PREDICTIONS OF FRENCH SEERESS FOR 1913

Paris, Nov. 22.—It was Mme. de Thebes who last November predicted war in the Balkans, an epidemic, and other things. In 1911 Mme. de Thebes, referring to 1912 called it Black Year. Now her visions help her to predict that 1913 will be what she terms Aurora Year, or a year which will be the prelude to noble awakenings, but a year also of grave perils, which only those of superhuman courage can pass through successfully, for 1913 will be a year of blood.

WASTED SYMPATHY

The sight of a little boy in apparent distress, alone in a strange city without a friend to lend a hand, moved to pity some of the officials in the I. C. R. service one day this week, and the consequence was that young Herbert Pearson, aged about twelve years, on telling a story which could not be shaken by strict cross-examination, was sent back to his home in Alleandale through the good-nature of the officials in question. That was on Wednesday. He had run away from his home there, he told them, and came to St. John to meet his father and return with him, but now that he had come here he was unable to find him. His bright inroad forward manner in which he told the story excited the sympathy of those who heard it and was given in charge of one of the conductors and sent back to Alleandale.
