

writer for this unwarrantable use of his work, the publisher of the Christian Herald recognized his rights therein by the payment of a sum agreed upon, by printing at the head of each subsequent instalment his name as its joint author. These explanations are given in vindication of the original authorship of this story, which is here reprinted entirely from the original medium in which it appeared, and in its original form.

W. H. WITHROW.