

Etiquette of the Sleeping Car.

Women who take their first journey in a sleeping car acquire by experience much knowledge at the price of an equal amount of discomfort.

This consists largely in boiling down to as small an amount possible for comfort the number of things to be carried, and a knowledge of how to make the best of inconveniences.

Women who travel much have a special set of toilet articles for their bags, and they do not carry those zippers bought already fitted with everything under the sun.

Lightness in hand luggage is a thing to be desired, for porters to carry it are always on hand, and when they are their service is not free.

One should carry one's own soap. Modern sleeping car dressing rooms have it on the washstands, but it is not a kind of a particular woman wish to use.

To sleep in there is nothing better than an Indian silk kimono, for it is cool, shedding dust, and is also suitable to wear through the aisle to the dressing room in the morning.

A dressing saccage of the same material may also be worn with a petticoat, if one prefers, but a long gown takes little more room in a bag and is more satisfactory.

Shiloh has cured many thousands of the most obstinate cases, and we do not hesitate to say that it will cure any case of Cough, Throat or Lung trouble, if we did not believe this we would not guarantee it absolutely as we do.

Shiloh is a compliment to the congressional memorial orators that doubtless they will appreciate as it deserves.

It Has to Do With Things in a Musical Room.

In playing this pretty game, each guest is given a dainty card, to which is fastened a small pencil by a cord or a ribbon. They are then told that the "musical room" is full of articles of interest and that they are to discover them and write down their names.

They may hunt singly or in couples, working their lists out separately or together, as the hostess desires, and the best answer receives a prize, a box of candy in the form of a musical instrument being appropriate.

Here, says the Washington Post, is a list of articles that might be used in the game, with the significant answer to each:

- 1. Quire of paper (choir). 2. Three dolls dressed alike (triplets). 3. Carpenter's brace (brace). 4. Watch (time). 5. Razor (sharp). 6. Chin rest of a violin (rest). 7. Card bearing the letters XT. (forte). 8. Someone's name (signature). 9. Pair of scales (musical). 10. Base of a table bell (base). 11. Hat-box containing two beads (two beads in a measure). 12. Heavy string (chord). 13. Flatiron with the letter B on its face (B flat). 14. Carboard letter C hung on chandelier (high C). 15. Lump of tar (pitch). 16. Pine stem (stem). 17. Hat-box picture (half tone). 18. Bank note (note). 19. Baby's shoe with an O on the sole (solo). 20. Stout cane (staff). 21. Necktie (tie). 22. Bar of soap (bar). 23. Door key (key). 24. Tape measure (measure). 25. Quarter dollar with a black court plaster dot on it (a dotted quarter).

Sea 37,000,000 Years Old.

Three hundred and seventy million years is the approximate age of the oceans, according to the calculations of Professor R. D. Salisbury, of the department of geology of the University of Chicago.

"It has been calculated," writes Mr. Salisbury, "that if the salt now in the sea were precipitated it would make something like 3,500,000 cubic miles. If to this be added all the other mineral matter in solution in the sea water the amount would be swollen to about 4,500,000 cubic miles."

Professor Salisbury estimated the quantity of salt and water brought to the sea each year by rivers, and on this basis obtains 370,000,000 as the estimated number of years it would take for the amount of salt now in the sea to have been brought to it by the rivers at the present rate.

Faith

You cannot be expected to have faith in Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, as a cure for Colds, Coughs and all diseases of the air passages, if you have not tried it. We have faith in it, and to convince you that it will cure you we guarantee it absolutely as we do.

Shiloh

Shiloh has cured many thousands of the most obstinate cases, and we do not hesitate to say that it will cure any case of Cough, Throat or Lung trouble, if we did not believe this we would not guarantee it absolutely as we do.

Proof

It is found in the many testimonials of those who have used Shiloh and been cured. Mrs. Archie Taylor, Zanesville, Pa., writes: "I bought a bottle of Shiloh's Consumption Cure and found it very beneficial. I have two children and they had a terrible cough. I gave them everything I could think of, but they got no better until one evening my husband bought a bottle of Shiloh. We gave it to the children when they went to bed, and they slept all night. It cured them completely. I shall always keep it in my house."

