A GREAT-BLESSING For Weak and Suffering Woman.

Every Man and Woman in America, needs KIDNEY-WORT.

"The greatest misfortune of the present day," remarks the author of a recent medical treatise of much value, "in that mothers and wives of to-day are so often unitted for their duties, and for all domestic enjoyment, by reason of shattered health and overtasked systems. For those special weaknesses to which womankind is so apt to fall victims, no surer, better or safer remedy can be found than Kidney-Wort. The wonderful tonic properties of this great remedy have specific action in correcting the disorders of female organism, and then in building up the general health, keeping the secretory organs in perfect order and imparting the glow and classicity of early womanhood."

A PHYSICIAN'S WIFE'S TROUBLES.

"Domestic remedies and prescriptions by myself (a practicing physician) and other doctors, only palifated my wife's chronic, two years standing, inflammation of the bladder. Kidney-Wort, however, cured her." These are extracts from a letter, sent to the proprietors, of this remedy, by it author, Dr. O. M. Summerlin, of Sun Hill, Washington Co., Georgis. The list of cures might be prolonged almost indefinitely. For the purpose of this arti-that, though the prisoner was present, he was cle, however, only a few more will be adis a disease which attacks the human family in spring, and has formed the chief subject of many learned articles. We cannot pass from this subject without supplementing it with the assertion that Kidney-Wort is a specific for other disesses than Malaria, and such disorders as may be directly traceable to it. Dyspepsia or Indigestion is a most distressing complaint. Every reader of this article probably knows the symptoms. The effects are widespread and far-reaching. Almost the en-tire human organism is apt to become deranged when dyspepsin is suffered to run on unchecked. Kidney-Wort can be relied upon, reader, to cure any case of Malaris, Dyspensia, Kidney and Liver Troubles and a host of their kindred or attendant ills. All we ask is a trial. That will make you its life-long friend.

It is a matchless alterative a pleasant yet powerful tonic, and, indeed, "fills the bill" as a peerless, pleasant, powerful preparation. As near as mortals may be able to reach perfection, Kidney-Wort may safely be called perfect. It is not a compound of herbs, alleged to have been discovered by some mythical missionary, whilst in some imagin-ary "foreign land." Kidney-Wort is a preparation, however, combining all the essential ingredients of far advanced thinkers, and scientific men who labor for the amelloration of human ills. Buy a bottle, and you will, if afflicted, agree with thousands of others who have done so and found themselves renewed thereby in health and spirits.

THE AUGUSTINIAN SOCIETY.

SALEM, Mass., May 1 .- The case of the Augustinian Society, of Lawrence, came before the Insolvency Court today. Father McAvoy, president of the society, testified that he did not positively know the history of its real estate transactions, and did not approximately know the condition of its finances. His testimony showed great ignorance of the affairs of the institution. He admitted that mortgages were early given to appense clamorous depositors, parti- might have prepared them for the event. oularly the larger ones. Father Rengan, treasurer of the society, testified that he did not approximately know the financial standing of the concern. Three mortgages were taken by him. He knew he was giving preference to two depositors over working girl depositors and believed this action right. The society's affairs were in the dark in 1881, and Smith, a Philadelphia expert, worked six months on the books and went away completely broken down. He was an old man and took six months to show that he was incompetent. Dennis Sullivan was engaged on May 1st, 1882. He had not previously hept books to Reagan's knowledge. Reagan stated that within two years he allowed suits to go to judgment, the society to pay costs in addition to the principal sued for rather than submit to a demand to pay claims in a burned four miles off Seymour Narrows on specified time. He admitted taking a deposit on January 23rd, and believed then that the society could pay its debts. Its unsound condition was not fally apparent to him until a week later.

ABBOR DAY.

CIECULAR FROM THE COMMISSIONER OF CROWN LANDS.

