The victory of Mr. Andrew Pattullo in North Oxford, has been fittingly celebrated by Mr. Geo. Seaman, leader of the Plattsville citizens' band, who has composed a catchy little march in honor of that popular M.P.P. B 50

The Government has announced its intention of reducing the rate of interest paid by it on postoffice savings bank deposits to 21/2 per cent. In this it is only following the tendency of the times, and availing itself of its higher credit to reduce the burden of its loans. Whether or not the banks will be able or willing to follow suit remains to be geen.—Montreal Witness.

The banks ought to follow the example set, and thus induce the more general investment of money in public and private enterprises.

S. 30 In the recent discussion at Ottawa on the question of newspaper postage, Sir Charles Tupper professed to be very much afraid that in some way, when the 2 cent rate for letters and the 1/2 c per pound postage for newspapers came into force, Conservative newspapers would be injured. The fact, however, is that the postoffice is administered by Postmaster-General Mulock with sole regard for the public in-Sir Charles' object was really to cham- wise, no one need object. pion the interests of the Montreal Star, Let us apply the same rule to Domin-

Mr. Edward Gurney, a well-known the Conservative manufacturer, and President of the Toronto Board of Trade last year, highly commended the Government measure for providing an all-Canadian route to the Yukon, which was so unceremoniously thrown out by the partisan majority in the Dominion Senate. Mr. Gurney's views are indorsed by the independent business men of the country. He said:

"I think that if the Canadian Government had advertised for tenders upon the basis of giving 3,700,000 acres I land with the other conditions that attach to this contract, and had cailed upon people to bid in the usual way providing a cash payment for any increase in the terms of the offer, the whole thing would have any time within the past year been taken as a piece of humor, and the people who are howling most loudly now would have been the loudest laughers at the absurd proposition. It is the old complaint of not valuing things till someone gets his hands on them; then comes

An Ottawa correspondent announces that the capital of the Yukon territory will be established at Fort Selkirk, which is splendidly situated at the confluence of the Pelly and Lewes Rivers and directly on the line of travel into the heart of the Yukon country. Dawson City is the center of attraction just now because of its contiguity to the Klondike, but the Klondike River alone does not constitute the whole of the gold area of the district, and before long thousands of prospectors will be scattered all over that country. Dawson is admittedly located in a swamp, and is consequently very unhealthy. The Government sees no reason for choosing Dawson as capital, but on the contrary there are good reasons why some other point should be selected. Accordingly, it has been resolved to erect barracks for the military at Fort Selkirk and the Bank of Commerce building will also be put up there. Administrator Walsh will, of course, have his headquarters at the new capital.

The Queen's Government Will

Go On. The discussion of the action of the Dominion Senate in throwing out the Government measure for the immediate provision of an all-Canadian route to the Yukon continues. It is generally condemned by independent men of all classes. Those connected with the industrial and commercial interests of Canada are almost unanimous in expressing the conviction that a stand highly detrimental to the Dominion has been taken by Sir M. Bowell and his partisan associates. Despite this fact, however, it would be a mistake for anyone to contend that the action of the Senate can be allowed to stay the machinery of government, or even seriously interfere with the progressive polfcy mapped out by the Administration. The conduct of these partisan politicians, many of them rejected at the polls before they were appointed to the has received a wide extension at the Senate, is no doubt irritating, and it will add strength to the demand for a change in the constitution of the irresponsible chamber. But it is plain that long before any change could be carried out the practical situation in the Yukon will have to be met. Sir M. vell and his associates have decreed inited States pockets. fused to listen to the proposition of the Government that an all-Canadian route must be immediately provided in order that Canada may hold many millions of dollars worth of trade with the Yukon that by right belongs to her, and that safety of life and property on the Yukon may be effectively guaranteed. The Senate majority rejected legislation with this end in view, rather than confess that their political opponents have the right and the capacity to make the necessary arrangements. We believe. however, that the extraordinary display of partisanship against the bill to provide an all-Canadian route has made a deep impression on the people of Canada, and that they will uphold the Ministers in resorting to any reasonable expedient to thwart the irresponsibles and carry out the decreed will of the representatives of the people.

One result of the attack of Sir M. Bowell and his colleagues will be a rallying to the side of the Government and the majority of the people whom The United States cannot be accused class of independent electors to be they represent of that considerable

Oil and Trade Restriction in the East-A report of Consul Everett is to the effect that the American oil trade with the Dutch East Indies is increasing, while that of Russia is falling off. This in spite of the fact that the price of American oil is higher than that of the Russian article. The prospects of the Standard Oil Company, therefore, would be of the best if it were not that it is now proposed to put on a prohibitory in the interest of the Sumatra oil, which is increasing in quantity. American goods in the east encounter many obstacles wherever the influence of Great Britain is not dominant.—Buffalo

This is a confession which goes to prove the identity of interest in the east of the two great English-speaking be given to the Motherland in her effort to keep trade free to the whole as is admitted by our United States contemporary, which gives a pointed instance, there our neighbors can trade without trammel. It is different when a country is under the control of other European nations. They are immediately set to work to restrict commerce, and to promote purely selfish interests. Of course, our neighbors over the border cannot object to this with a straight face, as they have the trick of similarly treating even those who are their best customers.

