MONDAY MORNING, JAN. 19, 1885. our Civic Government.

It has become so much the habit to indulge in indiscriminate censure of the city council that there is a danger of its degenerating, both as regards honesty and ability; for when we consider the magnitude of our municipal affairs, and the consequent demand upon the time and thought of our civic representatives, the wonder is his Police Gazette from coming into Canot that so few men of position are aspirants for civic honor, but that so many men of business intelligence and character are sketch of the chief of police of Hamilton willing to assume the daties of a position, and also one of Mr. Wingate, lately of this the only return for which is often undecity. Richard K. does ample justice to served—and not infrequently grossly the noble birth of the chief of Hamilton's in a great measure is owing to political animosity and party feeling, for talk as we may about the desirability of excluding Shattesbury hall will appreciate the inserpolitics from the municipal arena, it is party is recognized as essential to politierations influence our civic contests, and cipal experience, both reform and conservative, are of opinion that it would be hetter to throw off all pretence, run the elections on purely party grounds, and hold those in the ascendant responsible for the wise and economical administration of our affairs. Without expressing an opinion on this point, there can be no doubt that many able and available men are deterred from giving their services to the city by the knowledge of the fact that their only

It is quite evident from the retiring address of Mayor Boswell that the council of 1884 had important duties to perform, the most important pertaining to the Esplanade, the new pumping engines, and the electric light. the council there has been a growing con- kind of immigrants to keep pouring in viction that with a few modifications the upon us, and it is easier to see that somehave been accepted, as subsequent meet ings between the citizens' committee and the railway companies have demonstrated that the latter were only too glad of the opportunity to retire from the position they had been forced to assume; and today this vexed question is no nearer a solution than it was five years ago. The difference of opinion as to the re spective merits of the rival pumping engines, resulted in the choice of the home product. Notwithstanding the profuse charges of bribery and the submission of an aldermanic declaration to that effect (an affidavit the investigation following which cost the city $500), there was no sufficient evidence offered that the council had acted other than conscientiously throughout. Much abuse has also been heaped upon the council for passing the contract for the electric lighting of the city, but here again the council seem to have acted more intelligently than their traducers, inasmuch as a clause was introduced into the agreement authorizing the council to cancel it at any time upon giving six months' notice to that effect, thereby depriving the contract of much of its commercial value, while it is a standing incentive to the now amalgamated companies to render the best pos Bible service.

The court house question partook very much of a sectional question, but after all, perhaps, and taking everything into consideration it will meet the general conveni ence of the public. It is the action of the council of this year in this matter that will receive most attention

Mr. Boswell correctly defines the mayor's position when he says that, unaided, he is nearly powerless to effect needed reforms. He may however, if qualified, do much in suggesting, and by his counsel aiding, the solution of the many matters which press for immediate consideration; and if the mayor-elect (who was not our choice) will not now think us presumptuous, we will for his guidance, and that of the new council, indicate some of them.

Foremost is that of the new trunk avatem of sewers, and which should not be delayed a day longer than is absolutely necessary. Much has already been don in the way of preliminary surveys, &c., but the most thorough consideration should be given, and the best talent availed of, before the work is finally entered upon. The re-arrangement of the electoral divisions of the city and a reduction in the number, and a change in the mode of electing the members of the council are looked for. The assessment department of the city also requires to be placed upon a more equitable and efficient basis, and a change made in the composition of the court of revision. These with a pre-audit of the city accounts; renewed and better directed energy in the detective department of the police service; the extension of the local improvement principle to all improvements; a change in the executive of the waterworks department; the King street crossing and the everlasting Esplan ade question; the annexation of Parkdale and the judicious absorption of territory contiguous to the present city limits; apply a remody. And it seems to us that and considering that we shall have either to accuire, or assent to a renewal of the suggested would be a good beginning. It harter of the street railway a few years hence, a just and intelligent treatment of government were represented on the occathe company, in the public interest in sion. But if this be too much to expect opposition to a prejudiced and unreasoning policy; and above all the strictest economy to Ottawa at all, have a thorough overin every part of municipal work, are the leading subjects that will command attention. Many of these will add whole responsibility on the dominion govgreatly to the permanent debt of ernment will surely fail, and that deservthe city, the annual charges in connection with which are already large, and it must be borne in mind uncontrolable; and therefore the financial policy should be directed to placing a fair share of the burthen of taxation upon the shoulders of the taxpayer of the future. There are other matters of minor importance, but enough has been said to show that the incoming council will have plenty to do, and while we much regret the absence from the new council of men of large municipal experience, and great exand respect of their fellow-citizens, A Distinguished Canadian Richard K. Fox, the distinguished New York journalist, though the law prevents nada, does not ignore Ganadian subjects. In his last number he has a portrait and

We do not, however, believe the authorities of tion of Mr. Stewart's picture (covered with still an undoubted fact that so long as medals) in the P. To tion about the gallant officer's relationship such an extent is this recognized that many to Lord Blantyre was furnished to Mr

the subject of the sketch.

