Reminding his hearers that the day had a dual significance as the celebration of St. Paul's conversion, and also as the induction-day of their vicar, the archdeacon proceeded to outline very dramatically the life of St. Paul from his boyhood days in the streets of Tarsus and the mountain slopes of Tarsus and the mountain slopes of Tarsus and the mountain slopes of Tarsus, until, smitten by the vision upon the Damascus road, he became "a servant of Jesus Christ, called to be an apostle, separated unto the Church of God."

Turning to the rector, he bade him look for his ideal, his enthusiasm and his exemplar in the splendid life and noble record of the apostle to the Gentiles.

A NNOUNCEMENT TO OWNERS AND puyers of Untario tamis—For monus we have worked early and tate and spent large sums of money in our efforts to place on our books the most complete list obtainable of Untario farins, minutely and trutafully described, taus enabling a puyer to make a suitable selection as to locality, size, quality of soil, value of buildings and other improvements, price, and terms of payment.

W E WANT TO GET OUR ONTARIO buyers suited before March 1st, for three reasons. Our first reason is that we have been advertising heavily in the old country, and our agents there advise us to expect a large influx of moneyed settlers this spring. Our second reason is that the severity of the present winter in the west has been too much for many who are there and we are warned to prepare for considerable business from that quarter. Our third reason is that, owing to the reports of the privation and suffering in the west this winter many farmers in Ontarto who thought of going west in the spring have wisely decided to buy here. So that everything points to a large movement of Ontario farm lands at Hurley, Lawson & Martin's great central farm market.