QUEBEC, May 3 .- Hon. Mr. Lynch has issued to the various mayors of municipalities and others concerned a very interesting circular respecting the proclamation of Arbor Day in the various parts of the province, and containing, besides directions for the planting of trees, a copy of a letter from Mr. Joly, suggesting to the Council of Public Instruction the action subsequently taken by them with respect to public schools. In introducing his circular Hon. Mr. Lynch says:-"The following contains what has been done in the v re of Quebec towards the establishment of 'Arbor Day.' I have nothing to add except to express the earnest hope that the movement now inaugurated may have for its happy result the creation of an interest among our people generally in this undertaking, which has exceeded so admirably elsewhere, and which, if persevered in, is certain to redound to the welfare of the province, now and for all time to come. If 'Arbor Day' becomes one of our institutions, the credit is largely due to Mr. Joly, whose efforts on its behalf have been untiring, and I desire here to express my personal gratitude for the assistance he has so generously rendered me in the discharge of my efficial duties in connection with it."

SCENE IN THE COURT HOUSE.

ficinerny, the prisoner's counsel—He is an old American ovrnalist-01smsy of the Crown Prosecutors.

Durin; May 3 .-- The tables have been suddenly, and I must say unexpectedly, turned on the Crown in the matter of the Phoenix Park murder trials. At the close of the proceedings last evening Mr. Samuel Lee Anderson, the Crown Solicitor, expressed himself confidently on the chances of a verdict against Fitzbarris as an accessory before the fact and an actual accomplice in the perpenation of the orime. The testimony of the Crown was precisely that given in the other cases. The informers detailed all the circumstances previously sworn to the meetings and conference preceding the journey to the park, the tatal scenes at the place of murder and the after-proceedings of the conspirators. The independent witnesses produced on the trials of Brady, Curley and the others repeated their evidence, and all identified Fitzharris as having been in the park on the 6th of May. This was unnecessary evidence for the Crown, however, as the theory of the defense was Bo in the legitimate and innocent exercise of his ordinary calling as a car driver.

At the opening of court this morning there was great excitement, not only in the neighborhood of Green street, but all over the city. Some people, but I must say the fewest in number, formed opinion that the jury would be glad of any failure of positive testimony as an excuse for mercy; others, with whom the wish was father to the thought, clung to the certaintles of conviction, but the weight of expectancy was certainly with the idea of another disagreement of the jury. The Orown lawyers never took in the possibility of an acquittal.

The court was crowded, and when the case for the prosecution had closed, some astonishment was manifested by the announcement of the prisoner's counsel that no witnesses would be produced for the defence. The wisdom of this course was acknowledged by leading members of the bar. The line of defence decided on was one that no testimony could aid, and then there was the advantage that the non-production of a witness for the defence shut off the most damaging of all appeals to the jury box, the speech of the Orown in reply to the evidence.

Mr. Molnerny, a young lawyer, is to be credited with this prudential policy. It may be interesting to learn that this promising advocate was for some time a lawyer in New York, and a journalist, too, in connection with the N. Y. Star under its original management. He returned to his native Clare some ten years ago, and "put in his terms" for the Irish bar, and now, a member of the Muneter Circuit, is pursuing his way to fame and fortune. Judge O'Brien's charge to the jury was characterized by more fairness and impartiality than any of his preceding efforts. The jury retired for consideration of their verdict. Their return to court was watched with painful interest. Before the reading of the verdict, it was evident from the looks and demeanor of the toreman and his associates that no unfavorable result had been arrived at, and when the question, "How say you gentlemen of the jury," etc., put by the Olerk of the Orows, was answered by an emphatic "Not guilty," there was a manifest sonse of relief in court—a faint attempt, speedily suppressed, to make demonstration of applause, but outside the result, which became known as if by electric rapidity, was received by loud and prolonged cheering. The prisoner seemed overpowered by the verdict, and the Crown prosecutors were evidently dismayed, though the Judge's charge

