of letters addressed to Nfld. R.N.R. men, I am commanded by My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to acquaint you for the information of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, that enquiry has been made at the Home ports and it appears that in many cases the delay has been caused by Service No. (if known).

Name of ship in which serving, or R.N. Barracks, Portsmouth, Devonport or Chatham, if serving in any of these establishments.
The last words should be "C/o G.P.O."

At the House.

Mr. Kent said that he had listened with considerable interest to the remarks of the Prime Minister, but nothing that he had said appealed to him. He was prepared to go as far as possible in order to assist the Empire and her Allies, but did not believe that a measure such as that before the House should be brought under such a guise. The cutting of timber for export is a matter that today is receiving the most careful consideration of every country in the world that has such resources. It is a well known fact that we are particularly rich in these resources both in Newfoundland and Labrador, and the first duty of the Legislature should be to make the best of our resources. Owing to exceptional circumstances arising out of the war we had a request from the Imperial Government and the Republic of France, whose sons are fighting side by side with the Empire's sons in this great struggle that the Colony allow the exportation of the proceeds to facilitate the work in the mines. This was helping the Empire and all were unanimous that Newfoundland should do her share in every way possible. To extend a license for indiscriminate cutting of timber was another matter. We are continually hearing complaints regarding the three mile limits due to indiscriminate cutting. What cleared out the forest areas of the State of Maine, of Ontario and of Quebec but the indiscriminate cutting. Mr. Kent then referred to the fact that on the opening of the debate on the Speech from the Throne he had read a clipping from the "Standard of Empire" which he again read to the House. He contended that the item showed that a campaign had been initiated to provide a license to cut such timber as referred to for an indefinite period. The proposal combined with previous information was in his opinion sufficient proof that such a campaign had been in progress. He contended that the information was only apparent since the introduction of the Bill, though the Government had shown that the "Standard of Empire" had come from an authoritative source. "The pulp wood industry is a remunerative one," said the N. D. McEneaney, Co. and Albert Reed Co. would not continue their business as they have done. No effort has been made by the Government to show that it is impossible to profitably carry on the business. In the event of a Legislature permitting the exportation of timber, they should in the first place establish a code of laws for a proper system of re-forestation of trees. He would not support the Bill for the period of the war only, but not from Newfoundland for any time, because the supply on the Labrador was sufficient to meet all the requirements of the authorities. He was of the opinion that we should hesitate before passing such a Bill. The passing of the Act in its present form will mean the destruction of the forest areas one of the most valuable resources of the Colony.
Mr. Coaker made a practical speech along similar lines, and held that there should be no timber industries in the Colony. He, too, believed that a campaign such as referred to by Mr. Kent had been initiated and referred to the fact that members of the Government were interested in the companies possessing timber limits on the Labrador areas and would naturally support the Bill for that reason. Mr. Emerson, the Colonial Secretary and Mr. Higgins supported the Bill, disclaiming any personal interest in the success of the measure.
Mr. Halfyard would favor the Bill if it were to assist the Empire and her Allies, but thought that general exportation was an entirely different matter.
Mr. Winsor stated the case of the people of his district, who would be materially affected by the passing of such a measure.
Mr. Lloyd was pleased to notice the disclaimer of the members of the Government who had stated that they were not personally interested in the Bill. By the Bill of 1914 the licenses of timber limits had been released from certain obligations, and now the House was asked to release them from further obligations. It was a well known fact that the campaign referred to in the "Standard of Empire" was carried on last fall.
Mr. Grimes and Mr. Hickman also expressed their disapproval of the Bill.
Mr. Kent moved an amendment to the Resolutions which embodied permission to export pit props from Labrador during the War, but not from Newfoundland and opposed the granting of licenses to cut and export pulpwood from the Labrador for ten years. It was lost on a party vote.
At 12.30 the Committee rose and the House adjourned.

Makes Hair Grow
The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.
If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.
The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.
It destroys the dandruff germ, the little pest that saps the life that should go to the hair from the roots.

The following clipping is from a Canadian exchange, of recent date: "A postcard stating he is safe and well has been received from Private W. Cornick, of the 14th Battalion, by his sister, Mrs. H. Pitcher, 3010 Casgrain Street. He has two brothers with the Newfoundland contingent, and a third has enlisted with the 42nd Highlanders.

Miss B. Hawkins of the West End met with a bad accident yesterday as a result of which she is now laid up with her leg broken. It seems that she was on her way to the house-cleaning, and was in the act of hanging some paper when she fell, breaking the leg just below the knee. Her many friends will regret to hear of the accident.
The schr. Harry Lewis has just landed a load of coal to Messrs. E. D. McEneaney & Sons. The coal came just in time as there was a scarcity of that article here.
