To the memory of Arthur Thomey who died at Labrador 19th July, 1881.

He left his home light-hearted and crossed the stormy wave; At Labrador he landed A Captain true and brave.

His three o'clock! What's the cause of this unusual sound of voices raised in mourning? Sure, some one must be drowned.

No. But Arthur home is borne A corpse. The noise you hear. Is mother's sad lament And that of sister dear.

Ah! such crying will not cure The pain we now must bear, But look we up to Heaven And hope he's happy there.

Then let us join together, We'll all those tears remove, And pray his soul be happy And dwell with God above.