LOSS OF THE STEAMER , GRAPPLER." BEACHED ON THE VANCOUVER COAST - GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

San Francisco, May 3 .- News of the burning of the steamer "Greppler" has been brought to Nanaimo, BC. The vessel was Sunday night. Fire was discovered by the engineer, who immediately reported to the captain. A hundred of the passengers, principally Chinamen, were abed. Immediately search was begun by the captain, who discovered the fire at the back of the boller counections. The orgineer started the donkey engine and connected the hose. By this control it being unavailing, the captain ordered the pilot to head the steamer for the Vancouver shore and beach her. As soon as the sands were struck the boats were lowered, but the excitement was so great that the Uhinamen jumped into the boats and swamped them, and, owing to the intense smoke, those who could swim did not know in which direction to strike out, and, surrounded by a mass of struggling Chinamen, were drowned.

TRIAL OF THE PRISONES POSTPONED DEFIL NEXT

L ORIGNAL, S May 1 - Frederick Mann, the Little Bideau murderer, was arraigned before the Assize Court yesterday and a true bill was returned against him. While reading the indictment the clerk's voice at a few points was insudible to Mann, and he coolly ordered the charges to be read louder and to all of them he pleaded not guilty." A Control Mr. J. fence, Amelia Hale, eldest sister of the prisoner, who lives in Tewkesbury, England, and Wm. Cooke, who was almost fitally assaulted by Mann with an axe at the time of the murder. Mr. Maxwell also set up the plea of hereditary insanity on the father's side, and said he desired to have the prisoner further examined by a medical expest. Dr. Buck, Superintendent of the Asylum at London, Ont, was to have been esent, but could not attend. Dr. Howard, of Longue Pointe, a very material witness to the defence, the counsel said, was subronaed, but could not attend, owing to indisposition. Enquiries made concerning the prisoner's history had not been completed. He read two affidavits made by Amelia Hale and Mary Ann Mann mother of the prisoner, the substance of both of which were similar. It was set forth that F. Mann was subject to hereditary insanity. When two years of age he was attacked with smallpox, from the effects of which disease he has since suffered severely in the head. At the age of eleven he was apprenticed to a baker at Fewkesbury, and on the 30th of March, 1877, while delivering bread, the severe fracture of the skull. The surgeon who dressed the head remarked that it would have been well for the unfortunate boy had the accident proved fatal. Sarah Mann, grandmother of the prisoner, became insane, and attempted to murder Amelia Hale, and was confined to an asylum, where she died on the 21st September, 1861. Sarau Mann had one brother who died in a lunatic asylum. A piece of Amelia Hale had been confined in an insane asylum for nine years past; another niece attempted to commit suicide at the age of 16, and is at present in a "home" at Bristol, Mr. Maxwell also presented a number of letters which go to corroborate the foregoing. Mrs. Moore, the wife of a barrister at Tewkesbury, and who taught Sunday echool, said she frequently heard complaints from Mann's mother about his strange conduct, and after the accident to his head she stated that he seemed a great Tewkesbury, has also written to the same as Mrs. Moore. Mr. H. S. Macdonald, Orown Prosecutor, objected to a postponement, contending that the plea of ineanity was intended to be set up at the outset by the defendant's counsel, and it was the latter's duty to prepare for that line of defence. The affidavits read appeared to have been draughted from instructions of the prisoner's counsel. Mesdames Hale and Mann, he held, should have been present to sustain the allegations in these affidavits. There was no evidence that these parties would be present at the next Assizes. There was, however, he said, one good ground for postponement, and that was the absence of William Cooks, as he wished his presence fully as much, if not more, than the counsel for the defence.

Cooke was a matter of great importance, and his absence was the ground upon which he would postpone the case until next assizes, and an order to this effect, he said, would be issued.

