Commissioner McLellan Speaks of Crime in St. John

Commissioner McLellan made some observations this morning upon a letter written by George A. Henderson which appeared in this morning's Standard. Mr. Henderson writes that he had been credited with being the city official who gave the Standard the information for its article of last Saturday headed, "St. John Not as Bad as Painted." He writes that he did make some remarks before the Centenary Brotherhood, which he asked the representative of the Standard not to print, and which he declined afterward to repeat for publication, as he did not wish to have it appear that he was contradicting statements made by other speakers at meetings of the Brotherhood.

Mr. Henderson adds, however, that in the matter of liquor saloons and early closing, there has been a great change for the better since the early seventies. But there has been a great reduction in the number of arrests for drunkenness, especially arrests of women, as well as in the number of houses of ill-repute. He therefore contends that "St. John of today is better than old St. John, both in the lines of temperance and moral reform, as well as in the direction of sanitary and other conditions which make for the welfare of city life." Commissioner McLellan, commenting on Mr. Henderson's letter, said he did not know the cause or necessity for the letter, but when he saw the poster type article in the Standard a few days ago, he felt that some one was desirous of eulogizing police work in this city. The commissioner continued—

"If this is Mr. Henderson's intention, and it may be a laudable one, then he requires something more than the statistics of his department to support his contention. If the records today show less crime than years ago, it is because there is a much larger amount of work detected in the city than years ago. The percentage of undetected and prevented crime the city today is, in my opinion, more than that of years ago. The statement based on the statistics of years ago in the police department prove this to be correct."

INTERESTING

Messrs. D. & J. McCallum of Edinburgh, Scotland have despatched to Messrs. Wm. E. McIntyre, Ltd., of this city, a consignment of 5,000 cases of whisky on board the S.S. "Cassandra," which is due here to-day.

This is one of the largest, if not actually the largest, consignment that has ever left Scotland for one individual firm. Altogether about 70,000 bottles of different shapes and sizes are required to hold the liquor. The whole shipment is without 150 tons dead weight, and is calculated to represent about 10,000 liquid gallons.

It will require about 100 loads to remove the goods from the Donaldson Warehouse to Messrs. McIntyre's. The whisky is the celebrated "Perfection" which has lately attained such great popularity with the Scotch whisky connoisseurs of Canada.

SUFFRAGETTES TO JAIL

London, Feb. 11.—Seven militant suffragettes were sentenced in Bow street police court today, to four days' imprisonment each, on refusal to find sureties that they would keep the peace for six months after they had been charged with obstruction and assault in connection with a demonstration in Downing street last night.

Another batch of militants were brought up in the West London police court on charges of assaulting the police during an attempt to arrest Mrs. Pankhurst last night. Some were sent to prison for a week on refusal to pay bail, while others were discharged or remanded pending inquiries.

A force of police kept close watch all night on the hearts of citizens general. Mrs. Pankhurst has taken up her residence in large quantities of provisions and been laid in there during the last two days.

Mutiny has broken out already in the so-called peace army, formed from the lowest classes of the East End of London by Miss Sylvia Pankhurst. Some of the men started smoking pungent coarse shag tobacco in clay pipes, at a meeting of the army today. When told to stop, the men refused, saying "If we are not allowed to smoke, we will come here again," and quit the meeting.

PRICES MUST COME

DOWN, SAYS BURNS

Calgary "Meat King" is an Advocate of Back-to-Land Movement

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 11.—"The price of meat is going to come down. It has to. It can't go any higher," said P. Burns, the meat king here.

"The way to reduce the cost of living is to go on the land and grow things. Tell every man you know to go out and grow some cabbages and raise a few chickens, and keep a few milk cows and make some butter. I'll buy his product from him. I shouldn't have to go to New Zealand and Australia and Japan for produce when I'm operating my business in this fine, big, rich western country."

"You tell the people for me that if they want to make things cheaper they should sell their automobiles and quit 'swapping' real estate and living off each other. You can't reduce the cost of living by eternally increasing the cost of bits of real estate by selling it and selling it, each time at an advanced price."

"But people are realizing that, I find that in the east (by which Mr. Burns meant the middle west) real estate business is letting up, and people are going on the land and buying a few cattle. It is going to take a little while before things will improve sufficiently for prices to be affected, and the reduction will be gradual, but the process of getting back to a sensible basis is going on in the west already."

"But I have just that one thing to say. Tell everybody to go out and buy a bit of land and grow something. Make this country rich and the cost of living will come down."

AMHERST WANTS HIS SERVICES AGAIN

Amherst News.—The many friends of supervised playground work and of our genial friend John MacKinnon, who was in charge last season, will be glad to know that the balance due him went forward on this morning's mail. Two of our classes called on a number of gentlemen this morning and in less than two hours secured the seventy-five dollars necessary to hold a camp for the summer which has been overlooked for some time. The generosity and freedom of response which were met with at almost every case indicates clearly what a hold the welfare work among our boys has on the hearts of our citizens general.

By Mr. MacKinnon will be welcomed back to resume this department of the community work when he is able to devote time to it next summer.

(Mr. MacKinnon is a St. John man and will graduate this year at Acadia.)
