OTTAWA, Ont., April 30,-Hon, Frank Cochrane will arrive in Toronto lomorrow. Ever since his illness compelled him to go south over two months ago he has been resting at Washington. However, he is now so far recovered that he has given up the flat in the United States capital which he has accurated and he and Mrs.

Whether or not Mr. Cochrane will come to Citawa before the end of the session of parliament is not known yet. That will depend upon what his physician says. He has been playing a good deal of golf in Washington and is described as looking in the best of health. ington and is described as looking in the hest of health.

His letters to Ottawa show that he is in the best of spirits. His breakdown in health occurred just after his return from visiting his two soldier sons in France. He found here an immense amount of work to do and he overworked himself. One of his failings is neglect of proper sleep, and between work and anxiety over his sons his health gave way.

Retook Advanced Position. Subsequently to the relief of the brigade, the enemy attacked our line in several places. Simultaneously assaults were also delivered on British positions with varying results. On our front the attacks were preceded by intense bombardments. Opposite one brigade the enemy attacked an ad-and forced him back. Vancouver Men Hard Pressed Exceptionally heavy artillery fire was directed on two old craters occupied by detachments of one of our Vancouver battalions. So intense and prolonged was the bombardment that many of the garrison were killed and few escaped injury. Parapets were smashed and trenches destroyed. Men, guns and rifles were buried, dug out and buried again in the clammy mud. Soon there was no cover even for wounded. When the bombards ceased, strong parties of Germans ad vanced. Waist deep in mud, the few survivors of our garrison could offer little resistance. Hardly one of their rifles could be got to fire, their ma guns, with one exception, were buried and even that gun was useless. The nearest crater to the enemy was on the right with its garrison commanded by Lieut. Biggs. When resistance was seen to be hopeless, the few unwounded were ordered to make for the crater on the left. The Germans turned a machine gun on those who made the attempt and only five got thru. Lieut.

Biggs and one or two others un-able to escape in time from the crater, were quickly overpowered by Lieut. Myers' Heroism. In the left-hand crater the com mander of the garrison, Lieut, C. R. Myers, had been wounded during the afternoon, but was still at his post. The bombardment had left him with few men still capable of offering remans and seized a rifle, only to find that it jammed at the first shot. The rifles of his men, again and again, re-reclaimed from the mud, only fired a shot or two before they also jammed. But even those few shots earned two more large high explosive shells which wounded or killed half of the slender garrison. Only five were now left able to walk, and two of these were wo ed. Seeing that further resistance impossible, Lieut. Myers decided to treat. Following his men, he cra away from the crater, pursued by shrapnel and machine gun fire of cnemy. Two more of the men were soon hit, but the party, finding cover in the remains of a disused trench, stayed there until darkness enabled them to regain our trenches. Only

Germans Left Craters. During the bombardment, thru the attack and subsequent retreat, Sergt, H. Bostel had rendered gallant service to his officer. A counter-attack was soon prepared, but owing to the culty of movement it was not launch. d. Instead Major Tait took out a patrol of two officers and a few men in the direction of the craters, somewhat unexpectedly these were reached and found to be unoccupied. The Germans had evidently deemed them untenable, for the crater lips had been flattened out by the bombardment and the interiors present ed nothing but a mass of slimy mud. in which there floated the bodies of many dead. At the approach of dawn Major Tait withdrew his patrol to a point where cover from view was obtained and remained out there all day watching for developments or the part of the enemy. At nightfall Lieut. Jackson again went up to the craters with a patrol and searched the ground for wounded. None was found. A hostile patrol of five was seen, but on observing our men retreated hurriedly to its trenches. ALEXANDRA MAT. WED 25c TONIGHT STOCK OPENING
