

THE ROYAL GUESTS HAVE LEFT VICTORIA

With Regret the People Bid Them Farewell, Wishing Them a Prosperous Journey Home.

AN IMMENSE CROWD GATHERS TO SEE THEM EMBARK

After the bustle and excitement of Tuesday, Their Royal Highnesses woke yesterday morning with the blishest consciousness that they were free to enjoy a brief respite from the drudgery which loyalty imposes upon royalty. They had absolutely no public ceremony to attend and they gave themselves up to quiet enjoyment, shorn of all the pomp and circumstance which usually surrounds them.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Her Royal Highness and some members of the Royal suite drove quietly to Point Ellice bridge where launches from the fleet awaited them. Embarked in these they proceeded up Victoria Arm, drinking in the scenic loveliness for which that favored nook is so far famed. The bright, clear sunlight, melowed by a cooling breeze made the trip delightful. After admiring the beauties of the Gorge the launches were headed for Hon. James Dunsmuir's boat house, where the party landed and made a call upon Mrs. Dunsmuir. The excursionists then returned to the city and returned to Oak Bay hotel for luncheon. His Royal Highness, who is suffering from a cold, did not take part in the trip up the Arm, spending the forenoon peacefully in his rooms at the hotel.

After luncheon the whole party drove through the residential portion of the city, and many a quiet household was surprised and delighted by seeing the Royal visitors drive by their doors. Everywhere along the route where two, three or more of the towns people were gathered together, Their Royal Highnesses were greeted with cheers, and during the whole course of their drive they graciously acknowledged the demonstrations of loyalty, even the little children were not overlooked. In one instance where a sturdy little mite raised his hat in salute, both Their Royal Highnesses leaned from the carriage and smiled and bowed in return. Their Royal Highnesses expressed themselves as delighted with the beauties of Victoria, and the peaceful, homelike scenes through which they were driven.

A PRESENT FROM ATLIN. The bracelet of gold nuggets sent by the miners of Atlin for the Duchess of Cornwall and York was presented this afternoon at the Mount Baker hotel, Oak Bay. Sir Henri Joly de Lothbiniere introduced Mrs. M. E. Hitchcock, who in a few well-chosen words made the presentation. Her Royal Highness after receiving the gift, desired Mrs. Hitchcock to express to the donors in her name the sincere pleasure she felt in accepting so unusual and beautiful a souvenir of Atlin's loyalty. Her Royal Highness asked several questions concerning the mines, and was intensely interested in the details of mining life. The bracelet is a unique bit of jewellery, being composed of a double row of nuggets, to which are suspended five larger nuggets on each of which is a letter in relief forming the word ATLIN. It is the work of the jewelry firm of Jules Regent & Son, of Atlin, B. C.

AT THE JUBILEE HOSPITAL. Their Royal Highnesses Visit the Sick and Suffering. At 4:30 Their Royal Highnesses, with their suite, visited the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital. The visit was quite informal and had not been arranged by invitation. Their Royal Highnesses expressed a wish to see the institution which the people of Victoria had built as a memorial of the jubilee of Her Gracious Majesty Victoria, and which was dedicated by His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught.

On arrival at the hospital the Royal visitors were received by C. A. Holland, Esq., president of the board of directors, who presented the other members of the board, Miss Alcorn, the matron, and Dr. Hasell, resident physician. The royal party were then taken through the establishment by Dr. Hasell and Miss Alcorn. Their Royal Highnesses showed the deepest interest in everything and spoke a few words of cheer to each patient as they moved through the wards. Many escaped their notice. In the operating room His Royal Highness examined the rubber bed which covers the operating table and asked if it was an American invention, as he did not remember having seen anything like it at home.

Nurse Tomlin, who is ill with pneumonia, was honored by a special visit, and both Their Royal Highnesses chatted pleasantly with her, wishing her a speedy recovery. Noticing a nurse with a baby in her arms, Her Royal Highnesses inquired about the child, and she and the ladies of the party prattled to the pretty baby boy, patting his rosy cheeks and worshipping him, after the manner of women kind, be they of high or low degree, when they come within the sphere of influence of an infant mountr.

