I do not propose to take care of the pocket-books of the brethren while they go fishing, or to speak knowingly about the bigness of the hats worn by the good sisters at Eastertide. I will not engage to salve the consciences of the brethren who hurrah for Jesus and vote for the devil and I will not upper any such up to who hurrah for Jesus and vote for the devil, and I will not usher any such up to the pearly gates. I will not engage to write or to deliver eulogies for those members who regard their religion as a kind of spiritual life insurance."

Subway Bell Mule Objected to Being Sent Underground.

New York, My 19.—Ebenezer, the bell mule of the subway in Brooklyn, after a year's work underground in the Flatbush section of the tunnel, was hoisted yesterday to the surface and brought down Fulton street to take his place in the harness in the Joralemon street section. The sunshine and fresh air stirred Ebenezer to mutiny, and when he reached the Joralemon shaft he refused to descend.

It took the combined efforts of 200 men tugging on hawsers-with the juscircumstances the men carefully filled tices of the appellate division of the supreme court watching from the windows - to get Ebenezer down shaft. Ebenezer's gallant struggle to stay on earth was cheered by 2,000 per-

When Ebenezer reached the Borough Hall, in the rear of which is the shaft, he refused to get into the basket-stall used to lower animals into the shaft. He stood stock-still in the center of the east-bound track of the Crosstown line the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Comof the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. Workmen tugged on his halter and one adventurous spirit approached the rear of Ebenezer and sought to give him a gentle push. Ebenezer shot out his hoofs and the brave one landed in a heap in Murphy Park. Meanwhile cars were blocked, and Ebenezer still stood between the rails. Finally a fender was taken from one of the cars and brought close to Ebenezer before he was aware of the flank movement. Then the motorman turned on the current slowly and pushed Ebenezer to the west-bound By this time a crowd of 2,000 persons had gathered in front of the court-

Fifty men seized each end of the hawser, a hundred others took hold of the halter hawser, and with a long, steady pull, Ebenezer was dragged into the cagelike stall. When he found that he was again scheduled to go underground, "4. I am a lodge man. I belong to four lodges, and would not object to joining some more, provided the brethren will pay the admission fees and keep up the logger and landed on the asphalt. Believing in a square deal for the mule, the men that had shunted him into the stall gave three cheers and soid the mule was entitled to his lib-