The partisan course of the senate since the Laurier Government came into power has recalled a speech once by one of its oldest members, the Hon. R. W. Scott, in the course of which he said: "According to the history of the senate, it is used simply for the political exigencies of the government of the day. I quite appreciate the sentiment of the honorable gentle man who has spoken before me; but if had sat in the last parliament, as I did, he would know that members of the senate were not then quite so fair and reasonable; that this house, with its great Conservative majority, was used as an inquisitorial commission for purpose of sending forth through country damaging reports against the late government (Mr. Mackenzie's) -reports that today they would not indorse. They spent month after month procuring evidence to show how preposterous it was to make improvements on the Kaministiqua River, yet last year and this year there are votes for strictly enforce the bylaw. the improvement of that river. They said that a breakwater should be constructed at Prince Arthur's Landing, and to carry out the scheme they spent money there to no purpose. When we introduced a bill for the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway it was thrown cut of this house; when the present government introduced a bill for the same purpose it was carried here. When we introduced a bill to right a wrong in the county of Huron, to reconstruct the ridings of that county as they should be, it was scorned and thrown out; when a bill is introduced by the present government to 'hive the Grits,' as they say, to alter every constituency The Government proposes to give each in the other house, no attempt is made at the beck and instance of their friends to stop it, or to see whether it is fair or in accord with provincial rights or votes as there are constituencies in not. When the present government took the absurd position of fighting the provinces and attempting to denriv them of their rights, when they attempted to take the licensing power from the provincial governments, which they had enjoyed for eighteen years. and when I raised my voice against the bill, when it came to the senate, who listened to me? Not a soul. Sir John A. Macdonald has stated that the licensing power belonged to the Dominion and so this house, at the beck of the government of the day, at accepted the proposition, would not listen to an argument against it for one moment. Young English officers in riding suits, others in pink hunting coats and others throng of the street, and young English girls on slender and spirited-looking horses or in dogcarts add a really festive air to the spectacle. You can tell one of the English girls a mile off. They are blonde and homely, inevitable mass of hair called the "bun" jutting far out under the lee of a little straw hat, and with fresh glow of health in their faces that comes from lots of outdoor exercise. They walk with a swinging stride, and their shoes are as heavy as a man's. They all seemed to be wearing a bluish-gray sort of dress, which must be the proper thing now with young English ladies, a little straw hat, and, as a general thing, they were accompanied, when walking, by fox terriers. One girl, who looked like the kind of young lady Du Maurier used to draw in the back of Marper's Magazine, carried a stick, and nobody seemed to show any alarming amount of wonder at it. to Mother and Sweetheart. Windsor, April 4 .- J. H. Tuchband, supposed to have hailed from Chicago, was found dead in his room at the Manning House on Saturday. He had come to the hotel on Friady night after 12 clock without baggage, and had been given room 12. On Saturday morning e had two drinks brought to his room. This was the last time he was seen alive. As the guest made no response to the knocks at his door, the bellboy went through the transom. The body of Tuchband was found on the floor, and life seemed to have been extinct for some time. The body was only partly dressed, and an empty bottle beside it seemed to indicate that the man had taken some poison. Tuchband was a traveling man for A. A. Vantine, of New York, and had been in Detroit for some time. He had been suffering from rheumatism. Two cards were discovered in the room, on apparently to his mother, and read as follows: "Good-bye, sweetest and dear-est of mammas. Forgive and forget

THE PARTISAN SENATE you. You are too good for me, and I shall pray for you and mamma. This is from the grave." After the body had been removed to the morgue anvisiting his daughter, Mrs. William other card was found, on which was written: "In case of death or accident, wire J. Tuchband, 92 La Salle street, Chicago." He had no baggage, and no money was found on him, but he had two unpaid bills for hotel board.

Radway & Co.—

Dear Sirs—I have been keeping in the house your Radway's Ready Relief for the last six years. I have used it in every way, and found it to be the best on earth. Six years ago I was sick. I tried all kinds of medicine, but they did me no good. My father saw the advertisement in the paper: he told me to try a bottle. I did so, and by using it three days I was ablo to be out. I have kept it on hand ever since, and have told my neighbors about it. My wife has been troubled with toothache. I gave a trial of the medicine and it cured her pain instantly. I was gathering corn and got my hand caught between the wagon bed and standard and mashed it badly. I ran to the house and poured on a lot of Radway's Ready Relief and had no more pain. I tied my hand up with a piece of flannel, poured on more Radway's Ready Relief, and in an hour I was ready to take hold of my work again. I cannot be thankful enough. I could write a great deal more, but this paper would not hold half of what I could write. Yours truly.
