Mr. Spence had his eye upon an office in the inland revenue department, and had, in fact, been promised the same. Mr. McFadden, he says, un-dertook to get the appointment. It was explained that the negotiations uld not be carried on without money, Mr. Spence thereupon gave Mr. Mc-Fadden two sums of $25 each, and sundry other smaller sums at differ-ent times, amounting in all, it is said, to about the amount claimed The goods were not delivered to Mr. John H. Spence, Time went past with reckless haste, but there was no sign then, and there has been no sign since of the promised appointment. Messrs. Spence and McFadden wrote each other, but the outcome was unsatisfactory, Hence the present action.

Mr. McFadden has lodged his answer through his lawyers Messrs. Brewster, Muirhead & Heyd, In the first place, Mr. McFadden disputes the entire claim. tire claim in full. In the second place, he has a counter claim from which it would appear that defendant had gone to Ottawa twice, and once to Toronto nection with the matter. Mr. McFadden's counter claim is as fol-