CAN WALK AROUND AND DO HIS WORK

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured W. J. Dixon's Rheumatism.

He was so bad he had to use a Stick to Walk and could not lace his Shoe.

Barwick, Ont., Nov. 6.—(Special).—These cold, wet fall days are full of Rheumatism, and nothing can be more timely than news of an effectual cure of such a case. William John Dixon, of this place, is certain he has discovered in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had an attack of typhoid fever," says Mr. Dixon, "and after I got over it Rheumatism set in. I had pains in my back and in my right hip so bad I had to use a stick to walk and had no comfort in sleeping. I could not more than dress or undress myself for nearly two months, and for three weeks I could not lace my right shoe or put my right leg on my left knee."

"Acting on my brother's advice I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking three boxes I was able to walk around and do my work. Now I am well, and I recommend anyone who has Rheumatism to try Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Domestic Affliction. A bright girl asked to be absent from school half a day on the plea that company was coming.

"It is my father's half-sister and her three boys," said the girl anxiously, "and mother doesn't see how she can do without me, because those boys act dreadfully."

The teacher referred her to the printed list of reasons which justified absence, and asked if her case came under any of them.

"Oh, yes, Miss Smith," said the girl eagerly, "it comes under this head," and she pointed to the words, "Domestic affliction."

"LOVE LAUGHS AT LOCKSMITHS" as South American Kidney Cure laughs at disease. It's the seemingly impossible doors to disease that it unlocks that makes its cure most incredible.

THE CHINESE WHEELBARROW. It is a Veritable Terror to Every European.

"I stayed two or three days in Chefoo," writes David Fraser in A Modern Campaign, "and during that time I made the acquaintance of a wonderful sound. It came to me first as I was being shaved in a barber's shop. The barber was a Japanese, and when the first wild strains broke upon my ear I sat up with a jerk that put my jugular vein in jeopardy, and asked what it was. He did not know enough English to tell."

"Whatever it was, it was fast approaching. It sounded like ten thousand pigs being killed by a heavy lid, and like that opened and closed at short and regular intervals. The sound was always present, but alternately muffled and clear, like the lamentation of a steam-operated brass band.

"I put my besouped countenance out of the shop door to look. There was nothing visible except a patriarchal Chinaman straining at an enormous wheelbarrow. The noise came out of every doorway and window in the street, from the heavens above and out of the earth below. The stones spoke it, the walls groaned it, the air vibrated with it. Only a Chinaman seemed to have no part in it. He came slowly up the pathway, toiling and tottering behind his ill-balanced vehicle.

"Then he came opposite the barber's door, and the noise struck me in the face like the blast of a tempest. I drove back with a shudder, knowing at last that the cause was the graceless wheel of the barrow. Laugh not, O reader, for so terrible a thing is this wail of the China wheelbarrow that his honor of Weihaiwei has promulgated an ordinance awarding imprisonment for the first offense, death for the second, and a five-dollar fine for the third. So wheelbarrows are of blessed memory in Weihaiwei, for that which renders them a terror to the Europeans. But elsewhere in China they flourish to the confusion of humanity and the glorification of disorder."

DISCOURAGED STOMACHS.—Could you wonder at the delicate causes of digestion refusing to be helped and comforted when day after day they are literally "discouraged" by strong tonics, bitter and purgative nostrums. Common sense came into Medical Science when it evolved the tasty tablet dose and discovered a God-send in humanity in Dr. Von Stan's pineapple tablets formula. 25 cents—14c.

Illdest Person She Knew. (Detroit Free Press). Here is a bit of exact reasoning on the part of a little schoolgirl. The teacher wished to impress the idea of the wrong of idleness. He put up with it by asking who were the persons who got all they could and did nothing in return. For some time there was silence, but at last the little girl who had obviously reasoned out the answer inductively from her own home experience, exclaimed, with a gasp, "of confidence, 'Please, sir, it's the baby!'"

How will Russia and Japan, when tired of fighting, make peace? In this connection it is interesting to recall how modern belligerents have come to terms. In the Spanish-American war Spain entered into negotiations with America through an intermediary, naturally France.

