City Engineer Graydon is far from being discouraged because the city and county councils saw fit to throw cold water on his efforts in the direction of OFFICES - Masonic Temple wide tire legislation. He is still convinced that wide tires will come ere long, and daily hears of others who are with him in the view he holds that Annual Report Shows Progress of they will be an advantage, not only to the users, but also to municipalities. lately. Mr. Graydon came across the

> One of the greatest aids to better wagons. No matter what kind of material is used for the construction of the road, the width of the tire is of vital importance. It is also vastly to the interest of almost every farmer from an economic standpoint to have at least three or four-inch tire in place of the oid-fashioned narrow tire. fields and on almost all kinds of roads. The wide tired wheels are stronger and more lasting, and pre-sent much less trouble in the shape of loose tires. In many sections their economic advantages are being re-cognized, and they are rapidly replacing the narrow tire. This transition should be hastened as rapidly as be of the wide sort. So thoroughly has the relation of wide tires to good roads been recognized abroad that laws have been passed regulating the width of tires. In Germany four-inch tires are required. In France traffic tires must be from three to ten inches wide, according to the weight of the load, and the front axle must be shorter than the rear axle, to prevent 'tracking.' In Austria wagons carrying more than two and a quarter tons are required to have tires at least four and one-third inches wide and every load ever four and a half tons must be carried on tires of six and a quarter inches in width.'
