A Sense of Perspective.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

There are a great many people in this world who never seem to have more than one idea or one feeling at a time. I once knew a young girl who was so devoted to her mother that she was held up as an example to all other girls in the town; but when she fell in love and married as girls will do, she seemed to transfer all her devotion to her husband. The little mother was left out in the cold and was given only the barest crusts of love and affection left over from the feast. This phase lasted for two years. Then the baby came and immediately all the devotion was transferred to him. She became as indifferent toward her husband as she had been toward her mother. Even when a competent nurse had been secured, she was unwilling to go out with her husband; when he talked with her of his interests which she had once delighted in sharing, she listened with vacant eyes—she was wondering if she had sterilized the bottles properly, or if she had not better put another blanket on the baby. Needless to say, while her husband had condoned the indifference and neglect with which his wife treated her mother, he was astonished and indignant at this second change. Now the world is a big place and our lives are complex things, and the normal human being ought to have room for a great many interests and affections at once. To concentrate on a single interest and affection is narrow and short-sighted. Unless that woman learns to take an interest in something besides her child she is storing up misery for herself and her family. Besides the people who can have but one affection at a time, there are those who are capable of only one idea. In this class are the enthusiasts who believe that some single change in our way of living would make us all perfectly well. One is absolutely sure that we would all live to be a hundred if we would only chew each mouthful of food forty or fifty times. Another is just as positive that the only thing necessary for perfect health is to sleep out doors. Still another goes about proving to his own satisfaction that all human ills are caused by wearing tight clothes. And then there are the reformers who think the social ill health can be cured by one or two laws. If we could only have the minimum wage or the single tax, they tell us, the millennium would come at once. If you hold a penny close enough to your eye you can shut out the sun, but that does not mean that the penny is bigger than the sun. If you hold some one idea or affection very close to your heart you can shut out a whole world of other ideas and affections, but that does not mean that the one idea or affection, however good, is more important than all the rest together. A sense of perspective is a thing a great many people seem to need.

For The Nervous Woman,

Or the woman who experiences hot flashes nothing is so good to soothe, quiet and calm the nervous system as a pure glyceric extract of native medical plants, and made without alcohol, which has been sold by druggists for the past forty years, and most favorably known as Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In younger years some women suffer from dizziness, or fainting spells, hysteria, headache, bearing-down feelings and pain. All these symptoms of irritability and female disturbance are relieved by the use of this famous "Prescription" of Doctor Pierce. As a powerful, invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system, and in particular to the organs distinctly feminine. For over-worked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, it is an excellent appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. "My disease was called 'neurosis,'" writes Mrs. LYDIA McDONALD, of Montreal, "and I was very weak. Then I had inflammation and the doctor said I had a floating kidney. I doctored seven months with our family physician. He said I would have to have an operation. Then I stopped taking his medicine. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicine I have not had any nervous spells, I am better than for years. My daughter is now taking the 'Prescription' and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, also the 'Pellets' for nervousness and weak, tired feelings. These remedies have made me much in a short time. We have great faith in your medicines for female troubles."

Engineering War Scares to Get Business.

Berlin, April 26.—Dr. Carl L. Liebknecht, the German Socialist leader, continued in the Reichstag to-day his revelations in connection with the method of armament concerns, which he said, though living on international hostility, were run on internationalized capital. He cited a contract existing between certain leading small arms and ammunition factories—two in Germany, one in Austria and one in Belgium—principally backed by French money, by the terms of which, the Deputy alleged, an agreement had been reached to eliminate competition and to guarantee mutual profits.

Publish False News. Dr. Liebknecht pointed out that German companies were selling arms to Russia, and that another concern largely capitalized with French money was furnishing armour plate to Germany, and, he asserted, all these companies were engineering war scares in order to insure contracts. The Socialist leader to-day introduced the names of Emperor William and the German Crown Prince, mentioning that although the Vorwarts printed in 1910 a letter showing that an attempt had been made by a German arms syndicate to secure the publication in French newspapers of false news regarding the strengthening of the French army, with the object of causing a reflex action of German opinion, the Emperor did not hesitate to appoint Herr Von Gontard, director of the syndicate, a life member in the Prussian House of Lords.

Delay in Distribution of Scott Fund. London, April 26.—Although the Scott antarctic fund for the dependents of Captain Scott and his heroic companions had passed $25,000 early in March, Mrs. Evans, the widow of Seaman Evans, and her three children, have been living the past three months on $3.24 a week, according to the Daily Express. Beyond this pension, awarded by the Admiralty and a few pounds from the Daily Telegraph fund, she has received nothing. The Daily Express, which describes the delay in distribution of the funds as "one of the most extraordinary instances of official inaptitude on record," has interviewed Sir William Soulsby, secretary to the Lord Mayor, who started the national fund. He said: "We are waiting for the Government to move in regard to provision for the relatives of the South Pole victims." He added that if Mrs. Evans had only applied for help, he would willingly have given aid.

When young children grow restless, let them string things—beads or cut straws or short lengths of macaroni. Flower holders of bronze or copper in the shape of lizards or dragons insure a graceful arrangement of the stems.

MR. CLAPP'S STAND

FOR THE POORLY PAID POSTMASTERS.

Speech in the House.

MR. CLAPP—I would like to ask the Hon. Colonial Secretary if any provision has been made for the payment of rent for Outpost Post Offices. This may appear to be a small matter, but it is a large matter to these people. I know of several post offices in my own district which are all in private houses or stores where fuel is provided and where the postmaster or mistress receives an annual sum of ten to fifteen dollars, whereas in large places post offices have been erected at the expense of the Government. I consider this unfair. Communications have been sent to the Postmaster General, and I presume submitted to the Colonial Secretary, asking for rent and asking to be reimbursed for fuel consumed, and nothing has been done. Now, I say again this is unfair. If a post office is provided by the Government, we will say in Bonaventure Bay, or in any other place, I don't care what district you name, then the man or woman who gets aside a room in his or her house or store for an office should certainly be paid rent—$10, $20, $30 or $40, according to the size of the room, and not have to go on writing the Postmaster General time and again asking for reimbursement and receiving no answer. I have letters in my possession now dealing with this same matter, and I have not been able to get any satisfaction; and I consider this is the opportune time to bring it before the House and find out whether anything is to be done or whether these people are going to be robbed—that is the proper word for it.
