External Affairs Man On Campus This Friday

Arthur J. Andrew, a graduate of Dalhousie and at present Head of the Information Division, Department of External Affairs, Ottawa, will address a meeting of the Commerce Company on Friday, November 2. The Commerce Company have invited any interested students, regardless of faculty, to attend.

Mr. Andrew, who will speak on the work of Foreign Service Officers, is a native of Pictou. He received his B.A. from Dalhousie in 1937 and, after two years with The Canadian Press, joined the Canadian Army in 1939 and served on the Atlantic Coast, in the United Kingdom, Italy, and North-west Europe before being discharged as a captain in 1946. He returned to Dalhousie for graduate work and received his M.A. in 1947. He joined the Department of External Affairs in the same year and, in 1950, was posted to Bonn, Germany. In January of 1953 he was named Chargé d'Affaires at Vienna.

On returning to Ottawa in 1954, he became Head of Political Co-ordination Section of the Department and in the fall of 1955 was appointed to his present office.

Stratford Players To Present "Hamlet" And "Peer Gynt" In January

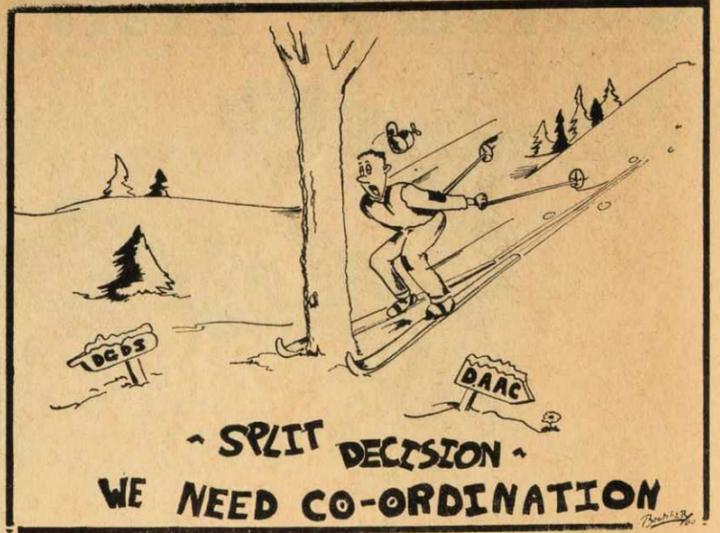

The Stratford Players of the Canadian Shakespeare Festival will be appearing in Halifax on January 14 and 15. The plays to be presented are Shakespeare's Hamlet and Henrik Ibsen's Peer Gynt.

Special arrangements have been made for Dalhousie students to attend the performances at reduced prices. Under the auspices of the Halifax Junior League tickets will be sold to students early in December before ticket sale opens to the public. The regular sale will begin during examination week. The student tickets may be exchanged later.

The Stratford Players have done much to encourage drama in Canada, and it is expected that students will take advantage of this opportunity to see two of the world's great dramas performed by one of this country's leading theatre companies.

Further announcements will appear in the Gazette and on the English Department notice boards.

local campus papers urging them to run the ad without charge in the public interest. Response by local campus papers will be publicized in Marketing Magazine.

Hither and Yawn by ANNE COBURN

This week's mail brought two new papers to our steadily increasing files. To be more exact, these were the first issues we have received this year, but they are old friends around the Gazette office. Those of which I speak are the Purple and White (Assumption College's effort), and St. Mary's Journal. May we say right here that this year's Journal is a most impressive sheet; all congratulations go to the E. in C. and his staff for their excellent lay-out and news coverage.

St. Mary's seems to be planning a very active year along artistic lines. "At the first student rally of the year the president of the local Thespians struck the key note when he announced that the major production of the year 'The Desperate Hours' will be presented early in February." In addition, a 'Workshop' has been organized, "which will present a program of three one-act plays in December. The presentations, which will consist of two dramas and a comedy, will be open to the student body."

News, news, and still news! "At a meeting on September 28th, the Students' Council (this is still St. Mary's) was approached by a few students who are interested in forming a University Orchestra. Although some of its members would be members of the existing band, the proposed orchestra would be an independent group. These backers feel that there are students of sufficient quality and quantity to form a unit that would be able to perform very adequately at informal college functions in the gymnasium. This interested group of students has received their student council's blessings to pursue the venture; we hope it will meet their expectations. It's a very satisfying thing to see people branch off into new activities and "make a go of it".

The last news item of the week is more than slightly startling. Believe it or not, an interested individual on campus actually came to the Gazette office and offered his services. He felt there were certain items the paper lacked. One of these items was a weekly laugh. Therefore unbeknownst (is that really a word?) to the E. in C., the following item has somehow, quite accidentally, found its way into this column.

YOUR WEEKLY LAUGH. (Not Weakly!)

In the worst of the London blitz an old lady was observed to move about as chirpily as ever. When asked for the explanation, this was her reply: "Well, when it comes bed-time, I go to my room. First I take a wee sip of whiskey; then I say a little prayer. Next I gets undressed and pops into bed saying, 'to hell with Hitler,' and I sleep sound till morning. I know that God is watching over us and there is no sense in two of us lying awake."

We Should Have Been Ashamed

Dalhousie has just overcome a situation which should have been a matter of some shame to the whole campus, but which, in all probability, was unknown to the majority of our students.

Last week the Student Council took matters into its own hands and appointed a chairman for the local committee of World University Service of Canada. He is Pat Walsh, a second year law student.

Why should this be important? WUSC is usually regarded as just another of those things that exist on the campus. Some few people are interested in it, but they are the ones that are interested in everything, it seems, and nobody else cares much. The fact that last year's chairman did not get around to having a committee formed for this year only points up the position that WUSC holds in the general student's mind.

World University Service is an international organization of both students and faculty which has dual aims. It assists students in the less well developed countries by giving material aid; and for students in more fortunate countries it organizes study tours and seminars both nationally and internationally. It also helps students of the world to study in other countries. It is an organization of high ideals; perhaps the most worthy undertaking in which students of Canada participate.

Perhaps the absence of a committee chairman until last week will prove to be a good thing. It has already caused some alarm among interested students — enough alarm to ensure Pat Walsh of an interested and hard-working group for this year. The annual visit of the Treasure Van from November 6 to 9, will be its first major job.

But even an active committee is not enough. Obviously, World University Service needs money. Many student councils across Canada contribute to it on the basis of one dollar for each enrolled student. The budget of the Dalhousie council provided for a donation of $100. to WUSC. Last week this was raised to $200., and a further amount will be considered in the spring. All the money raised in Canada is used for service work overseas, none of it at home. The money for study tours for Canadians comes from grants from many sources — governmental and private.

The Council's move was a step in the right direction. Let us hope that we will not stop there, and that our efforts as students will become something of which we can be proud.

$600,000 advertising campaign to promote sales of Canada Savings Bonds is now underway using almost all media—except university papers.

The September 28th issue of Marketing Magazine, the weekly journal directed to advertising executives across the country, reports as follows: "The eleventh Canada Savings Bond drive swings into high gear first week in October with a month-long saturation ad campaign embracing almost all media. Estimated cost of the campaign: $600,000."

The CANADIAN UNIVERSITY POST publisher, A. D. Levy, spoke to the account executive handling the campaign at Walsh Advertising Company in Toronto and enquired whether campus papers were included in the Canada Bond Drive ad schedule.

"No, we didn't consider them at all. The budget is all spent now" was the reply.

Levy stated that this was "truly amazing", informing the Walsh Advertising account executive that his paper would print its own ad without charge urging students to buy Canada Savings Bonds. Mats of this ad will be shipped to all
