ROYAL PARTY CHEERED BY BULLS AND BEARS

Even Stock Tickers Took Ten Minutes' Rest — Busy Social Function.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—(Can. Press).—The Duke and Duchess of Connaught and the Princess Patricia visited the Wall-street district to-day, where money kings come and go daily with much ado, their royal highnesses found the way choked with an admiring, cheering throng.

Ambassador Reid, acting as host and guide, took the party in automobiles to the stock exchange, where they were met at the stock exchange by President H. R. Thomas. The news of the visit had preceded the arrival by about ten minutes, and so great was the wish to catch a glimpse of British royalty that a crowd of nearly 3000 persons had gathered in front of the exchange to greet the visitors. Detective Farnson, who is detailed to the vice-regal visitors, had to invoke the aid of several policemen to force a passage for the party, and when they entered the exchange interest was so general that business was actually stopped for more than ten minutes. After being shown the operations of the floor, the visitors departed, to find the whole cheerfare choked with a cheering mass of people.

From the home of millions in hoarded and invested wealth, the visitors where whirled up-town for a visit to the M.H.A. Hotel, to see the home of hundreds of persons of small means, erected by the late D. O. Mills, father-in-law of Ambassador Reid.

On the Social Whirl.

A luncheon at the Fifth-avenue home of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., was the chief feature of the afternoon, and to-night the party was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills at a dinner and musicale. Sixty persons of social prominence were invited to the dinner, and more than 200 more came later for the musicale.

There was a lively rush at the Metropolitan box office to-day when it became known that the ducal party might postpone their departure until after the performance of "Le Donne Curiose," on Friday evening.

The Duchess and Princess Patricia will attend the opera Thursday afternoon and evening with Mrs. Whitehall Reid, but the duke will be visiting President Taft at the White House, and a desire to see some New York opera. If the return to Ottawa can be postponed, the performance Friday evening will be made a gala one. The suggestion of the change of plan was made at the Reid dinner last night and aroused immense interest.

THE BUSINESS TIPSTER.

It is impossible for any one man, or group of men, to know everything in any of the big American cities, especially just who will buy next or who ought to buy.

This is where the business tipster comes in. He wastes no time on any glittering generalities of trade. "Lewis & Macartney, 77 First avenue, are just closing a lease for a new factory. They'll want he has ready for that purpose, or by word of mouth to a responsible man who is always ready to buy information of their kind and will at once follow up this clue.

This news would have reached the firm in the ordinary course of affairs, but now it is fresh and not a competitor has it. The time is just sufficient to enable the firm to jump out a little selling campaign suited to Lewis & Macartney's future needs, pick out just the right man to handle the information, and send out to these a daily or weekly bulletin that covers nothing but trade opportunities and possibilities of possible business. Tipsters must be accurate, first of all, and equally first of all, immediately, in a business whose who have not subscribed will find themselves completely handicapped and will practically be forced to take the service.

Two Weeks' Feast Of Grand Opera

The revised repertoire to be presented by the Montreal Opera Company during its fortnight's visit to the Royal Alexander Theatre next month will be as follows:

Feb. 12, "La Tosca" (Puccini); Feb. 13, "Faust" (Gounod); Feb. 14, "Le Bohème" (Puccini); Feb. 15, "Mignon" (Ambroise Thomas); Feb. 16, "Madame Butterfly" (Puccini); Feb. 17, "Manon" (Massenet); Feb. 18, "Le Barber de Seville" (Rossini); Feb. 19, "Manon" (Massenet); Feb. 20, "Le Chemineau" (Xavier Leroux); Feb. 21, "Louise" (Charpentier); Feb. 22, "Rigoletto" (Verdi); Feb. 23, "Le Chemineau" (Xavier Leroux); Feb. 24, "Manon" (Massenet); Feb. 25, "Le Chemineau" (Xavier Leroux); Feb. 26, "Manon" (Massenet); Feb. 27, "Le Chemineau" (Xavier Leroux); Feb. 28, "Manon" (Massenet).