After their visit to the hospital, Their Royal Highnesses returned to the directors' room, where Mr. Holland presented Mrs. A. J. Smith, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary Association, who was representing that right arm of the hospital service. Miss Potts, on behalf of the Daughters of Pity, then presented Her Royal Highnesses with a special bouquet, which was graciously received and acknowledged. Their Royal Highnesses had prepared a pleasant surprise for the directors and officials of the hospital, which came in the form of a large package containing exquisite mezzotint portraits of themselves and bearing their autographs. These were presented to the hospital with a complimentary reference to the excellence of the arrangements and an expression of the pleasure it gave them to visit such a worthy institution. His Royal Highness was also graciously pleased to promise that on his return home he would have a really good likeness of Her Majesty Queen Victoria sent to the hospital. The altogether unexpected present was received with great pleasure by the directors, who thanks Mr. Holland conveyed to Their Royal Highnesses.

Another pretty incident and the visit came to a close. Little Frank Holland, youngest son of the president, stepped to the front and presented Her Royal Highness with a basket of beautiful flowers, artistically arranged, which was received with the gracious courtesy which marks Her Royal Highness' every act. Their Royal Highnesses then departed, the small assemblage cheering and waving hats and handkerchiefs as they moved down the drive. A memento of the royal visit is recorded in the visitors' book at the hospital, the page dated October 2, 1901, bearing the following signatures: VICTORIA MAY, GEORGE, BRIDGET KEMPPEL (Hon. Mrs.), CHARLES CUST (Sir), ALAN REDVE MANBY (Their Royal Highnesses' personal medical attendant).

R. L. Fraser, M. D., Frank H. Hall, M. D., O. M. Jones, M. D., R. H. Carter, M. D., Dr. Davies (Nanaimo), J. Braverman, Ben Gordon, Joshua Davies, C. A. Holland, Thos. Shotbolt, Alex. Wilson. DEPARTURE FROM OAK BAY. After the visit to the Jubilee hospital, Their Royal Highnesses proceeded to Oak Bay hotel and made preparations for their departure. At 6 o'clock the guard of honor formed up in front of the main entrance and the Duke and Duchess entered their carriage, the guard saluted and with a flourish of trumpets and three hearty cheers from the hotel people and by-standers, they drove away.

AT THE OUTER WHARF. Shortly before their departure from Oak Bay hotel Their Royal Highnesses summoned Mr. and Mrs. Virtue, the proprietor and his wife, to their presence, and after thanking them for the excellent arrangements provided for themselves and suite, His Royal Highness presented Mr. Virtue with a beautiful gold pin, while Her Royal Highness handed Mrs. Virtue two splendid signed portraits. His Royal Highness complimented him on the perfect comfort and convenience of the hotel. Twilight was approaching as the royal pair drove through the streets on their way to the outer wharf, and the crowd which thronged the streets could catch but an imperfect sight of them. Their progress was marked with cheers and acclamations, and when the vehicle of the outer wharf was reached they found an immense crowd assembled to wish them good bye and God speed. As on the occasion of their landing, the general public was not admitted to the wharf, but His Worship Mayor Hayward, the aldermen, city clerk, members of the reception committee, members of the provincial government and a few other prominent citizens were in attendance to bid farewell. The detachment of Royal Artillery, which arrived recently from China, furnished the guard of honor and attracted the admiration of the spectators.

Their Royal Highnesses requested the Mayor to convey to the citizens of Victoria their appreciation of the kind treatment they had received from the people of the city. They had enjoyed their stay here very much indeed, particularly yesterday, when they had had a good opportunity of seeing the beauties of the city and its surroundings. In parting the Duke and Duchess shook hands cordially with the Mayor, aldermen and city clerk and presented the Mayor with their photographs and autographs. The royal party dined and spent the evening on board the Empress, which sailed at 1 o'clock this morning for Vancouver, conveyed by the warships of the fleet.

At six bells 8 o'clock went up from the Wasp and instantly the Empress and the fleet blazed out in electric lights. The effect was very beautiful, the sea being perfectly calm, the ships outlined in light, were reflected in the water, making a fairytale picture. Thus ended one of the most memorable events in the history of Victoria. Their Royal Highnesses were graciously pleased to assure all those with whom they spoke on the subject, that they were delighted with the city and the reception accorded them. Their simple, gentle courtesy and the kindness of heart, which they manifested a thousand times during their brief stay, has endeared them to the hearts of Victorians, and will be a part of the memories of October the first and second, 1901, will linger as the most precious in the lives of many thousands who were able to estimate the character of the royal people whom they have the privilege to acknowledge as their future rulers. They came, they saw, they conquered—an easy victory when the city which capitulated to them was won by their good graces and unpretensions simplicity.

