LONDON, June 19, (midnight)—Lu the House of Lords this evening the Earl of Ellenborough, in some re-narks on the Abyasinian Expedition, suggested that on account of the unusual character of the services performed by the troops, special honors be palotto them upon their returns from the scene of their exploits. The Earl of Malmsbary, Lord Privy Seal, in reply, said that the Ministry had not yet considered the point. The Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief of the Army, expressed the opinion, that an award of unusual honors to the members of the Abyasinian Expedition would be a bad precedent. The subject was then dropped. This would be a French invasion that everybody would be a bad precedent. The subject was then dropped. The Logis's ure of British Columbia has by a vote of a bad precedent. The subject was then dropped. The Logis's ure of British Columbia has by a vote of 50 the publication of a libel.

The London Tomahauek says:—"A controversial meetfor the glory of God and the spread of true Christianity, has been held in the north of England, at which only fifteen people received gunshot, wounds, twenty-nine serious injuries, and thirty-five were carried to the hospital.
As the Riot Act was read only five times, the disturbance lasted only three days, the destruction of property was limited to only 216 Irish houses, and lastly, as only 200 special constables were sworn in and 300 military summoned from a distance, this may be regarded as one of the most orderly and edifying things of the kind that have occurred in the locality for some time past."

enlightened or strong government would accept; and we verily believe that rather than undo what has been done, the Imperial Parliament would allow Nova Scotis and all these Provinces to rise in revolt and annex themselves to the United States. Disintegration would be a dangerous precedent for the Mother Country to establish. How readily would Ireland cancel her Union with England if she had the power; and her plea for repeal is stronger than Nova Scotia's, because accomplished by the most flagrant corruption and bribery. If, therefore, Nova Scotia obtained a repeal of her Union summoned from a distance, this may be regarded as one of the most orderly and editying things of the kind that have occurred in the locality for some time past."

Count De Montalembert has written an article on the proposed disendowment of the Irish Church in the last number of his favorite journal, the Correspondent. The Count is rejoued at Mr. Glastone's Resolutions. The inglat of their introduction in the House of Commons he counts among the remarkable dates in history.