Randell, who was captured in company with Mann immediately after the murder, was present, having come from Toronto in answer to a subpons. The Orown prosecutor applied to have him detained until the trial came on agair, but this was not allowed. Dr. Ewing says that William Cooke has

A KENTUCKY TRAGEDY.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., April 28.—Congressman Thompson, who killed Davis,on surrendering made a pathethic speech in court detailing his wrongs. There was profound silence and few dry eyes while Thompson was speaking. Thompson said, "I do not believe I will receive the censure of this people, but whatever is the will of the court I will bow to and bear with it as becomes a good citizen. This has broken up my domestic relations and destroyed my peace and happiness. My daughter, dearer to me than else on carth, is an exile from her home, and an outcast from society. This blood is but an atonement for her terms, and if he had a hundred lives all of them would not atone for this great wrong. I feel I did what every man who has a bome which he loves, and a daughter dear to him, would do it he has courage to defend them from wrong. In this I expect that I will receive the sympathy of the good and virtuous." Thompson was allowed to give $5,000 ball. There is intense sympathy for Thompson though Davis was very popular. Davis has a wife and two children. He was 26 years of sge. Mrs. Thompson is 40 and prominently connected. His widow is a daughter of Geo. Bohsson of Georgetown. The case went to the Grand Jury yesterday, but as yet there is no indictment found. Mrs. Davis' first knowledge of her husband's death was the arrival of the body. She fainted several times, and now suffers from nervous prostra. She never suspected her husband's Infidelity. Miss Buckner came here and went mother of Thompson are espousing her cause and asserting her innocence. On Miss Buck. ner's arrival sho left and is at a friend's house. The lady states that Mrs. Thompson told her Davis was innocent. Thompson's son, aged 14. esponses his mother's side and says Miss Buckner is the cause of the trouble, and if she stays here he will kill her. Miss Buckner declined to say anything. Davis is driver of the horses "Phil Thompson," "So. So" and other fast horses, and was an intimate friend of the Thompson's. An eye-witness says: When Davis left the car he was trying to draw a pistol but when the body was search. ed no pistol was found.

If they protest against methods as obstructing their work, I think those who believe in those torcible methods can be prevalled upon by the management not to interfere with the work of the constitutional agitation until they are afforded a reasonable time to test their plane. Professor Mezzroff, who has resumed work in his laboratory again, after his return from Europe, was visited by a reporter last evening. "What did you think of the Philadelphia Convention?" asked the reporter. "The best answer I can give to that question is to refer you to the article in the London Times, the organ of the British Government published in the cable despatches of this evening. You can see the spirit of English despotism in that. It slaps the Philadelphia Convention in the face for its presumption in even daring to propose a peace policy, and simply refusing to purchase English manufactures, scoffs in its bitterest tones at Irish impotence, and exhorts British tyranny, to make its murderous measures still more galling. If the Irish people will submit to this and still cry peace, then truly, as the Times says: 'They are unfit for national independence.' If the tearers of the olive branch at Philadelphia are encouraged by having their pacific proposals met in this way, I am satisfied."

> A LETTER FROM BISHOP NULTY. WORDS OF INSTRUCTION AND ADVICE FROM THE DISTINGUISHED PATRIOT PRELATE, receipt of the money, Bisnop Nulty writes the following interesting letter:

MULLINGAB, April 9, 1883. MY DEAR SIR: In reply to your letter 1 beg to assure you that I have already duly scknowledged through the Ulster Banking Co. the draft which the Irich Confederation of America have so kindly and generously forwarded to me for the relici of their distressed brethren in this country, and that the money has been distributed in strict and scrupulour compliance with the instructions that accompanied it. The periodical visitation of famine sud want, with which we are so regularly sfillicted in this country, are the plain and direct result of shameful misgovernment, and the necessity under which we are so often placed of living, not on our own earnings but on the earnings of othors, is the most demoralizing effect that the worse form of government can produce. To be obliged to live so often on aims would make any people thriftless, indolent and lozy. Rasb and impulsive spirits, often generous and brave, chafe incessantly under a form of existence so degraded and so unmanly; and, therefore, finding constitutional agitation in. terdicted by unjust laws, they tur. instinct. ively to the dynamite and the dagger of the secret societies.

