p. S - Since writing this letter, I have seen that strea has been discussed in the Hamilton.
That paper evidently looks upon Mr. Beck a-110, as having preached the absolute forgiveness of succept file Proof! Is not that precisely what the Bishop says is the doctrine of Rome? But the Gazete against with Mr. Beck!! And, the writer! d-streets that the language, "whoseever sins," &c., applied to munisters of the Church—in short, that the vap stolic powers and privileges have descended to theat Surely The Church paper should speak out, when we find such strange doctrines put forth as Protestant. The appearance of the article in the Gazette suggests a 4th question, in addition to those I have put-Whether The Church paper sanctions or reputiates the terribly presumptions proposition which Mr. Book and the Editor of the Gazette soon, like Dr. Pusey, whom they echo, to assume to remit the sins of men?

(To the Editor of " The Church.")

Siz: -1 did not suppose that my short letter would have extracted a whole column of Editorial matternor did I suppose, when I first wrote, that you would use so large amount of special pleading in so simple a matter.

You speak with much satisfaction of your "moderate tone." Now Sir I really cannot appreciate this self-landation, nor can I concede the fact of its being deserved. Is it as index of a "moderate tone" to ignore what the Book of Common Prayer asserts? Is it an inde, anderate tone" to insuate of a worthy angler to Priest of the English Church, who has been her cuampion for years against selfish Erastianism and fashionable rationalism-that he is a "half-way percert"? If so, I can only say that I am mistaken as to the meaning of the term .. moderate tone."

Of " Saint Metrophanes," or any other gentleman or that name. I never heard, but is it any answer to my complaint that, because some foolish legend-loving person in intioned such an one, we ought to repudiate the little of Saint when applied in the Prayer- Evans in erecting a suitable reside book? Your argument, if reduced to a syllogism use of himself and family.—Echo.

will stand thus:

Some one has spoken of Saint Metrophanes.
Saint Metrophanes was a spurious Saint.

Ergo-Those called Saints in the Prayer-book are also Spurious. Clearly a non sequetur, as it appears

It is not my business to define a "limit" in order that we may "keep clear of Romish Legends."-No such function has been committed to me. But I have a function, in common with every Parish Priest to complain when gainsayers would talk of "Father Ambrose" and "Father George," (and I suppose by parity of reasoning of "Mother Mary Magdatene" and "Mother Anne") when the Prayerbook gives them the prefix of Sain'. You say that my supposal to the Calendar is most inconclusive." Why? I merely pointed to facts which you ignored. I did not define the term "Saint?—I find it used in the Prayer-book, and therefore I shall contime to use it as that Holy Book teaches me; and therefore I deemed it proper to remind you of the and wherefore, I see the prefix in my Book of Prayer -and therefore, I say the Church knows better than I -it should not be expunged.

We have had enough and too much of non-naturals. If a man holds that the Church of England i loes not teach Regeneration in Baptism-then I say he reads the Baptismal odice in a non-natural senso o, if a man say that the Church does not consider Anne and St. Denys, and the other "lesser Saints,22 Saints in some sense or other, then I say that man reads the Church of England Calendar in a non-

As to the "emphatic declaration" with which you conclude, it is no doubt a very good one; but, Sir, serum me to remind you that one column of old and god Auglo-Catholic truth is worth a bushel of "emhatic declarations."

I am Sir. Your obedient servant,

A PARISH PRIEST. (Consideration for our readers deters us from puring this discussion any farther. We are polite ugh to allow our correspondent the privilege of he last word, and hope that he will not put upon our courtesy an unfair interpretation.—En. Church.]

On Saturday, the 23rd instant, an accident occurred of Just. I care not to examine what Wheatley or Spar-row, or Sharp, or Candwell may tell us as to the why and wherefore. I see the prefix in my Book of Prayer habit of fishing and shooting in and around the Aux Sables. His custom was to leave his home in the morning, and to return early in the afternoon. Being, on the day above mentioned, missing at the usual hour, suspicion was excited, and search made for him. The cause in which he used to paddle around was found adrift on the river, it contained the jacket of the deceased, a small basket in which he used to carry his dinner, and a wild duck recently shot. There was also a good deal of water in the canoe, from which it was interred that it had upset, and that its owner had gone to the bottom. The Aux Sables here, is a dark slow stream, some twelve or fifteen feet deep. Next day the search was renewed by almost the whole neighbourgood. Some twenty or thirty rods from the cance there was observed the mark where a-gun-shot had struck the bank. A dead wood duck floated hard by, and a matchbank. The search was continued until Bertinan, we are informed, intends immediately to shoot to be found. The search was continued until the in the afternoon, when the grappling irons brought up the missing gun, and shortly afterwards the dead body.— Mr. Crawford was in his 70th year, a cheerful old man nd his death is much lamented - From a Correspondent of the Globe.

> MINISTERIAL HONOURS AND THE PEOPLE'S SHAME, A case of underhand dealing on the part of our present Provincial Government in connection with the Beauharnois Canal has been exposed and commented upon by the Patriot in a severe and powerful strain. It seems that certain persons (not of the most respectable class) had applied to Government for compensation for damages committed upon their property during the progress of the works. The claim was, some time ago, pronounced unreasonable and at first rejected. The complainants, however, were not to be put off, and persisted. Government at last gave way, and assented to a payment to these murmurers of nominally and apparently £1600. Mr. Shanley, the present Engineer of the Toronto and Port Sarnia, Railroad, and formerly the resident Engineer on the Beauharnois Caual, was to take the money, and effect the sett'ement. The Patriot thus describes the sequel:
> Mr. Shanley took the £1600 and sended with the parties. His own words are. "I took much mins to free the Government from all just liabilities on that Canal, and know that I did so."

> Now to the atter astonishment of every independen and honest man in Parliament, or who was overlook-ing its proceedings during the recent session, the astounding fact leaked out, and the writer of this article dragged it into day-light,—that four thousand and two hundred pounds of the people's money of this province, had been se-cretly—classisticty paid by the present ministry to these very habitans in addition to the L1600 paid them by Mr. Shanley. And what is more, when the few independent men in the House, asked the Government the reasons for paying this money, their constitutional, their moral request was voted down by the following traitors, not our common freedom, but to our common manhood, Nays,—Cameron, Cartier, Chabot, Chapais, Solicitor General Cheaveau, Christie of Wentworth, Attorney General Daummoso, Dumoulin, Fergusson, Gogin, HARTMAN, HINCKS Lourin, Lemieux, Marchildon, Mongensis, Morin, Poulin, Attorney General RICHARDS, Rose, Sicotte, Tache, Tessier Ture tte, Valois, Varin, Viger, White, Waight of the East Riding of York, and
