BONAR LAW.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR'S SPEECH.

LONDON, Dec. 10.

The speech of the German Chancellor is commented on extensively in London newspapers this afternoon. The Chancellor's utterances are described as "colorless and perfunctory" and as an attempt to present the picture of Germany waging a purely defensive war against enemies which would encircle and starve her. All papers characterize as fallacious the Chancellor's argument in regard to the analogy between British proceedings in Greece and the German invasion of Belgium.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL REELECTED.

LONDON, Dec. 10.

Postmaster General Herbert Samuel, who was compelled to seek re-election to the Commons on account of his recent appointment to the Cabinet post of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, overwhelmed his opponent in a bye-election in the Cleveland division of the North Riding of Yorkshire. His vote was 7,312 as against 1,452 obtained by Henry Knight, a printer of Leeds. Mr. Knight made his campaign under the auspices of the business government league. He also opposed recent enactments restricting the sale of liquors. The assertion was made by Knight that he represented the consensus of opinion among the laboring classes on the liquor question, but Labor leaders asserted that his statements that the trade unions were opposed to the regulations which have been made, were untrue.

RECRUITING ACTIVE.

LONDON, Dec. 10.

The rush of men who desire to escape the stigma of being forced to join the colors by conscription should it be adopted, continued today, the last but one of the trial period for Earl Derby's recruiting plan. Lines formed at recruiting stations as early as 5 o'clock in the morning, and remained there all day. The announcement that there would be no extension of the time limit for the test volunteer system, apparently convinced many men of military fitness that Earl Derby was in earnest, and caused them to flock to the stations. The scenes in the recruiting bureaus were entirely different from those during Secretary Kitchener's regime. It is not a case of inducing men to enlist as the result of appeals made by recruiting sergeants, but rather the handling of applicants, who wait patiently in long lines, three or four abreast, in the cold, blustery weather. At Trafalgar Square only is there still a crowd of idlers stood around the base of the monument to hear appeals on behalf of King and Country, which were being made by the speakers; a collection of elderly men, boys, soldiers, foreigners, and men wearing khaki armlets. The band at the Horse Guards Parade, Whitehall, with martial music was attempting to rouse patriotic enthusiasm, but at the central recruiting office at the War Office close by, hundreds of applicants were awaiting their turn to face the examiners. A similar line-up extending to the sidewalks was found at every recruiting bureau. About the only difference to the observer was the character of the crowds at the various stations. In the east end of London the applicants consisted of laborers, costers, wearing caps, with their coat collars turned up. In St. Paul's churchyard were desk workers, office helpers, thin chested men of the city type waiting their turn. Men who, evidently were surrendering good positions, predominated in the better residential districts, but all the crowds were marked by the same characteristics. All stood quiet, each individual appearing indifferent to his neighbor, but nevertheless wearing a good-natured air. There was no talking, but much smoking by men in the line, while on the opposite side of the street could be seen groups of men, non-eligibles, or men who already had been accepted, who watched the others with equal silence. The nearest approach to demonstration would occur when a group of accepted men with an air of elation would form by fours in the streets for the first time in their lives, and march away under the direction of a Sergeant, upon which the applicants in the line would cheer the marchers a bit. Perchance some of the bystanders would cheer them as full fledged volunteers, their quietness being simply the British way of doing things. At Scotland Yard the station officials were surprised by the arrival of 200 civil service clerks. The examining physicians have been overworked and complaints had been made of slowness in enrolling by clerks at the stations. Yet it is believed that all the applicants in London can be enrolled before the time limit set by Lord Derby expires.

fore the time limit set by Lord Derby expires.

MONTENEGRINS DEFEAT HUNS.

PARIS, Dec. 10.

Montenegrin troops repulsed energetic attacks made by Austro-Hungarians and forced them to retire beyond Dubotchitza, on Wednesday, Dec. 8th, according to the official communication received by the Montenegrin Consul-General here to-day. The Montenegrins took one hundred prisoners and a quantity of rifles. On Thursday, Austrian aeroplanes dropped bombs on Cetinje, without causing any damage. On the same day, Austrians launched from aeroplanes over the Montenegrin front proclamations addressed to the army and population, advising them to cease resistance. If they did not, the proclamation stated, Montenegro would suffer the same fate as Serbia, the Entente Allies being unable to succor them or even to repulse invasion in their own territory. A great number of Austrian dead covered the field after the engagement on Wednesday.

BRINGING PRESSURE ON GREECE.

LONDON, Dec. 10.

In view of the latest turn of events in Macedonia the diplomats of the Entente Powers are pressing the Greek government to clear up promptly the situation with regard to the Allied troops there, as it is considered essential that they enjoy full liberty of movement, says a Reuter despatch from Athens. The feeling in Greek circles seems somewhat pessimistic, according to these advices in view of recent communications from British and French legations dwelling upon the determined attitude of the Entente Powers.
