

WEEKLY MONITOR.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

A VICTORIA COUNTY (ONT.) PEDDLER BEFORE THE COURTS. DETECTED IN SELLING A PINK COLORED PILL, WHICH HE REPRESENTS TO BE DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS—THE COURT GRANTS A PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION RESTRAINING HIM FROM OFFERING FOR SALE THE GREAT MEDICINE—SOME PARTS OF THE PUBLIC WILL DO WELL TO BEAR IN MIND.

In the High Court of Justice yesterday morning before Mr. Justice Merivale the case of Falford v. McGahey was heard. It consisted of a motion for an injunction to restrain Fred McGahey from selling pills which he claimed to be Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Mr. Douglas E. Armore appeared for the plaintiff and the defendant had been peddling these goods about Victoria County, claiming them to be Dr. Williams' genuine Pink Pills. It was impossible, however, on the face of it, that they could be genuine, as he sold them grossly below what they cost at wholesale price. The defendant had given consent. Mr. Armore said that the motion should be granted to the order of the court.

The above paragraph, taken from the legal columns of the Toronto Globe of the 15th inst., contains a warning which every person in Canada in need of a medicine will well to heed. It shows the care and pains the Dr. Williams Medicine Company takes to protect the public from imposition, and to preserve the reputation of their famous Pink Pills.

It is because of this great merit, and the consequent enormous demand for the medicine, that it is being imitated by unscrupulous persons in various parts of the country. The imitation is cheap, usually worthless, and is only passed because the imitator can make more money by its sale than he can by the sale of the genuine Pink Pills. Hence the pains he takes to sell the imitation.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company annually spends thousands of dollars endeavoring to impress upon the public that the genuine Pink Pills can only be purchased in one form—namely in packages enclosed in a wrapper (or label), which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." No one can buy them in any other form, not even if they are sold in times their weight in gold for them. And yet in the face of these continuous warnings there are people confident enough to permit some unscrupulous dealer to convince them that he can supply them with the genuine Pink Pills in loose form by the dozen or hundred, or ounce, or in some other kind of a box. Any one who pretends to be able to do this is selling an untruth. Bear this in mind and refuse all pills that do not bear the full trade mark, no matter if they are colored pink, and no matter what the dealer says.

Please bear in mind also that the formula from which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is a secret known only to the company, and any one who claims he can supply them in some other pill "just as good" is guilty of misrepresentation, for he does not know the ingredients of the genuine Pink Pills and is only trying to sell you some other pill, because he makes more money on it.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company is determined to spare no expense in protecting, both the public and themselves, against these unscrupulous imitators, and will always be thankful to receive information concerning anyone who offers to sell an imitation Pink Pill purporting to be Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or the same as the genuine Pink Pills. Such cases will be investigated by the company's detective and the names of those persons giving the information will not be made public, while any expense entailed in sending as the information will be promptly refunded.

Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and ask nothing else. They cure what all other medicines fail.

The Happy Home. Where lies the secret sorrow that distorts the heart-peace and spoils all the lures of worldly good and honor? It is in the woman that lies at the root of the home-life. It is of little account to a man to be prosperous in his store or his office or his pulpit if he is wretched at his own hearthstone. On the other hand, a wife who is not content, who is a source of adversity, and even to be ignored by a society, if her husband is loving and her children affectionate and obedient. But a husband's unkindness is a dry sorrow that drinks her heart's blood. Our sweetest and most contented wife can be distressed by the hands that ought to clasp our own most closely. Well, as many of us can testify, means the sweetest joy that earth can know; but who is it that to some women is a source of pain? It is their own household. Good Philip Henry said that he and his wife adopted a rule that only one of them would get angry at the same time. That "soothed" the serpent of conjugal quarrel. Another equally good rule is to allow fifteen minutes before any reply is made to an irritating utterance. All this sort of little virtues in the home-nest that are fatal to domestic happiness, can only be exterminated by gentleness, civility, unselfish, forbearing, all-conquering love.

Slow Poison. "I suppose I have sold millions of cigarettes in my life," remarked a tobacconist yesterday, "and I often wonder whether my doing so will be placed against my credit in the next world. It is the one part of my business that I positively loathe. I never think that the rate cigarettes are now being consumed—and the rate is steadily increasing—the effect will be decidedly apparent in the next generation of mankind. The cigarette is a form of slow poison which while it may not result in death, must necessarily leave its effects upon the human system. You may not believe this, but during my whole career I have often noticed that if files are shut in the case where cigarettes are kept they will be gone in five minutes. The very atmosphere seems to poison them. On the other hand, I have placed files in cigar cases that I am sure are empty and they show not the slightest evidence of discoloration."

Gravel and Kidney Disease Quickly Cured—Relief can be Obtained Within Six Hours. I have been troubled with gravel and kidney disease for eight years, during which time I have tried numerous remedies and different doctors without any permanent benefit. At times the pain in the left kidney was so severe that I could not lie down and remain in one position any length of time, except by the aid of morphine. I procured a bottle from A. S. Goodale, druggist, and taking it according to the directions, I recommend all who are afflicted with this dangerous trouble to try Goodale's Kidney Cure a trial. Signed, Michael McMullen, Chalmers, Ont. Sold by S. N. Wear.

