He is not the candidate of the business men, of the working men, of the solid men main those who interfere with their neighbors' business, who want to make their fellow-citizens moral by legislation, who trade on their plety and who denounce those whom they allege are sinners and evil-doers. There is too much hypocrisy in Mr. Howland's camp for a man who has studied municipal affairs for years, who has discovered new ideas in matters civic, and who is prepared to advise and conduct a new departure. On such a platform he would be entitled to support. He is before the people on his ewn good opinion of himself solely.

Mr. Manning is entitled to a second term, and will get it. He has been faithful, he has been honest, he has a grasp of civic government that is not possessed by any other citizen, and will in the coming year assist in the carrying out of schemes that are for the advancement of Toronto's welfare. But he will not be a party to any thing rash, to anything uncertain, and he will manage economically in so far as it is in his power so to do.

The Previoud Toronto is the carrying and will be a party to any thing rash, to anything uncertain, and he will manage economically in so far as it is in his power so to do.

The Previoud Toronto is in King's county, N. B., with his old antagonist Mr. Domville. The latter runs as an independent conservative. The Riel question has not been made an issue in the campaign.

Meanwhile Russia is not idle in other directions. Her still hunt after more territory is reported to be in progress in Thibet, where her explorers and other emissaries are spying out the land. They will be followed by a military expedition to protest the interests which they shall have established, and another big piece of territory will be added to the already overgrown Muscovite empire. The marvel is that the glutton of the nations has not before now died of repletion.

The ruling of Judge Macdougall to the effect that clerical editors must pay their taxes like other citizens is accepted with a good grace by the Canada Presbyterian, "because," the editor says, "we pay our taxes anyway." The editor of the Christian Guardian is not so well satisfied, and dissents at great length. We know of nothing better designed to weaken the legitimate influence of clergymen of every class than this continual close-fisted haggling over contributions to the public purse which many a poor workingman pays without a murmur. The demise of the Mahdi has not had that pacifying effect upon the Soudan which it was reasonable to hope that it would have had. The Chinese are no longer so popular with the employers of California as they once were. One reason for this is that they have imbibed a number of the Melican man's notions concerning the right to organize and strike for higher wages. Another reason is the discovery that what is bad for one class of the community is bad for all classes. The Caucasian workingman is a consumer. Editor World: If the mayoralty election tempose that the workingman is the only one who feels the pressure of Chinese competition. The cigar manufacturers of San Francisco are now bringing on hundreds of workingmen from the east to fill the places of the Chinamen who have been let go. If this movement assumes the proportions predicated of it, it will do something to relieve the pressure on the overcrowded labor market of the east.

A cable despatch which gives a deleful description of the condition of the British shipping interest, particularly that portion of it more intimately associated with the great Scottah porta, where scores of valuable vessels are said to be rusting away at their wharves, proceeds to say that the one bright spot upon the horizon of the ship owners is the report from the Clyde that few new vessels are in course of contraction there. This is all very well for the ship owners, but it is quite a different thing for the ship owners, but it is quite a different thing for the ship owners, but it is quite a different thing for the ship owners, but it is quite a different thing for the ship owners, but it is quite a different thing for the ship owners, but it is quite a different thing for the ship owners, but it is quite a different thing for the ship owners, but it is quite a different thing for the ship owners, but it is quite a different thing for the ship owners have been lad enough of late years.
