

ELECTIONS SHORTLY, SAYS SENATOR KING

Fighting Session
Means Appeal

SESSIONS TOO LONG
Senator Declares it Will Soon be Hard to Get Men
for Parliament

"I believe there will be a Dominion election very shortly now," said Senator King last night, "because a fighting session like that which has just taken place is always followed by an election soon afterwards."

The Senator remained in the city until today en route to his home at Chipman from Montreal. He said that the recent rain would do a great deal towards invigorating the growth of crops and help to extinguish the large forest fires which have been raging. On his way to St. John he passed through a section near Montreal, which had been swept by fire and where much damage had been done to the residences and railroad property. Here the fire had been completely extinguished and there was no fear of it spreading.

"We have a new bank in St. John now," the Senator continued. "The branch of the Bank of New Brunswick was opened on Tuesday and from reports I have received, they have already started to do a large business. The building was erected by the King Lumber Co. and the bank people have leased it for a long term, which assures the people that they are going to stay. Mr. Powis is in charge."

Senator King thought that the late session in the House was far too long and considered that if they continued to be nine months in duration, the country would soon find it difficult to secure good men willing to go to parliament. He considered such lengthy sessions a great loss of time to the business man and absolutely unnecessary.

FIREMEN'S FEET BADLY SCALDED

Upsets a Pail of Boiling Water
Over Them

A fireman named Wardale, working on board the steamer Kanawha, lying at Long wharf, was severely scalded yesterday afternoon and taken to the Public Hospital.

According to the story told by one of the crew, the man was near the boilers at the time of the accident and in some unknown way upset a pail of boiling water over his feet. The water scalded through both feet and was so serious that no time was lost in summoning the ambulance. Upon examination at the hospital it was found that both legs were scalded from the knee down and it may be several days before the man recovers.

THREE DROWNED IN THE MONTREAL RIVER

NEW LISKEARD, Ont., July 20.—Upset on a rock in dangerous rapids, the small two-masted schooner Walter Miller (Br.), from Boston for St. John, N. B., was towed in here today with both her masts, her bowsprit and all her sails and rigging gone, as the result of an encounter with a sudden squall off Monaghan last Saturday night. Captain Alexander Sabean, who was in the rigging at the time the schooner was thrown to the deck and suffered a fractured spine.

The Walter Miller was built in 1892 and is of 124 tons register.

SCHOONER LOSES ALL HER SAILS AND MASTS

BOOTHBY HARBOR, Me., July 20.—The small two-masted schooner Walter Miller (Br.), from Boston for St. John, N. B., was towed in here today with both her masts, her bowsprit and all her sails and rigging gone, as the result of an encounter with a sudden squall off Monaghan last Saturday night. Captain Alexander Sabean, who was in the rigging at the time the schooner was thrown to the deck and suffered a fractured spine.

The Walter Miller was built in 1892 and is of 124 tons register.

HAS CONTESTED THREE ELECTIONS

OTTAWA, July 20.—The election of Hon. Charles Devlin, minister of colonies, mines and the president of the Quebec government has been contested, and the minister left Ottawa this afternoon to file an appearance at Three Rivers tomorrow in connection with the case.

Mr. Devlin has contested three elections inside of eighteen months, winning the last one by 416 votes. It was stated today on good authority that he is becoming very tired of the unfair attacks made against him in Quebec on racial grounds, and will resign his seat in the provincial house to contest a federal seat in eastern Ontario in the next general elections.

BANKING QUARTERS GREATLY ADIMED

Many Attend Formal
Opening

ROYAL'S STAFF HOSTS
Manager Blair and Assistants
Show Visitors Through—
Refreshments Served

The formal opening of the new Royal Bank of Canada's building, corner King and Canterbury streets, took place yesterday afternoon. The offices were ready for business in the morning. In the afternoon the building was open for inspection by the public between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock. An estimate of the number of visitors to the handsome quarters is given at 500. Included in this number were business men of all classes, customers of the bank and many ladies. As visitors entered they were first shown Manager Blair's office and then the general offices. Leaving the first floor an elevator took the visitor to the second floor, which is occupied by William Thomson & Son, after which the third and top floors were visited. In a room on the fourth story light refreshments were served to the visitors.

The tables in this room were beautifully decorated with flowers. In the main office two large palms were conspicuous, while flowers adorned all the desks.

One of the many attractive features of the new building is the excellent view of the whole city, especially the harbor and the winter port facilities it commands. In this connection it is claimed that the view from the insurance offices on the top floor is the best in the city.

The general verdict given by the large number of visitors to the bank yesterday was that the new building was a splendid one from the cellar to the top story and a great credit to St. John.

This was the first chance that any person had of visiting the bank and it was not surprising to see the large numbers in attendance. No invitations were issued, outside of the general invitation in the press. The flowers left over after the reception were given to the General Public Hospital. Manager Blair and his assistants were greatly pleased with the interest taken in the new building by the general public.