I have often arraigned the British Government here as being morally responsible for the terrible outrages which it so vehemently condemns, and which every good man deplores. But one cheering result of these terrible famines is found in the fact that the sympathy felt for us by our countrymen abroad and the generosity with which they come to our relief clearly prove that the Irish race in every land under heaven are firmly and closely united in one vast brotherbood and that thus united we are a formidable power, of which England herself is beginning to entertain a salutary respect and fear. Admirable organizations, such as the " Irish Confederation of America," have added immensely to the strength of these feelings. I have not a word of advice to offer, except strongly to recommend the sacrifices which mutual forbearance and toleration will require, and that the minority will always cheerfully submit to the wishes of the majority.

ASTONISHMENT—IN—DUBLIN: Tactics of the Crown Prosecutors to Fix the Crime of Assassination on Brady and Kelly. THE CONDEMNED HEN CLIFFORE LLOYD REBUKED IN PARLIAMENT.

(900)(1989) - 19, 20 (4.

Dunin, May 4.—The city is in a ferment of excitement today. A new set in the terrible tragedy of the Phonix Park a year ago was presented in Green Street Court House this morning and It cannot, however, be said to have been an unrehearsed effect, for you will remember that at the commencement of the triels I foreshadowed probabilities which have now become accomplished facts, venturing the opinion that, after the conviction of the principals in the murder, pleas of guilty would be accepted from the others, and this has occurred a suggesting, too, that there would be conditions of mercy annexed to the plea, and though this has been strenuously denied in court by the representatives of the Crown, no one believes that there is not mental reservation in the denials. The pleas of guilty by accomplices constitute the most positive evidence for the prosecution—far beyond, in effect, the testimony of informers. and force is lent to the opinion of an understanding, direct or indirect between the Crown and the accused, by the circumstantial statements superadded to the ples, and the solemn asseverations of the men, convicted on their own confessions, that the actual perpetrators of the crime were Brady and Kelly. You will remember that Kelly has already been tried twice, with the results of a jury disagreement. While Brady is under sentence of death, Kelly is to be tried again, and the effect of Delaney's declaration today will be disastrous to the prisoner. It is supposed in well informed circles that Delaney will be produced as a witness for the Crown. His name had already been mentioned as a probable informer. He was convicted and sentenced to penal servitude for the attack on Judge Lawson, and was subsequently inoluded in the indictment for the Phonix Park affair. The general feeling is that the Orown has scored its greatest victory in the proceedings of today-but there is the accompanying suspicion that the scene of this forenoon was a well devised coup de theatre reserved for final effect.

The condemned men Brady, Curley and Fagan are kept in rigorous solitary confinement at Kilmainham. They are not communicative, and, though there is no bravado, there are certainly no signs of a breakdown in spirits. They take their meals with relish and pay due attention to the spiritual ministrations of the prison chaplain. Their immediative relatives are allowed to see them, under certain restrictions, twice a week. The news from Clare to-day indicates that the Crown is making no satisfactory headway in the Crusheen and Miltown-Malbay conspiracy cases. Mr. Clifford Lloyd, the Government magistrate conducting the prosecution, has a dose administered to him in Parliament last night that will doubtless abate his zeal, and Mr. Purcell, R.M., who has already, in a case that you know of, exhibited his Dogberry ignorance under the Orimes Act, is faring no better now.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE AND THE QUEENS BIETHDAY.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS IGNOBANT OF THE DATE OF THE ANNIVERSARY - HER MAJESTY NOT CON-SIDERED IN THE BRIDGE CEREMONIES.

