SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

(See last page.)

These children have just come home from Sunday-school. The boys are reading their library books. Little Mabel is telling her mother what she learned at school, and baby, who is too young even to read DEW DROPS or go to school, is listening as if she understood it all.

We hope that the mothers read the Lesson Story in DEW DROPS to the little folks who cannot read, and help them to learn the Golden Text and the Answers to the Questions. These Sunday-school lessons will be among the most precious memories of their after lives.

I think when I read the sweet story of old
 When Jesus was here among men
 How he called little children like lambs to his fold,
 I should like to have been with him then.

Yet still to his footstool in prayer we may go,
 And ask for a share in his love;
 And if we but seek him and serve him below
 We shall love him and praise him above.

INDUSTRIOUS NELLIE.

Industrious is a long word for a small girl or boy. But I am glad that many of my little readers know what it means. Nellie likes to work and help mamma. She can sweep, and dust, and mop up a floor, and do many other useful things. She loves to play when her work is done. Her Sunday-school teacher says she is one of her best scholars; and her mamma says she does not know what she would do without Nellie.