VISITED EMPRESS. Large Number Went on Board the Big Liner Yesterday. All day yesterday a steady stream of visitors went to the outer wharf to see the R. M. S. Empress of India with her array of flags stretched from stem to stern, and the gaily dressed fleet of warships which lay off the harbor entrance to escort the royal yacht port tem. Even before "eight bells" was sounded early yesterday morning, and with the sound of the last bell the dressing of bunting was hoisted, there were numbers of people at the outer wharf to witness the pretty scene. The fleet looked beautiful yesterday, G. Cote against.

for the bright summer sun was bringing out the array of color to the fullest extent, and from when the flags were run up at eight o'clock and the band of H. M. S. Waspette played the National Anthem, until they were hauled down when the bugles rang out at sundown, the sight-seers came and went. The cars were taxed to the utmost. Several other steamers came in to the outer wharf during the day, including the Kaga Maru and the Aorangi. As the Kaga came in to the wharf at 8:10 a.m., the band of the flagship was playing "Ma Tiger Lily," and then the musicians switched from the cake walk melodies to pleasing waltzes. Launches came and went, and there were pretty scenes on every hand.

PATRIOTIC MUSICIAN. Came from Kamloops to Play Before King's Son. The visit of Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall to this city has been the signal of many displays of patriotism, one of the most interesting of which has just come under notice. Among the handmen under the leadership of Bandmaster Finn who assembled on the outer wharf with the guard of honor to play the National Anthem, was an old, grey-whiskered bandman, and his eyes were continually on the gangway built to allow of the debarcation of Their Royal Highnesses. When Their Royal Highnesses had debarbed, and after being welcomed by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and presented to the members of the executive and others assembled on the wharf, started to walk towards the waiting carriages, the guard of honor presented arms, and as the command was given for the salute to the passing royal couple, the band struck up the first six bars of the National Anthem, as is customary during such a salute. The old man with the bass tuba played with all the spirit that his music-loving soul could put into those six bars, for he had come all the way from Kamloops to play that six bars of "God Save the King," and he had not only brought his bass tuba but also a piano and an instrument to make them sound.

The old musician had played the same bass tuba before King Edward, then Prince of Wales, when the present King was his music-loving son could put into those six bars, for he had come all the way from Kamloops to play that six bars of "God Save the King," and he had not only brought his bass tuba but also a piano and an instrument to make them sound. The old musician had played the same bass tuba before King Edward, then Prince of Wales, when the present King was his music-loving son could put into those six bars, for he had come all the way from Kamloops to play that six bars of "God Save the King," and he had not only brought his bass tuba but also a piano and an instrument to make them sound.

SCRIBES ENTERTAINED. Visiting Newspapermen Taken for a Drive and Given a Luncheon. The newspapermen who are accompanying Their Royal Highnesses were yesterday entertained by the Mayor and local members of the fraternity. In the morning they were taken for a drive around the park and in the afternoon they were entertained by the city at a luncheon at the Hotel Driard. Mayor Hayward occupied the chair and the vice-chairman was Senator Kirchoff. The party had considerable time to themselves while in Victoria and spent it in seeing the places of interest.

THE TRIP EAST. The royal party will take their train at Vancouver early this morning and proceed to Banff, where Her Royal Highness and several members of the suite will rest for a couple of days. His Royal Highness going on, with some of the gentlemen of the suite, to the forty miles west of Winnipeg, where he will enjoy a day's shooting, making his headquarters at Senator Kirchoff's lodge at Chiswick, Iowa. Her Royal Highness will rejoin the Prince at Poplar Point and they will then go straight through to Toronto.

WORK STOPPED. Extension Tunnel Found Still Unfit for Men to Enter. Nanaimo, Oct. 3.—(Special)—There was little development concerning the Extension mine accident today except that the tunnel was found unfit to enter yesterday afternoon about 75 men were engaged in it. Work was to continue in the eastern workings today, but gas was found in such quantities that it was necessary to stop work. A black damp is leaking through the stoppings. The presence of so much black damp strengthens the theory that the fire may be one, as it is thought that the fire will give off such much of this gas is present.

The railway to the Harewood mine of the New Vancouver Coal Company is being pushed forward. Coal will now be shipped to the company's wharves, which will likely increase the output from the company's mines. The railway to Harewood mine leaves the road to 5 shaft and follows the Chase river to the mouth of the pit.

Westminster's Exciting Day Y. M. C. A. Team of Vancouver Beat the Champions at Lacrosse.

The Day Was a Record One For Attendance at the Exhibition.

