NEED TOLERANT SPIR'T AMONG PROTESTANTS

Archdeacon Madden and Rev. Dr. Hanson Preach on Christian Unity at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Oct. 12 .- (Special.) -St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was crowded this evening with an audience composed of members from all the Protestant denominations of the city to hear Archdeacon Madden of Liverpool, Eng., and Rev. Dr. Hanson, Bel-fast, Ireland, representatives of the Evangelical Alliance, deliver addresses in the interest of co-operation and the promotion of unity. Rev. Dr. Fletcher, president of the local alliance, oc-cupied the chair. Archdeacon Mad-den, after alluding to the prominence den, after alluding to the prominence that was being devoted to the movement toward spiritual alliance among the denominations in England, said they wanted to see a breaking down of prejudice and intolerance, and a removal of that spirit of intolerance and antagonism actuating Christians against Christians. He said a broad and deep church was wanted in England and in the west where men were slipping away from the religion of their fatners.

After telling how the movement had been taken up in Germany, the Arch-deacon said that if the men of the Christian churches acted in unison, they could do away with war. While they could do away with war. While he was confident that ultimately God would triumph, he was certain that during the coming century the Christian religion would be challenged, and the responsibility was upon them to strive for the Bible, for Christ, for the old truths, and for those principles which had made the Anglo Saxon fnow for his honesty in business, and that righteousness which exalteth a nation.

Intolerance was not dead yet. They saw it in Europe, and the events in Portugal had been the result of the struggle of the people for civil and religious liberty. The archdeacon expressed the hope that an evangelical force would soon be stretched across Canada, and marshalled behind the banner of Christ.

Dr. Hanson said that there was no antagonism among the missionaries of antagonism among the missionaries of tried antagonism among the missionaries of various denominations in the foreign fields, and he believed with Canon Henson that the spirit of unity should be domesticated. He asked how unbelievers could be converted, in the face of the fraticidal strife of the Protestant churches. He concluded by face of the fraticidal strife of the Protestant churches. He concluded by drawing a picture of a comprehensive Protestant church, with the virtues of all denominations and the extremes of none.

The action brought by the Meridian Britannia Company against the stock-holders of the Hamilton Bowling and Athletic Club came up before Judge Monk in the first division court this afternoon. The action was to occide who was to meet a judgment secured against the club by the company for $60, the value of trophles purchased. C. J. Myles, the principal shareholder, objected to a bailiff seizing the property of the club, as he said he had purchased it. Judge Monk declined to give a finding and suggested that the give a finding, and suggested that the best way to settle the trouble would be to appeal The Road Traffic Bylaw.

The legislation committee decided to amend the road traffic bylaw, by striking out the clause that makes it necessary for pedestrians to pass always on the right side. The clause prchibiting runners from using the streets was also struck out. It was also decided to compel automobiles to cross streets at intersections and turn corners at a speed not exceeding four miles an hour. By the decision to extend the area in which cattle and pigs must not be kept in the city easterly to Wentworth-street and as far as Wentworth-street and as far as the Grand Trunk tracks, the Stroud cattle buyers will be affected. DINEEN'S GREAT DISPLAY OF HIGHEST GLASS FURS

Yonge St. Firm Now in Splendid Remodeled Quarters and Able to Cope With Increasing Business.

An interesting picture is published in this issue, showing the building of the W. & D. Dineen Co., as it appears now that the recent enlargements and improvements have been completed. This well-known firm, which was established in 1874, removed to the present site some ten or twelve years ago, but at that time only a part of the building was occupied by it. During the last few months a dividing wall has been torn down, new show windows have been let in on the Temperance-street front, and the upper floors have been considerably extended. This has been done to make the room that has become absolutely necessary for the increased business of all the departments, and to provide space for a new department of ladies' sultings. now that the recent enlargements and

An inspection of the store gives some idea of the enormous business that has grown from the small beginnings of thirty-five years ago. The department of ladies furs is most impressive, a stock valued at over $150,000 being on display, and including garments of sealskin, Persian lamb, Hudson seal, pony skin and many other fashionable furs. Costly stoles and muffs of mink, Hudson Bay sable, Russian sable, ermine and chinchilla, in styles equal to those of London or Paris, are shown on racks specially fitted for the shown on racks specially fitted for the purpose. Muffs this season are worn very large, and there is a grand show-ing of large, round carriage and auto muffs in all the fashionable furs. There is a special department for ladies' fur-lined coats, where auto and street coats are shown, both fur and satin-lined. Magnificent long coats are displayed, suitable for traveling and ocean wear, as well as for driving in cold weather.

The new department which has just been added, takes in a space of 60 by 40 feet, at the western end of the second floor. Everything in this department is brand new, so that ladies can be sure of seeing only up-to-date garments in the way of tailor-made suits, skirts and ulsters. Both street coats and traveling coats are shown in diagonals, serges, tweeds, Venetians, broadcloths, basket weaves and other stylish materials, and the rain coats include sliks, moires and pongees. There is an extensive stock of separate skirts, in such cloths as Panamas, ate skirts, in such cloths as voiles and Venetians.

In the millinery department there is a beautiful showing of fashionable hats, copied from the latest Paris models and manufactured on the premises by the firm's own workers. Hats run to extremes this year, and the large picture hats and small, dressy toques are equally well represented. The new styles in winter turbans of mink, Persian lamb and black Russian hare are just being prepared. In this de-partment, also, many novelties are shown in the way of feather, marabou and ostrich boas.

what can be done in the way of an up-to-date store, and shows well the prosperity which has attended the reliable methods and good values which have always been the policy of this old-established firm, which has been growing by degrees until the entire building belongs to it. There is a complete plant on the premises, one of the largest in Toronto and pagety average. the largest in Toronto, and nearly everything is manufactured on the spot, so that goods go from the factory to the wearer. Most of the furs are bought direct from the trappers in Northern Ontario and the Hudson Bay while the Russian furs are imported directly from the markets of Europe, being secured on the continent by the firm's own buyers, who have long experience in obtaining all that is best and most reasonable in

It is little wonder that better values can be obtained here at Yonge and Temperance-streets than elsewhere in the city, when the long-standing Dineen reputation for reliability is taken into consideration, coupled with the spirit of go-ahead which has infused them from the beginning. In their enlarged store as it is to-day, they have now a home that is worthy of their business in every way.

The Wagnerian setting of "Let's all go down the Strand," with its banana notif, was inimitable. It was good to hear Mr. French recite the nursery rhymes as rewritten by the great poets, and he said it did him good to meet people who had heard of Wordsworth. "Here is the Song of the Black Sheep, and Here is the Song of the White" was easily attributable to Kipling, and the Longfellow account of "Tell me not in mournful numbers that the cows are in the corn" was delightful. It winds up with "The corn is in the cows," for "Cows are real, cows are earnest." Then there were Irish songs galore and in the best style of the author of "Phil the Fluter's Ball" and "Killa-"Phil the Fluter's Ball" and "Killa-
