

298 (see Disciples); character of Jesus's teaching at this period, 301; the Sermon on the Mount (see Sermon); his return to Capernaum, 364; healing of the centurion's servant, 364; the widow's son restored to life, 367; the effect of this miracle, 368; at the house of Simon the Pharisee, 369; the repentant Magdalene, 369; the message of John in prison, 372; his warnings to Bethsaida, Chorazin, and Capernaum, 377; absence of sympathy from his family connections, 382; his companions at this time, 382; charges of the Scribes and Pharisees, 384; his replies, 384; he charges them with blasphemy, 386; they said he was aided by Beelzebub, 387; efforts of the Temple party to embroil him with his countrymen, 389; his attitude in face of this danger, 390; the cry, "Is not this the son of David?" first heard, 391; the parable of the unclean spirit, 392; blessing of his mother by a woman listener, 393; his mother and brethren desire to speak with him, 394; declares who are his mother and brethren, 394; invited to dine by a Pharisee, 396; is questioned about the washing of hands, 396; the Scribes and Pharisees urge him to speak of many things to accuse him, 397; he rebukes their inward hypocrisy, 397; around the Sea of Galilee, 399; eight parables, 400; efforts to embroil him with the people, 403; they were unconsciously his body guard, 403; the Pharisees watched for heresy, 403; the prudence of his course, 404; his discourse to his disciples before a multitude, as recorded by Luke, 405; a young man appeals against his brother, — is warned against covetousness, 406; parables, 408; is told of the slaughter of the Galileans, 412; the labor of days and weeks epitomized in the record of this time, 415; statement by John of its extent, 415; manner of his life at this time, 415; his solitary walks about Genesareth, 417; his sermon from a boat, 420; his method of teaching and the theory of myths, 426; some parables considered, 429; the voice ceased, and the enthusiasm of the crowd had gone out, 432.

Jews, their moral nature, 101; inequality of condition and precarious existence, 161; political subjection, 162; their glory in the law as God's chosen people, 162; priesthood dominated by the Romans, 163; forms of religious development, — the Pharisee, the Sadducee, and the Essene, 163; their social habits and observances, 184.

Jewish Church, its expected deliverance, 1.

Jewish Nation, tenderness of Jesus toward the good of its past, 333.

JOANNA, wife of Herod's steward, 383, 402.

JOHN, the forerunner of Jesus, Zacharias and Elizabeth, 11-27; his character in childhood, 27; the prototype of Elias (Elijah) the prophet, 92; in what the similarity consisted, 93; his brief history, 92; his mission as the forerunner of Jesus, 95; his downright earnestness, 95; his preaching was secular, not spiritual, 97; his meaning of baptism, 99; his formula and meaning of baptism, 99; the relation of his discourses to the spiritual truths which Christ unfolded, 100; John conceived no new ideal of morality, 100; the effects of his preaching, 101; excitement in Jerusalem, 102; is questioned by messengers from the Sanhedrim, 103; he declares to them the coming of Jesus, 103; Jesus comes to him for baptism, 104; the sign from heaven, 105; the mystery surrounding John, 108; his ministry after Christ's baptism, disputes about "purifying," 224; John's noble character exemplified, 226; jealousy of Herod Antipas, — John denounces his wickedness and is imprisoned, — the demand for his head by the daughter of Herodias, — his