A YEAR WITH THE GUILD.

Encouraging Reports Presented and Hope ful Addresses Delivered.

A large assemblage of ladies, with a sprinkling of the sterner sex, dilled the beautiful auditorium of the Young Women's Christian Guild last night on the occasion of the annual meeting of the members of the guild. Interesting of the sterner sex, filled the beautiful auditorium of the Young Women's Christian Guild last night on the occasion of the annual meeting of the members of the guild. Interesting and approhative of the aims of the institution were the addresses delivered by Messrs. Samuel Biake, Q.C., W. H. Howland, Rev. James Henderson and Dr. James Beaty, Q.C. Mr. Blake in a few words explained the aims and present financial condition of the Guild.

The new building, with the land on which it stands, cost the sum of $36,000, of which $10,000 has already been subscribed and paid. Of the halance $20,000 consists of a mortgage on the property, the $6000 being carried over by a few friends, of the Guild. Of the furnishing fund there is yet $1000 to be raised. This amount, however, will not be long unpaid if the activity displayed last year by the working members is continued. There is now a membership of $00, which is rapidly increasing. During the past year 243 situations have been provided for girls in need of employment, and 108 have been directed to suitable boarding houses. Many girls have been assisted in various ways, and the Guild has proved a blessing to great numbers of working girls in the city, by providing for them a place of resort and recreation as well as means for the development of their spiritual and mental faculties.

Mrs. John Harvie, the president of the Y. W. C. G., addressed the audience briefly, giving many details of the institution's work. She spoke hopefully of the prospects for the future, and urged the members and their friends to increase their efforts for the furtherance of the good work undertaken by the Guild.

Gossip from Chicago.

Kennett, Hopkins & Co. to R. Cochran: Pardrigge was supporting wheat to-day, having covered largely of July. Foreign advices begin to reflect our weakness. Outside markets have been materially weaker than Chicago, some hot wind damage reports from Kansas, but it is thought they come from parties who sent the damage reports last month on account of rain. The situation is not promising for bolders. Corn and oats—The opening was very weak, but shorts covered freely, advancing corn? cents from the bottom. The weather is extremely hot for corn. Receipts are increasing rapidly and it looks as if lower prices were in store. Provisions opened heavy in sympathy with other markets, but the market and sustained it fairly well.

heavy buying by a local speculator rallied the market and sustained it fairly well.

Swartz, Dupee & McCorniek to John J. Dixon & Co.; July wheat opened at 78c to 78½c, gradually advancing through the day and closing at 19½c. The buying to-day was mostly for short to the finish. The cables were weak, the receipts were large at all points west, and decrease in the visible supply only 1,200,000 bushels. The report from Kansas of firmness at the close, though a reaction after a 10 cent decline, was only fair to expect. Weather conditions continue to influence prices. Corn opened very weak with free selling for outside account on stop orders, buying was to cover shorts and by local traders who thought to purchase. Oats followed the other grains, July opened at 28½c, and between the conditions continue to influence prices. Corn opened very weak with large purchase, by the local operators selling by commission houses. Pork opened weak but soon recovered.
