

THE Maritime Medical News

A MONTHLY JOURNAL OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY.

Vol. XIII. HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, NOVEMBER, 1901. No. 11.

Panopepton with Iron

Panopepton with Iron may be described as constituting a food-iron, the ferruginous element being so happily united as to convey none of the usual disagreeable characteristics of iron, being extremely assimilable and agreeable—in fact, to be scarcely distinguishable from the “plain” Panopepton.

Panopepton with Iron

Panopepton with Iron is not precipitated by acids or by alkalis, and thus the iron retains its soluble form in the stomach and intestinal tract during the entire period of digestion. It is absolutely free from cane sugar.

Panopepton with Iron

Panopepton with Iron is put up in the same size and style of package as Panopepton “plain,” and sold at the same price.

Originated by
Fairchild Bros. & Foster,
New York.

PRINTED BY T. C. ALLEN & Co., 124 GRANVILLE STREET, HALIFAX, N. S.

THE PROPERTY OF
ACADEMY OF MEDICINE
TORONTO
18 QUEEN'S ST.