The dominion of Canada, with a population ation of about five millions, has room for at least five times that number, probably ten times as many. It is of large geographipeople are wanted as well as territory. Were we to have an immigration boom with half a million to a million new comers every ear for ten years to come, it would be one too many, provided only that they settled on the land and became farmers. But somehow or other good agricultural settlers come in slowly, while immigrants vho seek work in the cities come in droves. We want immigrants, but of the right Since the first matter was considered by kind. It is the tendency of the wrong ning is wrong than to suggest a remedy. The St. George's society, and those citiens who give freely of their time and effort to the management of the combined city charities, deserve the thanks of the nmunity for their valuable services. The ublic should not be too exacting, but let s suggest that something might be done o come to a general understanding about this vexed question of pauper immigration, once for all. If Dr. Goldwin Smith, Presiient Elliott, and Mr. Pell could make it convenient to go together to Ottawa and confer with the dominion authorities there such good might be done, We do not mean by this that the do ninion government is particularly to blame in the matter; the fact is that the Ontario government must to a considerable extent hare the responsibility. We are suffering ust now from the continuance of the old immigration system after the old conditions have materially changed. It is the system that is wrong, rather than the men who administer it. That is, let us add, always excepting steamship agents and avowed promoters of pauper emigration from England, who require to be very closely watched. They make money by shipping nsuitable emigrants to our shores; and heir operations had need to be kept under ie most efficient surveillance. The trades and labor council began by loing good service, but of late its main eason for existence appears to be the making of points against the dominion govern nent. Workingmen will not be well adrised if they allow their council to becom political machine, in the interest of on arty, but the signs have been looking hat way of late. A reform of the immi gration business is greatly required, but it will not come any the sooner by putting all the blame on the dominion government while letting the provincial governmen scape without a word. The council will mmand more of public confidence by dealing fairly and squarely in this matter, and keeping clear of political party feeling as much as possible.

It is a remarkable fact that over the order nothing is said against either federal or state governments for giving too much couragement to immigrants. But blame has been rightly put upon railway men and other large employers of labor, who, when anable to get English, Irish, Scotch and ermans in sufficient number, have taken importing Italians and Hungarians. There, as well as here, the steamship companies are the chief offenders by a large najority. The fact is that the whole question of unigration management is surrounded with grave practical difficulties. We cannot stop immigration, that is clear; it will not do for us to publish it to all the world that Canada is too full now, and wants no more accessions of population from Europe. At the same time we cannot tolerate the indiscriminate importations of immigrants who become charges upon our charities.

stopped somehow or other. It seems to be very clearly the interest of the dominion government to find out just where the present system is wrong and such a conference at Ottawa as we have Any attempt to put the ernment will surely fail, and that deservedly. A fair effort should be made to handle the immigration question with as little as possible of political partizanship.

Sir Leonard Tilley has surely good reason to be thereby for the manufacture of the formula of the surely good reason to be thereby for the manufacture of the surely good reason to be thereby for the manufacture of the surely good reason to the district. Mining is still, though not so profitably, carried on, the average wages being from four to six dollars a day.

Until now mining has chiefly been confined to the river bars at low water, but Jerome Boudreau of New Brunswick, who

Sir Leonard Tilley has surely good reason to be thankful for the recent supreme court decision at Ottawa. Notwithstanding his temperance record of a lifetime he has been charged with inconsistency, and with squinting towards the liquor interest for support. But this will not do any longer; for if license legislation is wholly in the hands of the provinces, the dominion authorities are clear of responsibility. The minister of finance should feel greatly relieved to find the burden lifted from his shoulders altogether. Supposing the decision to stand, some very important results may flow from it. We had better remember that, even with the Crooks act, as amended, Ontario is by no means the banner province in the temperance cause. cutive ability, we trust that the council of 1825 will be able so to administer our civic affairs as to entitle them to the thanks anner province in the temperance cause. For in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia the license laws are stricter than continuing the work by hand. With suffable machinery there is no doubt that the large deposits of pay gravel there existing could be excavated at a very handsome profit. Besides at the place mentioned there are many other similar and richer deposits on the river, which have not been worked at all, that being worked chiefly have the worked at all, that being worked chiefly The trades and labor council is right in rotesting against the shipment of pauper —The rock on which many a constitu-tion goes to pieces is dyspepsia. It is their interest to make such shipments and it is certainly to our interest to prevent them. In this matter the boards are of course hand in glove with the steamship companies. To stamp out this growing evil it may be necessary to confer larger powers than at present upon the ion government. The Division Court Must Go. Editor World: As you are one of the "lights" of the times, will you kindly give your opinion on the abolition of the collecting of all debts in the division courts to the amount of $100 and under? Many of our country was a relating up this question and disamount of $100 and under? Many of our country papers are taking up this question and discussing it pro and con. Some contend that consuming on credit is a great waste of time and capital in this young and growing Canada of ours, and that we ought to port our helm for the cash system, now that the storm is coming on. What say you? C.O.D.

The writer of the above is a storekeeper in this city, and we avail ourselves of his question to express an opinion that has been forced on us after considerable observation, and it is this: that the division yation, and it is this: that the division provided in the storm of the considerable observation, and it is this: that the division yation, and it is an instrument for large rolls. The work of the constant of the const

We make bold to say that there is more misery caused in this city by the division court than anything else, only excepting drink. It is used mainly to harass the poor and it succeeds admirably in its iniquitous work. It is on a par with the instruments of torture of other ages. of other ages.
