ant-governor in council has discretionary power to refuse to issue stock? What do you consider is the power of the lieutenant-governor?" enquired Mr. Whitney. Had he power to issue letters patent with conditions?

Government's Powers. 'I do not think he would have power to make conditions unless the company accepted them." was Mr. Fuller-

Galt by the Western Municipalities Union, against the issuing of the stock. The municipalities were all bound together, and if was felt that a crucial point had been reached. It would be disastrous to the scheme of the hydroelectric commission to grant the letters patent. It would ruin the company for the city to construct a second plant. The only way to carry out the scheme perly was to take over the existing plant. The city wished to deal fair! with the company. One gentleman shock his head, but the mayor assured him that the city had no power to do anything but justice. "You wouldn't if you could," said Premier Whitney with a smile.

the city. Not a word was said in the press about it. A letter sent to the mayor was treated by a conspiracy of silence. This most important letter was not discussed in public by the board of control as anything derogatory to the company would have been.
The mayor denied any suppression, and Premier Whitney remarked that the discussion was not taking the turn he expected.
Company's Legal Position.

E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., for the Electrc Light Co., dealt with the legal aspect of the question. The lieutenant-governor could do a great many things but not arbitrarily or without good reasons. The law for the increase of cantral was very simple. If the sharecapital was very simple. If the chare-holders, by two-thirds majority de-sired it, the lieutenant-governor might or might not issue letters patent. He thought Mr. Fullerton had not put the matter as plainly as it might be put-It was the law of the land that only one test should be applied in issuing stock. That was the test of bona fides. If the application was bona fide then there was no option. Before any mention had been made city to place a finger on any single IN HIS NEW PLAY act of mala fides in the whole transaction. The city asked the tion. The city asked the government to hold its hand, simply because they nad another scheme in view. At a time when the city, nor any one else wanted the company, in 1889, by agreement, the company put down an under-ground system in the city. This was done on the strength of a 30 years con-tract, the expiration of which was pro-

Want Appropriation

The city did not want expropriation, but appropriation, remarked Mr. Johnston, as he recited the terms of the contract. It had been attacked by the city for years. The privy council had ruled that there had been no breach of the contract by the company, and the city now asked specifically that this contract be broken. Unless the city could show that the tion should be allowed to the applica-He pointed out that under the hydroelectric scheme Toronto would be given an undue position or influence and application was mala fide, no excep-

A Suggestion. He suggested that the larger cities should come under the general law, which would result that when property was taken over, the proceedings would be placed under a judicial body like the cabinet council, which, as a middle or unprejudiced party, would deal justly with the parties. He compared the city to a man who would expropriate the T Eaton Co. by offering 50 cents on the dollar for shopworn goods, invoice prices for the new goods, and nothing at all for the millions spent in building up the business. Mir. Johnston also affirmed the failure of municipal ownership in practice. Mr Fullenton reiterated his argument that after the Electric Light Co. had shown their bona fides it was the duty of the lieutenant-governor to consider the case and do what was right.

sidered Correspondence Private

"Mr. Nicholis never suggested that the matter should be made public," said the mayor last night, referring to the complaint made by the vicepresident of the Toronto-Niagara Power Co. that his worship had kept undue secrecy regarding the correspondence between the city and the company on the operation of the waterworks system by electric power. "I felt that the letter was to be looked upon as a private one," added the mayor. 'I had no motive in keeping it so."

* Public Amusements

What is possibly the most emphatic and spontaneous dramatic success of the year is the new drama, "Bedford's Hope," which comes to the Grand next week. The story is truly American, and every character found in the Mountains of Montana, where the Old Pard mine exists, near Plain View Gulch. The dialog is of the breezy, unconventional sort. The mounting of this play is decidedly exceptional and Artist Buhler and a corps of assistants are responsible for the numerous picturesque stage pictures. The introduction of the massive panoramic race scene between a practical automobile and a train of cors is the big sensation, and it has everything in the dine f stage realism yet invented pletely eclipsed. Besides the Wednes-day and Saturday matinees, a special matinee will be given Good Fridaya.

Charles T. Aldrich, the well-known character actor, comes to the Majestic next week, in the thrilling detective play entitled "Secret Service Sam" or Co. began. It was only when they could not obtain power from the American companies that for the honor of Canada they determined to go into the business themselves.

Some weeks ago the company had some reductions in price to the company had considered some reductions in price to the company had considered some reductions in price to the constant of the man with 40 faces. In this play Mr feature act on the vaudeville stage.
