DROWNED AT CHATHAM

Ife, . Collegiate Institute Student, Not Missed by Companions.

Chatham, June 3.—Thomas Ife, collegiate institute student, aged 16, son of Geo. Ife, of Darrell, was drowned in the Thames this afternoon. In company with four fellow-students he went swimming near the Pere Marquette bridge, swinning across to the south bank, where his companions last saw him alive. Later, when they discovered that he had not returned to school, the alarm was given. Ife's clothes were found still on the bank. Though a good swimmer, he had suffered before from cramps, which are thought to have overtaken him on the return trip. Student, Not Missed by Companions.

TØ UPSET A WILL. Peter C. Thomas Left His Farm to

Church at Bath.

Kingston, June 2.-The heirs of the ate Peter Churchill Thomas, of Ernesttown township, who died in 1877, are suing Rev. A. L. McTear, rector of St. suing Rev. A. L. McTear, rector of St. John's Church, Bath, to have set aside the will of the deceased, made two days before his death, thirty-two years ago. The ground taken is that religious bodies are not allowed to participate in legacies made within six months of a devisor's death. By the terms of Mr. Thomas' will the use of his farm was given to his brothers till their death. Then the rent or produce from it was to go to the rector of St. John's Church, Bath, in perpetuity. The surviving legate died about a month ago, and steps are now being taken to have the farm go to other heirs. The case will be tried here on June 14 by Justice MacMahon.
