

ensure that these criteria are fulfilled, and by doing so in a responsible manner can contribute usefully to the attainment of our common objective, the acceleration of the balanced economic growth of the less-developed countries of the world. The efficient use of the resources now available to us for this purpose is hardly less important than the search for new resources in which we are all engaged.