The Domestic Review. A Monthly Magazine of Religious Thought, Sermon Literature and Discussion of Practical Issues. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12, Bay Street, New York. This admirable publication is growing in merit and in usefulness. The present number discusses: Probation After Death; Reformation and Rationalism; Second Arrangement of Dr Howard Crosby, by Herriot Johnson besides a vast number of timely articles and suggestions upon almost every subject of interest to the preacher. We don't see how any pastor can do without it.

A happy home is the brightest spot on earth the eye of God looks down on. Love and peace in his locks down sunshine round a man wherever he goes; disorder and trouble there is misery everywhere. There are few worries of life which a man cannot now and then shake off, but who can shake himself free from the skeleton in the closet, from the worry in the household, the blister on the heart? A day will tell how many a man carried that with him without wincing down to the grave. When husband and wife are help-mates to each other in the best sense, when order and love and goodness prevail in the house, then the man who has a hard battle to fight can leave his struggles behind him when he enters there. With all our faults we are the most home-loving of people, and that is the reason why we are the greatest of people. Whatever helps home-life is a national blessing; whatever hurts home-life is a national curse, and the greatest curse that can touch these blessings is what would tamper with the peace and blessedness of our homes.-Jan. MacGregor, D. D.

Andrew King, proprietor Metropolitan Stables, Halifax, writes that he was confined to the house for several weeks with rheumatic gout, could not touch his foot to the floor; after trying all other remedies applied Misard's Liment, and it cured him in a few days. He says he believes it is the best Liment in the world for man or beast.

OUR BREAD IN DANGER.

The Alarming Increase in Baking Powder Adulterations.

Among recent important discoveries by the food analysts is that by Prof. Moxr, U. S. Government Chemist, of large amounts of lime and alum in the cheap baking powders. It is a startling fact that of over one hundred different brands of baking powder so far analyzed, comprising all those sold in this vicinity, not one, with the single exception of Royal Baking Powder, was found free from both lime and alum.

The use of alum is to produce a cheap baking powder. It costs less than two cents a pound, whereas pure cream of tartar costs forty. Its effect upon the system has been ascertained to be poisonous, and overdoses have been attended with fatal results. Lime is the most useless adulterant yet found in baking powders. It is true that when subjected to heat a certain amount of carbonic acid gas is given off, but a quicklime is left, a caustic so powerful that it is used by tanners to eat the hair from hides of animals, and in dissection rooms to more quickly rot the flesh from the bones of dead subjects.

The effect of lime upon the delicate membranes of the stomach, intestines and kidneys, more particularly of infants and children, and especially when taken into the system day after day, and with almost every meal, is pernicious in the extreme, and is said by physicians to be one of the chief causes of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the kidneys. Chemists have found 12 per cent., or one-eighth of the weight, of some of the baking powders prominently sold in this vicinity, to be lime. The wickedness of this adulteration is apparent.

The absolute purity and wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder—now affirmed by every chemist and food analyst of prominence, and conceded by all manufacturers of other brands—arises from the exclusive use of cream of tartar specially refined by patent processes, which remove totally the lime and all other impurities. These facilities are possessed by no other manufacturer. The Chemist of the Department of Health of Brooklyn, N. Y., in which city the works of the Royal Baking Powder Company are situated, after recent numerous experiments, reports:

"I subjected several samples of the Royal Baking Powder, purchased from dealers in Brooklyn, to chemical analysis, and I take pleasure in stating that this powder has attained a most remarkable purity. I am unable to detect the slightest trace of lime tartrate in it, while all its constituents are pure and of the highest quality. The 'Royal' is a baking powder undoubtedly of the greatest leavening power, and perfectly wholesome."

There is not a university like the heathen world for training and enlarging a man's heart. He is the best cosmopolitan and the most informed man, who is in rapport with what is going on in the missionary world. To have learned what a true missionary student has learned—that the great Oriental heart has been sighing for years, to know what is the hope of the heart of India to-day; to know what man is, and how he has sought to gratify his religious instincts; to know what affects his life on earth, and his destiny in the world hereafter—To know something of this is indeed a liberal education.
