ENSILAGE CROPS FOR MANITOBA

ear by the Feld Husbandry Department of the Manitoba Agricultural College indicate that where corn can be grown it is the crop best suited for ensilage, in that it gives a higher yield per acre than any of the crops tested. Cereals or cereals and peas stand next in the list, and can be used to advantage as a substitute for corn for cooler and moister districts. These also have the advantage that they can be handled with the ordinary farm machinery. In the hotter, drier sections of the country Sudan grass and the millets would come second. both in point of yield and quality. Rape and buckwheat were also en siled; the rape gave the highest yield of any crop per acre, but the quality was not equal to the crops noted above. Alfalfa was another erop preserved in this manner, and while it made excellent ensilage it

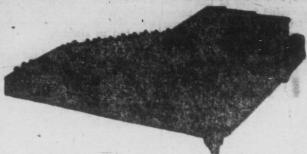

In deciding on the value of a crop for ensilage purposes, at least four factors must be taken into consideration: first, the yield per acre; second, the succulence; third, mmonwealth. The total forces lowest as follows: Rape, corn, mil listment, numbered 400,000 out dan grass and alfalfa. In palatia total population of less than bility: Sudan grass, alfalfa, corn oats, and peas, millet, rape and buckwheat. In succulence: rape corn, buckwheat, oats and peas flavor there would not seem to be much difference between corn, Sudan grass, millet, oats and peas wheat, however, were inferior in corn and oats and peas would com in the first class; Sudan grass and millet in the second; alfalfa in the 293 third; and rape and buckwheat in the fourth. There are two crops not mentioned in the list on which a small amount of work has been conducted which seems to indicate that they might be of value; namely, sweet clover and sunflower

These crops will be included in the full experiment next year.
