

Ron Kawchuk is the President of the Canadian Association of Internet Providers. He was a pioneer in several Canadian telecommunications industry innovations, including Mach/Mega services, electronic mail, network outsourcing, sharing/resale, voice/data integration, local services pricing and Internet related access services. Mr. Kawchuk has over 25 years of telecommunications industry experience in both large end-user and vendor environments, having worked at IBM, Bell Canada, BNR Inc., Unitel and ISM. He led the coalition called HALT, Halt All Local Tolls, a group focused on awareness, education, and advocacy with respect to pay-per-call or local measured service in Canada. Recent assignments include wireless (LCMS & PCS), Internet and regulatory related projects.

Marvin Kurz is the National Legal Counsel for the League for Human Rights. A partner in the Brampton law firm of Dale, Streiman and Kurz, he has appeared before the Deschenes Commission on War Criminals, has intervened on the League's behalf in such cases as Malcolm Ross and the Somalia Inquiry, and is currently acting as counsel for the League at the Human Rights Tribunal of Ernst Zundel.

Evan Liebovitch is the president of Sound Software, a Unix, Linux and Internet services company located in Brampton Ontario. He has been heavily involved in getting B'nai Brith Canada wired to the Internet, and he has also been involved with the Nizkor project and other community Internet projects.

Sol Littman is a sociologist turned journalist and community relations worker who serves as the Canadian Representative of the Wiesenthal Centre. In that capacity he played a key in persuading the Canadian government to appoint a Commission of Inquiry on War Criminals in Canada (the Deschenes Commission) and to amend Canada's Criminal Code to allow the prosecution of war criminals for crimes committed beyond Canada's borders. Mr. Littman was a senior editorial writer with the Toronto Star, and has since written two books, War Criminal on Trial, and The Trizub and the Swastika, the history of a Ukrainian Waffen-SS Division that, to be published next Spring.

Dr. Deborah E. Lipstadt is Dorot Professor of Modern Jewish and Holocaust Studies at Emory University in Atlanta. Her latest book Denying the Holocaust: The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory, is the first full length study of the history of those who attempt to deny the Holocaust. She has also written Beyond Belief: The American Press and the Coming of the Holocaust. Dr. Lipstadt was a historical consultant to the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum where she helped design the section of the Museum dedicated to the American response to the Holocaust. In 1994 she was appointed by President Clinton to serve on the United States Holocaust Memorial Council. In 1996 she was appointed by the Secretary of State to the newly formed Advisory Committee on Religious Freedom Abroad.

Neil MacDonald has been a reporter and editor for the last 21 years. He has worked at the Ottawa Citizen, the Montreal Gazette and the Vancouver Sun. He has been with the CBC for the past ten years. He has been a parliamentary reporter for 13 of his years in media, and spent two years with the documentary unit at the CBC. He has focused extensively on Nazi War Criminals, and has the distinction being sued by two veterans of the Galician (Ukrainian) SS Division.

David Matas is a noted immigration and refugee lawyer, a past National Chair of the League for Human Rights, and a current Vice President of B'nai Brith Canada. He also serves as Senior Honorary Counsel of B'nai Brith Canada. A native of Winnipeg, he has worked with Amnesty International and Helsinki Watch, and has written books on several subjects, including Nazi war criminals in Canada titled Justice Delayed.

Kenneth McVay has been a leader in developing and carrying out community based and grass roots strategies for countering the lies of Holocaust deniers on the Internet. Mr. McVay is the Director of the