From Our Own Correspondent. New Westminster, Oct. 3.—Today was a record one for the attendance at the exhibition. The change to cooler weather was appreciated by the public and crowds began arriving early in the forenoon. These included excursions from Chilliwack and from Whatcom. The morning was occupied by horse races, which were run off well. Chilly horses from the lower Mainland competed, but the track is not favorable for record time.

Being a civic holiday here and civic holiday in Vancouver, the crowd began to increase directly after noon. The chief attraction was the lacrosse match, Y. M. C. A. of Vancouver v. New Westminster, but first there was a grand parade of stock, the string of horses and cattle alone more than circling the athletic grounds.

Following this was a great tug of war. Nainaimo beat the first team, and the quick order of the day was the Y. M. C. A. of Vancouver, who won eventually, and subsequently repeated the performance in an exhibition pull. The Royal Italian band, which plays in the opera house tonight, was on the grounds and played at intervals during the lacrosse match. By three o'clock a crowded excursion train via C. P. R. from Vancouver, arrived, and several Vancouver city team cars were requisitioned to bring crews to the grounds. About 1,500 people were present, and it is estimated that ten thousand people were on the grounds when Referee C. L. Cullin, of Victoria, faced the ball off. The teams were the same as met on Monday, except that the Y. M. C. A. replaced Wickens by Malcom. From the start it was seen that the game was over, with the last time, and the Y. M. C. A. scored the first goal in 4 1/2 minutes and backed it up by scoring again in nine minutes. Before the first quarter was over the Vancouver score was 34 minutes, and in the next quarter pulled even with the visitors.

In the third quarter neither side scored and it looked like a tie. However, after seven minutes' play the visitors scored another goal, and that was the last, though they played thirteen minutes longer.

The match was admitted to be the hardest and fastest game ever played in the province. It was good, clean lacrosse as a rule, but several players were ruled off. In the second quarter Turnbull was laid out and his up-slip required several stitches. Turnbull resumed play. This was the only serious hurt except Chyrens, the local goal-keeper, who was struck by the ball and knocked out for a few minutes.

The result of the match makes it necessary for a third game on Saturday to entice the visitors to the full $1,000 and percentage of gate money. H. M. S. Condon arrived this afternoon and will remain in port till Saturday night.

On Their Way East Royal Party Leave Vancouver Amid Cheers and Boom of Guns. Coast Indians Make Present to the Duchess of Chief's Headdress. And the Duke Promises to Take Their Greetings to the King.

Vancouver, Oct. 3.—An enormous crowd of people witnessed the departure of the Royal party from Vancouver today. The Italian band was present and played "God Save the King" as the train moved out. The Indians were admitted to the station enclosure, all others were barred. The Indians were so delighted with the graciousness of Their Royal Highnesses in consenting to meet them this morning, that they decided to present the Duchess with the Kitikom-Shamorgat, which being interpreted means the hat of the chiefs, an article regarded by them with the greatest veneration and of priceless value owing to its antiquity and association. This head dress had been worn by Indian chiefs for many generations. It is made of wood elaborately carved. The top is of fringe composed of hundreds of hairs and braids from the beards of sea lions. Falling from the back of this crown is a mantle composed of 100 emu feathers.

At 12:30 p. m. the Indians were presented to Their Royal Highnesses. The gift of the Kitikom-Shamorgat seemed to please the Duchess very much. She accepted it with a few gracious words. The Duke made the following reply to the address of the Indians, interpreted by the Rev. Mr. Green: "To the Chief and People of Fort Simpson."

"The Duchess and I sincerely thank you for your kind greetings, we are touched to think that you traveled so great a distance to see us, and we trust that you will all return in safety to your homes. I shall have much pleasure in conveying your loyal greetings to the King and Queen, and I am certain His Majesty will continue to watch over his Indian subjects, as did our late beloved and deeply lamented Queen."

Others among the Indians, the Fort Simpson tribe congregated on the wharf were addressed in a similar manner. Jack Tars from the fleet were lined up on the platform as well as a body guard from the local militia. The Duke and Duchess bade good-bye to the officers of the fleet and the members of the Vancouver reception committee, but the mass of good-will stars and the cheering in for most attention. The goat was lined up with the rest, his horns held by two jack tars. His Majesty laughingly pointed the goat out to the Duchess, who, walking over, patted him on the head. His Goatship ungraciously attempted to resist this particular mark of condescension, but was firmly held by the jack tars.