Naw York, May 3.-Wherever one went yesterday, whether on 'Change, in the City Hall, in the barrooms and corridors of the big hotels or in resorts where those active spirits known as men about town are usually found discussing the topics of the day, he listened to much comment in regard to the action Mr. J. O'Neill Darragh, the Corresponding of the Brooklyn Bridge Trustees in ap-Becretary of the Irish Confederation of pointing May 24, Queen Victoria's birth-America, recently transmitted to Bishop day, the day for opening that structure Nuity, the patriotic dignitary who presides to the public. A.N. Y. Star reporter made over the Irish Diocese of Mesth, a draft for the round of these places, and in almost money raised by the Confederation to relieve every instance where he heard this topic dis distress in Ireland. In acknowledging the cussed the unanimous judgment was that the action of the Trustees in selecting that day was, to put it mild, a blunder. Many of the critics were very earnest in their language, some of which was of a character that would not for a moment be tolerated at a Methodist love feast. These outspoken critics charge the Trustees with having been guilty of an outrage on the patriotic sentiment of the country by their action, and those officials were in many instances charged with harboring a desire to pour the oil of flattery on the element of imitative English snobbery, which has taken root in this city and now flourishos like a full grown tree, the fruit of which is a large crop of brass buttoned livery.

Mayor Edson, when called upon by the reporter, said : -"I was on the committee which selected

May 24th as the day for opining the bridge. Moreover. I did not know that that day was the anniversary of Queen Victoria's birth. I do not believe the thought entered the heads of any of the committee. President William C. Kingeley, of the Board of Bridge Trustees, was found at his Brooklyn "Was the fact that the Queen's birthday occurred on the 24th taken into consideration in fixing the date for the opening?" asked the reporter.

"If I had been asked," answered Mr Kingsisy, "upon what day the Queen of England was born i would have been compelled to answer that I did not know. If the same question had been asked concerning the date of President Arthur's birth I would have been obliged to give a similer answer. The same was the case, I believe with every member of the Board of Trustees If each member present when the date was disignated had been questioned be would have answered that he did not know the time when the Queen was born. In fact, the matter was not thought of by the Trustees at all. It is my opinion that had the members of the Board been aware that the date splected was objectionable to any body of citizens they would not have done anything to give offence to any one. The time for the opening has been announced to the world, the preparations are well under way, and under the circumstances it would be impossible to change the day, even if a change was desirable."

"Of course we never thought of Queen Victoria or her birthday in connection with the date for opening the bridge," said Trustee J. S. T. Stranahan. "It is absurd to suppose that we did. The fact that the anniversary falls upon the date selected for the opening s purely coincidental. We would not consider the birthday anniversary any more than we would it some one of the Queen's family had given to Great Britain's royal heir. No:

THE CZAB'S CORONATION. Bealis, May 3 .- Private advices and press despatches alike indicate much less fear than has heretofore prevailed concerning any sensational tragedy likely to accompany the coronation ceremonies a fortnight hence, elther at St. Petersburg or Moscow. Friends of the Czar and Empress at the German Court say their majesties are both in excellent health and good spirits, and not only have no personal fear, but are satisfied that arrangements, as perfected, preclude any real danger of successful interference for Nibilists. If they have any apprehensions of danger or personal violence they have at least been carefully conceeled from persons who certainly possess their friendly confidence. The close relationship between the Berlin and St. Petersburg courts makes the court goship trustworthy to an unusual degree. Alexander III, who has certainly had every reason to be constantly on guard, and for whose personal safety the most extraordinary precautions have been taken, beliaves the officials charged with police control are not only efficient, but thoroughly to be trusted. All the really efficient leaders and dangerous members of the revolutionary party have been seized and are now harmless, dead or in prison. The chief of police of Moscow has greatly increased his staff of detectives, and all strangers arriving in Moscow are subjected to the strictes surveillance until the authorities are satished that there is come legitimate reason for their presence.

Bi-sulphide of carbon is attracting attention in England as a new motor. Inventors have been experimenting with it for years here, but no one has yet made it work, easy as it looks in theory.
