I thank God when it goes into such a wreck it can never be gathered up again. I want it to be-come so loathsome and such an in-sufferable stench that honest young men will take warning. getting of it on a larger scale only proves to them their greater ingenuity. There is a glitter thrown around about all these things. Young men have got to find out that God looks upon sin in a very different light.
And remember that the man who gets his gain by iniquity will soon lose it all, One moment after his departure from life he will not own an

God did not excuse him be-cause he had committed the sin in high places or because the transgression was wide resounding. He meas-ured Nebuchadnewzar in high places just as he would measure the hum-But in our time, you know as well as I, that there is a disposition to put a halo around iniquity if it is have more money than that who one week previous boasted that he controlled the money market. Oh, there is such a fearful fascinaproportions. Ever and anon there has been an epidemic of crime in high places, and there is not a state or city and hardly a village which has not been called to look upon as-tounding forgery or an absconding bank cashier or president or the wasting of trust fund or swindling Oh, there is such a fearful fascina-tion in this day about the use of trust funds. It has got to be popular to take the funds of others and speculate with them. There are many who are practis-ing that infquity. Almost every man in the course of his life has the property of others put in his care. He has administered, perhaps, for a dead friend; he is an attorney, and money passes from debtor to creditor through his hands; or he is in a commercial establishment and gets a salary for the discharge of his responsibilities; or he is treasurer of a philanthropic institution, and mon-ey for the suffering goes through his mortgages. I propose in carrying out the suggestion of my text, as far as I can, to scatter the fascin-ations around iniquity and show you that sin is sin and wrong is wrong whether in high place or low place and that it will be dealt with by God who dealt with impalaced Nebuchadnezzar. All who preach feel that two kinds of sermons are necessary, the one on the faith of the gospel, the other on the morality of the gospel, and the ey for the suffering goes through his hands; or he has some office in city hands; or he has some office in city or state or nation, and taxes and subsidies and supplies and salaries are in his hands. Now, that is a trust. That is as sacred a trust as God can give a man. It is the con-centration of confidence. Now, when that man takes that money, the money of others, and goes to specu-lating with it for his own purposes, he is guilty of theft, falsehood and perjury and in the most intense sense of the word is a miscreant. There are families to-day—widows and orphans — with nothing between them and starvation but a sewing machine, or kept out of the vortex one is just as important as the oth-er, for you know that in this land to-day there are hundreds of men hiding behind the communion tables hiding behind the community tables and in churches of Jesus Christ who have no business to be there as pro-fessors of religion. They expect to be all right with God, although they be all right with God, although they are all wrong with man. And, while I want you to understand that by the deeds of the law no flesh living can be justified and a mere honest life cannot enter us into heaven, I want you as plainly to understand that unless the life is right the heart is by the thread of a needle red with the blood of their hearts, who were by father or husband left a competency. You read the story in the newspaper of those who have lost by a bank defalcation, and it is only one line, the name of a woman you never heard of, and just one or two figures telling the amount of stock she had, the number of shares. It is a very short line in a newspaper, but it is a line of agony long as time; it is a story long as eternity.
Oh, you have good blood. Remember your faither's prayers. Remember your faither's prayers. Remember your faither's example. Turn not in an evil way. Have you been going astray? Come back. Have you ventured out too far?
As I stand in pulpits looking over audiences sometimes my heart fails me. There are so many tragedies present, so many who have sacrificed their integrity, so many far away from God. Why, my brother, there have been too many prayers offered for you to have you go overboard. And there are those venturing down into sin, and my heart aches to call machine, or kept out of the vortex not right. Grace in the heart and grace in the life; so we must preach sometimes the faith of the gospel and sometimes the morality of the It seems to me there has not been a time in the last 50 years when this latter truth needed more thor-oughly to be presented in the Ameri-can churches. It needs to be pre-canted to day Now, look abroad and see the fascinations that are thrown around different styles of crime. The ques-tion that every man and woman has been asked has been, Should crime a story long as eternity. Now, do not come under the fascin-Now, do not come under the fascin-ation which induces men to employ trust funds for purposes of their own speculation. Cultivate old-fashion-ed honesty. Remember the example of Wellington, who, when he was leading the British army over the French frontier and his army was be excused because it is on a large scale? Is iniquity guilty and to be pursued of the law in proportion as it is on a small scale? Shall we have the penitentiary for the man who steals an overcoat from a hatrack and all Canada for a man to range in if he have robbed the pub-French frontier and his army was very hungry and there was plenty of plunder on the French frontier and some of the men wanted to take it, said: "Soldiers, do not touch that. Look upon all the fascinations thrown around fraud in this country. some of the men wanted to take it, said: "Soldiers, do not touch that. God will take care of us. He will take care of the English army. Plenty of plunder, I know, all around, but do not take it." He told the story afterward himself, how that the French people brought to him their valuables to keep—he sup-posed to be their enemy—brought him their valuables to keep, and then, he said, at a time when the creditors of the army were calling for money and for pay all the time and they had so much all around about, he did not feel it right for him to take it or for the army to take it. An author beautifully wrote in regard to if: "Nothing can be grander or more noble and original than this admis-sion. This old soldier, after 30 years of service, this iron man and victorious general, established in an enemy's country, at the head of an immense army, is afraid of his credi-You know for years men have been made heroes of and pictorialized and in various ways presented to the public as though sometimes they were worthy of admiration if they have scattered the funds of banks or swallowed great estates that did not belong to them. Our young men have been dazed with this quick ac-cumulation. They have said: "That's the way to do it. What's the use of our plodding on with small wages or insignificant salary when we may go into business life and with some stratagem achieve such a fortune as that man has achieved?" A different measure has been applied to the crime of Wall Street from that which has been applied to the spoils which the man carries up Rat alley. There has been an irresistible im-pression going abroad among young men that the poorest way to get immense army, is afraid of his credi-tors. This is a kind of fear that has money is to earn it. The young man money is to earn it. The young man of flaunting cravat says to the young man of humble apparel: "What, you only get $1,800 a year? Why, that wouldn't keep me in pin money. Why, I spend $5,000 a year." "Where do you get it?" asks the plain young man. "Oh, seldom troubled conquerors and vic-tors, and I doubt if the annals of war present anything comparable to this sublime simplicity. Oh, that God would scatter these fascinations about fraud and let us a year." "Where do you get 10" asks the plain young man. "Oh, stocks, enterprises — all that gort of thing you know." The plain young man has hardly enough money to pay his board and has to wear clothes after they are out of fashion and deny himself all luxuries. After awhile he gets tired of his plodding, and he goes to the man who has all understand that if I steal from you one dollar I am a thief and if I steal from you $500,000 I am 500,-000 times more of a thief! So there has been a great deal of fascination thrown around libertin ciety is very severe upon the impurity that lurks around the leys and low haunts of the town. The law pursues it, smites it, incarcer-ates it, tries to destroy it. You know as well as I that society be-comes lenient in proportion as im-purity becomes affluent or is in elecomes tenent in proportion as im-purity becomes affluent or is in ele-wated circles, and finally society is silent or disposed to palliate. Where is the judge, the jury, the police officer that dare arraign the wealthy libertine? He walks the streets, he rides the parks, he flaunts his iniquity in the eyes of the pure. The hag of uncleanness looks out of the tapestried window. Where is the law that dares take the brazen wretches and put their faces in an iron frame of a state prison win-dow?