CANADIANS MAKE AVERAGE SCORES

Weather Conditions Were Not Good at Bisley
Yesterday

THE SCORES MADE

BISLEY, July 20.—The Canadians took part in two competitions today and did fairly well. The weather conditions were not good. The following were the scores of the Canadians in the Alexandra, seven shots at 200 and 600 yards:

| | |
|------------------------------|----|
| Sgt. Morris, Bowmanville | 67 |
| Lieut. Selator, Vancouver | 66 |
| Lt. Mortimer, Ottawa | 65 |
| Cor. McInnes, Edmonton | 65 |
| Capt. Crowe, Guelph | 65 |
| Lt. Spittal, Ottawa | 64 |
| Pte. Williams, Annapolis | 64 |
| Pte. Rowe, Durham | 64 |
| Pte. Steele, Guelph | 63 |
| Lt. Elmitt, Ottawa | 62 |
| Sgt. Major Utton, Toronto | 62 |
| Sgt. Freeborn, Hamilton | 62 |
| Sgt. Martin, Calgary | 61 |
| Sgt. Bayless, Toronto | 61 |
| Cor. Haystead, Bedford Basin | 60 |
| Pte. Leslie, Toronto | 60 |
| Sgt. Smith, Ottawa | 60 |
| Sgt. Brown, Edmonton | 59 |
| Major Jones, P.E.I. | 58 |
| Col. Spearing, Sherbrooke | 58 |
| Major Pope, Montreal | 57 |
| Pte. Eastcott, Montreal | 57 |
| Sgt. Kerr, Toronto | 56 |

In the Prince of Wales seven shots at 200 yards and ten at 600 yards, an event open only to winners of N. R. A. medals, the Canadians entitled to compete scored as follows:

| | |
|-------------------|----|
| Private Eastcott | 81 |
| Sergeant Smith | 81 |
| Private Williams | 80 |
| Private Steele | 80 |
| Lieut. Elmitt | 78 |
| Sgt. Kerr | 78 |
| Corporal Haystead | 78 |
| Lieut. Spittal | 78 |
| Lieut. Mortimer | 76 |
| Corporal McInnes | 74 |
| Major Pope | 74 |
| Sgt. Freeborn | 73 |
| Sgt. Major Utton | 73 |
| Lt. Col. Spearing | 71 |

CASTORIA The Kind You Have Always Bought

PEARY AT BELLE HARBOR.
NEW YORK, July 20.—Commander Robert Peary, now en route to the Arctic ice fields in quest of the North Pole, arrived at Belle Harbor, Labrador, on the steamer Roosevelt, today. The following telegram was received by the Associated Press from Belle Harbor tonight:

"Arrived six o'clock this morning. Taking on whale meat at Cape Charles. Fine weather. All well."
(Signed) "PEARY"

LONGEST SESSION ENDS; MUCH PROGRESSIVE LEGISLATION PASSED

In Spite of Obstruction
Government Did Splendid Work

Civil Service, French Treaty and Election Acts—
the Chief

Slanders Fell Flat—Laurier at the Helm
All Through

New Ministers, Pugsley and Graham, Made High Reputations

OTTAWA, July 20.—The fourth and in all probability the last session of the tenth parliament of Canada was brought to a trying and arduous session by a single day through illness was one of the remarkable features of the whole session. The fine passing introduced two of the most important resolutions which came up for the consideration of the members, namely, those providing for the extension of the provincial boundaries of Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec, and empowering the government to enter into negotiations with the governments of Australia and New Zealand with a view to bringing about a speedy consummation of the long-drawn-out project, both of which carried results of far-reaching importance to the future of the Dominion. With practically every other day of legislation which came before the house the premier also had a vital part, notably in the case of the election bill.

Hon. Mr. Fielding, as the premier's first lieutenant in the house, also assumed a large share of the ministerial burdens and responsibilities. He piloted the French-Canadian treaty through the commonsense and the proof of his argument that Canada was getting in the new convention a splendid bargain is evidenced in the fact that the French senate is now withholding ratification on the grounds that Canada is getting an undue advantage. Mr. Fielding was the final passage of which is left over till next session pending the working out of certain amendments which the committee before the special committee showed to be necessary. Other bills which are to be placed to his credit are the amendments to the bank act, providing for the expansion of the currency, the curbing of the moving period; the bill providing for government old age annuities and extending and increasing the lead bonus under the independence of the parliament commission of two providing for appointments and promotions on merit by competitive examinations and reorganizing and reclassifying the service generally.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER

The dramatic character of Sir Charles Fitzpatrick was shown in fact that the usual guard of honor for the occasion was dispensed with by order of the deputy governor. General Fitzpatrick's body guards were ready to parade from the armories, but just before starting word was received to disband. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick entered and left the parliament buildings unattended and in a most unostentatious manner.

In at least one thing the fourth session of the tenth parliament of Canada, just closed, has established a record. It has been the longest session since Confederation, having lasted 234 days, or nearly three quarters of a year, thus beating the previous record of 1903 by seven days. The record of volumes of Hansard increases the record by 100,000 words, the total number running over fourteen thousand. It may be a debatable point as to whether in return for this immense volume of talk the country has had adequate return in the shape of practical legislation. Much of the speechifying was, of course, due to the fact that for practically three months of the session there was almost continuous obstruction of the real business of parliament by the opposition. The fact that it was generally accepted that this was to be the last session of the present parliament was also responsible for the pouring of an immense stream of campaign literature into Hansard, the time consumed in the process aggregating probably at least one-third of the whole session. The actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning, afternoon and night, on an average of from ten to twelve hours per day.

But although the general public, thanks to the tactics of the opposition, may have gained the impression that the present session was a record-making one, the actual business transacted was in a large measure compressed into the final six weeks, or nearly two months, of the session, morning