—Miserable's Lament. Goodale's Kidney Cure, etc.

Jameson's Romantic Life.

PHYSICIAN, SCIENTIST, EXPLORER, SOLDIER AND ADVENTURER. "No one could have a greater history of vicissitudes than I have." So said Dr. Jameson at the close of the past week's campaign. The events of the last few weeks would almost seem to point to the fact that he has changed his opinion.

Dr. Jameson is a Scotchman, and strange stories of his youth are told, and some of the companions of his boyhood remember how, to get fruit for them out of his father's garden, he would dig up the canes and take them to the household. He was educated for the medical profession, and was in good practice in Kimberley when Mr. Rhodes picked him out to write a correspondent of the Westminster Gazette. David to his profession though he was, and making a large income, nothing was sufficient when the opportunity came to overcome his desire to play a prominent part in the opening up of Mashonaland, and his conduct all through the Mashonaland troubles is written large in South African history. Dr. Jameson resembles Mr. Cecil Rhodes, with whom for upward of twenty years he has been on terms of the very closest intimacy, and in many respects resembles the simplicity of life. When I visited Kimberley in 1887 I met Dr. Jameson, who was then in leading practice as a physician. He occupied the same lodgings as Mr. Rhodes, and consisted of one sitting room and one bedroom, all needs being taken at the club. It is not generally known that Mr. Rhodes owes the preservation of his life to Dr. Jameson, who attended him assiduously night and day all through the dangerous illness, when there was little, if any, hope of his recovery. Dr. Jameson's treatment and nursing at this critical time laid the foundation of the lasting friendship between him and the Cape Premier.

HIS FIRST MISSION. Dr. Jameson's connection with Mr. Rhodes in the eighties was, as already hinted, the turning point in his life. When the infant operations of the future chartered company were in danger of being suddenly put an end to by Lobengula, Dr. Jameson made his way, and remained until the presence of the dusky king. It was a exceedingly daring thing to do, and, whatever he may have thought himself, his friends were certainly of opinion that he would never return. But the war was ill and Dr. Jameson's fame as a medicine man had penetrated to Lobengula's court. He was, therefore, called upon to cure the king. This, fortunately, he succeeded in doing. Lobengula and all his retinue were delighted, and the doctor obtained the concession he was in quest of, but permission for the pioneer force to march through Mashonaland.

When Fort Salisbury had been established the question arose as to direct routes to the coast. Jameson took the matter in hand. Accompanied by Major Johnson, he marched from Fort Salisbury to Sarumato, on the Pungwe river, then an unexplored region, and so on to Beira. The Beira railway was the result.

It was on his return from this terrible journey that Jameson received the post of administrator of Mashonaland. Later came the Mashonaland war, which, if its necessity be admitted, even his greatest detractors would declare Jameson carried through in a manner worthy of him. For his services in Rhodesia the doctor received a C. B. ship about a year ago.

FEED BY ROYALTY. It was about the same time that Dr. Jameson and Cecil Rhodes were feted in England and entertained by royalty at the Imperial Institute, in the company of such guests as the late Lord Chancellors, the Duke of Eifel, Earl Grey, Lord Fairplay, Sir Frederick Leighton, Sir R. Herbert and Sir C. Mills. The Prince of Wales on that occasion, amid the enthusiasm of nearly 3000 hearers, thanked Dr. Jameson for his "most interesting and excellent address," and "hoped that he would continue to be most successful in his work in South Africa, and it was also on the same occasion that Dr. Jameson expressed his belief that Rhodesia "must be a great factor in what he hoped would yet be attained, viz. a commercial union of the different states of South Africa. He ventured to think that within a reasonable time even the Transvaal would join in a much desired confederation."

SAVED KROGER'S LIFE. We have stated that Mr. Cecil Rhodes would be brought back to health by the use of the medicine. Dr. Gowers President Kruger does the same. Jameson, shortly before he became administrator, was summoned from Kimberley to Pretoria to attend the president during a dangerous illness, and brought him back to health. The president is not likely to have forgotten, and probably Jameson will now be glad that he has at least some personal claim to the president's favorable consideration.

"Within 12 Hours After First Dose the Pain Left me."—Rheumatism of Seven Years' Standing. I have been a victim of rheumatism for seven years, being confined to bed for months at a time. I have tried every remedy that has been treated by many physicians in this part of the country, none of whom benefited me. I was told to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I was induced to get a bottle of South American Rheumatic Cure from Mr. Taylor, Druggist, of Owen Sound. At the time I was suffering agonizing pain, but inside of twelve hours after I took the first dose, the pain left me. I continued until I took three bottles, and I consider I am completely cured. Signed, J. D. McLeod, Leith, N. O. Ont. Sold by S. N. Wear.

The Poor Man's Chances. Robert J. Burdette gives us many instances of great men who were poor boys that it would almost seem as if poor boys have a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he will soon own everything, and run the Texas man out of the country. He has crowded the rich out. But for the poor man the world would have cast another six thousand years ago, and be covered with snow and ice, and the world would be a monopoly on success. He says: "The poor man takes all the chances without waiting to have one given him. If you give him any more chances than he takes, he