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TELEGRAPH, ST. TJOHN, N. B. JULY 27, 1901.

We want about 10,000 pulpits in America to thunder, "All adulterers and whoremongers shall have their place in the hell that burneth with place in the hell that burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the sec-ond death." It is hell on earth and, hell forever. Whether it has can-opied couch of eider down or dwells amid the putridity of a low tene-ment house, God is after it in his vengeance. Yet the pulpit of the Christian church has been so cowed down on this subject that it hardly dares to speak, and men are almost apologetic when they read the Ten

Then look at the fascinations thrown around assassination. There are in all communities men who have taken the lives of others unlawfully, not as executioners of the law, and they got scot free. You say they had their provocations. God gave life, and he alone has a right to take it, and he may take it by visitation of Providence or by an executioner of the law, who is his messenger. But when a man assumes that divine pre-rogative he touches the lowest depth of crime.

Now, if capital punishment is right, I say let the life of the polish-ed murderer go with the life of the vulgar assassin. Let us have no partiality of gallows, no aristocracy of electrocution chair. Do not let us float back to barbarism, when every man was his own judge, jury and executioner, and that man had the supremacy who had the sharpest knife and the strongest arm and the quickest step and the stealthiest revence. He who wildfully and in revenge. He who willfully and in hatred takes the life of another is a hatred takes the life of another is a murderer, I care not what the provo-cation or the circumstances. He may be cleared by an enthusiastic court-room, he may be sent by the Gov-ernment of the United States as min-ister to some foreign court, or mod-ern literature may polish the crime until it looks like heroism; but in the sight of God murder is murder, and the judgment day will so reveal it.