The Greece-Turkish war came to a close through Greece asking the great powers to obtain terms for her from a powerful adversary. In this case the defeated power, pending a settlement, practically effaced herself.

In the Chino-Japanese war the defeated power entered into negotiations with the conqueror directly, and obtained terms which, though not obviously unjust, were afterwards altered in accordance with the wishes, and interests, of Russia, France and Germany.

At the end of the war between Russia and Turkey the latter power sued directly for peace, and a treaty was made, which, being too advantageous to Russia, was recast by the great powers.

In the Franco-German war the belligerents, through negotiating directly, entered into negotiations with America through an intermediary, naturally France.

DISEASE SHOWN BY WRITING.

Patients' Penmanship Asserted to be a Help in Diagnosis.

That a patient's penmanship may be an aid to the diagnosis of disease is contended by a French medical man, an account of whose investigation along these lines is translated by the Literary Digest from the Revue Scientifique.

According to this article the system is not the same as graphology. "The physician takes into account not only the graphic character, but the writing, the spelling, the syntax, the style and the ideas; he has in mind not only the writing itself, but is applicable.

"Nevertheless, there are facts common to this subject and graphology, without investigation of the delicate connection that may exist between the motor manifestations of handwriting and traits of character of intellectual and moral qualities; the task is on a larger scale, for pathologic alterations may be marked in handwriting by very accentuated characteristics.

Several authors have already sought to find the signs of diagnosis in handwriting. Mr. Rogues de Fursac, by direct examination of a large number of patients . . . has made up a collection that has real clinical interest.

"After having examined elementary calligraphic peculiarities, such as the general form of the writing, the direction of commas and letters, etc., Mr. Rogues de Fursac studies the alteration of graphic images by effacement or by agraphia (partial loss of memory), or by general weakening of the memory, more or less accentuated amnesia.

"Lack of attention is clearly marked by omissions or inability to copy, and mental automatism is shown by substitutions, transpositions, additions, stereotypy, graphic impulsion, etc.

"A second part of the volume is devoted to the examination of various characteristic mental maladies—especially nervous affections of motor manifestation, with the handwriting characteristic of shaking palsy, chorea, tabes, writer's cramp, etc."

Railway Mileage of the World. According to the most recent German statistics, the length of the railroads of the world was 637,105 miles in December, 1904, of which 270,386 miles were in America, 187,776 miles in Europe, 46,592 miles in Asia, 15,649 miles in Australasia.

Of the mileage of European railroads Germany stands first, 34,016, followed in their order by Russia 33,286, France 28,266, Austria-Hungary 24,261, the United Kingdom 22,592, Italy 10,025, Spain 8,656, Sweden and Norway 7,730. The average cost of construction of the European railroads per mile is estimated at $107,577, while for the remainder of the world the estimate is only $59,680.

The total value of the railroads of the world according to these statistics is $43,000,000,000, of which the European roads figure for $22,000,000,000. The estimate for rolling stock is as follows in numbers: Locomotives, 150,000; passenger coaches, 225,000, and freight cars 3,000,000.—Railway and Engineering Review.

Reporter—Yes, while I was trying to get some information out of him a passerby pointed out casually that his tie had worked up the back of his neck and the detective made that an excuse to leave me harshly. Editor—Do you mean to tell me that you didn't see something sensational in that? Reporter—I don't see anything in it. Editor—Then, you're no good at reporting, young man. Marvelous Rocks in Corea. The scientists studied the springs first of all, and failing to understand them turned their attention to the wonderful cavern. The moment they entered the interior they were almost blown off their feet, and although they adopted all manner of lodges to find the origin of the wind they had to return to the open saddle but not wiser men.

The fifth wonder of Corea, the floating stone, in honor of which a temple has been built, tried the scientists' patience to a maddening degree. This stone, to all appearances, rests on the ground, yet, when two of the men stood upon it, one on each side, the third was able to draw a thick string underneath without any obstacle. Why, they were never able to discover.

The warm rock, the last wonder, also puzzled their brains. The rock is really an immense stone, on the top of which a small inn has been erected. The building requires no fires for heating purposes, either in winter or summer, for the rock always keeps warm.—Pearson's Weekly.