Of these operas, "Louise," "Le Chemineau," and "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame" have never before been given in Toronto; while "La Tosca," "Mignon," "Manon," "The Barber of Seville," "Rigoletto," and "Romeo et Juliette" have had but one or two previous hearings here. The repertoire will enlist the services of five distinguished prima donnas, Ettore Ferrabini, Fely Deyre, Beatrice La Palma, Frances Alda and Beatrice Bowman.

Mrs. Geo. Butler Tells What Dodd's Kidney Pills Did For Her.

She was tired, nervous and run down, and suffered from pains in the back — Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

PAQUETVILLE, Gloucester Co., N. B., Jan. 24.—(Special).—That Dodd's Kidney Pills are suffering woman's best friend was never better demonstrated than in the case of Mrs. Geo. Butler, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place.

"My trouble was brought on by hard work," Mrs. Butler tells her friends. "For four years I suffered from pain in my back. I was always tired and nervous. My head ached and I had dark circles under my eyes, which were also puffed and swollen.

"I was in a generally run-down condition and feeling very much discouraged when I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I can only say I found relief at once. I was always tired and nervous. My head ached and I had dark circles under my eyes, which were also puffed and swollen.

"The mauling of woman's health is the kidneys. If the kidneys are right the blood will be pure. Pure blood is absolutely essential to good health. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the kidneys right.

LIGHT ON M'NAMARA PLOT

Chance Remarks to Tailor Give State Valuable Evidence.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 24.—(Can. Press).—Thru remarks carelessly made by James E. McNamara while he was having a suit of clothes fitted by T. C. Fleming, a tailor in Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1908, the federal grand jury to-day obtained evidence which, it is said, is about important disclosures concerning the identity of men who helped blow up places in the west.

Born, who testified before the grand jury, is said to have heard from McNamara not only about the plan to blow up an hotel in Salt Lake City in December of that year, but also about the details as to how it was to be done and who was to do it. About this time, according to Orrie E. McManigal, J. J. McNamara was directing the dynamiting operations from Indianapolis and the movement was being extended to the Pacific coast with a view of making Salt Lake City "a place of supply."

CLEVER HORSE THIEVES OF THE KHYBER PASS.

The Khyber Pass is the chief gateway into Afghanistan. Sixteen miles south of it is the City of Peshawar. The adjoining valley and hills have always been the haunts of professional thieves. The objects which they most covet are silver, money and horses. In securing these they evince great skill and daring.

Their most popular mode of horse-stealing requires at least three men to carry out comfortably and successfully. One of them, explains a writer in Harper's Weekly, quietly steals his way into the stable and lays hold of a cord which has been pushed thru one of the holes in the wall by an accomplice outside.

The two use this string as a saw, while the third man pours upon it a plentiful supply of water. The cord silently and speedily cuts its way down the mud wall.

In a wonderfully short time the three crafty men manage to saw round a portion of the wall, which, when pushed out, leaves a space sufficient to allow a horse to pass out. This done, the remaining work presents no difficulty. The ropes which bind the horse are cut, and in a short time he is carried to the hills with generally two or three of his new masters on his back.

Interesting encounter with the name of a place in Tennessee which he passed thru on route to a town wherein he was to hold court upon one occasion when a federal judge, an old fellow full of local lore, was driving him. The road ran within sight of the village, not passing thru it.

"What is the name of that place?" asked Mr. Taft.

The driver made a few incoherent sounds which Prof. Garner might have been able to interpret, but which were beyond the calm judicial comprehension.

"What did you say?" queried Mr. Taft.

"The driver repeated the formula. 'How do you spell it?' queried the mystified future president.

The old man stroked his beard meditatively for a moment and then replied:

"It's my opinion that there hasn't no way to spell the name of that place."—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

"What are you going to give your wife?"

"I think I'll give her a $60 cheque and then try to coax it away from her after Christmas."—Washington Herald.
