Enemy Agents in America Squandered Blood Money on Stock Exchange—Let Fatherland Go Hang

Berne, Sept. 12.—Assistant Attorney-General Brown and Harold Harper, assistant attorney for the southern district of New York, have now concluded the inquiry into the charges against Rumely, Kaufmann and Lindheim before Consul Stewart in Berne. The last witness examined was Professor Gerhard von Schultze Gaevernitz, a member of the German parliament and formerly on the German general staff.

Gaevernitz admitted that Rumely wrote him about the financial situation of the New York Evening Mail. Gaevernitz then wrote to Hermann Siecken, a wealthy American citizen, originally German, and a long resident of Germany, for financial aid; but Siecken gave no definite answer, merely saying he would think the matter over.

Rumely's counsel declared that Siecken died a year ago. A cross-examination by Harper elicited the fact that before applying to Siecken, Gaevernitz conferred with a German foreign office official about the possibility of the German government purchasing the Evening Mail. Gaevernitz confessed that he had recommended Rumely to Dr. Dernburg as a man qualified to assist him in his propaganda work in the United States, and then he entered into lengthy explanations about his alleged steady opposition to the unrestricted submarine warfare, and having contended in and out of the Reichstag that America's entrance into the war would be fatal to Germany.

Rumely's life in Germany, Gaevernitz described as that of an eccentric person who wore sandals and braved the weather in scanty attire and lived on nuts, herbs and uncooked food generally.

The examination of witnesses revealed the fact that many German agents employed in America received handsome sums of German government money, but instead of using these sums for propaganda, they engaged in stock exchange speculations, and the German government was thus defrauded of millions.

Brown and Harper left for Germany to investigate cases connected with the United States alien enemy property custodian's department. The whole proceedings in Berne were conducted behind closed doors, not a word about them having appeared in the Swiss press.

The lawyers representing Rumely declared themselves satisfied with the trend the evidence has taken.

OPPOSES AMERICAN INTERVENTION IN MEXICAN AFFAIRS

British M. P. Thinks Boycott of Mexico by England Would Play Into Hands of the American Monopolists—Some Strong Opinions

London, Sept. 13.—C. Lowther, M. P. in a letter to the Morning Post makes a plea on behalf of Mexico "threatened with United States intervention."

Mr. Lowther feels encouraged to do this "as some few years ago I was attached to His Britannic Majesty's Legation in Mexico City, traveled extensively through the country, and have many Mexican friends."

Mr. Lowther writes: "Even during the presidency of Diaz the Mexican government had, despite its cordial relations with other countries, an anxious time. Its powerful neighbor in the north seemed always ready to devour it. Capitalists from the United States worked unscrupulously to lay hold of any Mexican industry and, following the usual American business strategy, aimed at monopoly."

The American monopolist was balked of his object, but did not hesitate to take his revenge. The sad years of civil strife which followed General Diaz's fall were by no means entirely the fault of the Mexican temperament. The money, the arms and possibly even

The motive, came from the citizens of the great northern neighbor.

Why Huns Were Favored
"Why did the Mexicans so strongly favor the Germans during the war? Why? Simply because the Germans, whom they do not and never did like, supported them in their fight against the interference of the American monopolists in Mexican politics."

Mr. Lowther thinks it is a mistake for the British government to refuse to renew diplomatic relations with Mexico. He writes: "By showing hostility to the Mexican government we are playing the game of the American monopolist to whose advantage it is to keep in a troubled state a country which denies him the monopoly he seeks. In South America we are making a big effort to regain our trade lost during the war. Let us do the same in Mexico."

"Our diplomacy seems ever hampered by fear of the United States. We have nothing to fear, but everything to gain by recognizing the Mexican government and re-establishing as soon as possible, trade relations with that country. Our recognition would strengthen the government, would mean a good market for
