KEEP OUT OF TEMPTATION
Police Court Warning About Acts of Vandalism

Tonight is Halloween but let youthful mischief makers beware. Magistrate Ritchie has issued a warning against acts of vandalism, and the invitation to two years in Dorchester is hardly alluring. Yet that is what he holds out. In strong language this morning in the police court, His Honor spoke against acts of vandalism, in dealing with the case of Carl Otto, a German, arrested by Market Policeman Dawes on a charge of wilfully breaking a window in the laboratory of the city market.

He imposed a fine of $29 or two months in jail on Otto, allowing him to go with it standing against him in consideration of his replacing the glass which will be at a cost of about $2. Policeman Dawes said that the defendant had broken the glass in the doorway and had been caught by another market official. The defendant said that he had tried to get into the place, but the door had been closed tightly, and when he shoved hard against it, the glass had fallen out. He said he was not responsible for the damage, and that he would have replaced the glass if he had known it was broken. The tears of mother, sister or brother will be of no avail," said he.

TURN AWAY LITTLE ONES FROM THE KINDERGARTENS BECAUSE OF ROOM SHORTAGE

At the monthly meeting of the Free Kindergarten Association held this week, the four schools under its care reported full registration. Each school is supposed to register forty, but in some cases forty-seven have entered already this fall. In one school, with a registration of forty-two, the teacher has had to turn away fourteen children this month, because of lack of room. In the other schools the teachers have also refused many.

Sections of the city without kindergartens are asking for them, and offering the use of Sunday school rooms, but the committee feel they cannot add another straw to their already heavy burden. The more comfortable class of people are also asking for kindergartens for their children, but as the association stands only for helping the poor, they cannot take the more comfortable children and crowd out the others.

WANTS CONVEYANCE OF FARM SET ASIDE

Hearing was commenced this morning before Chief Justice Barker in the Chancery Division in the case of Cheesman vs. Corey et al. The plaintiff brought by the plaintiff to set aside a conveyance of a farm property at Musquash from the plaintiff to the defendant on the ground that the purchase price was never paid. The defendant paid the money by an order on the Lancaster Sewerage Board for $912 and this, it was said, was handed to the solicitor who drew the deed. The money it is alleged was never paid over but kept by the solicitor.

Mrs. Cheesman and Dr. L. M. Curran were examined this morning. M. G. Teed, K. C., and Dr. S. Alward, K. C., are appearing for the plaintiff and A. A. Wilson, K. C., and George H. V. Belyea for the defendants.

ENFORCE LAW AND KEEP THEM OFF THE STREETS

Something Needed to Save Youth in St. John—Ring Church Bells at Night Limit—Appalling Conditions

In the course of his remarks at the annual meeting of the Associated Charities last evening, Rev. F. S. Porter told of seeing recently a group of small boys of school age sitting together at the rear of the Queen's rink. He was able to approach them before they had time to playing truant, they were smoking cigarettes and playing cards. When he questioned them, they gave him no reply but hurried away to the street.

Mr. Porter also said that he had received from John MacKinnon, well-known as a community worker, and thoroughly acquainted with the conditions in St. John, certain data concerning youthful depravity in this city which were simply appalling, and he felt that every possible effort should be made to save the young people from the evil influences which are corrupting their lives.

Magistrate Ritchie referred to the fact that there is a law on the statute books under which children can be prevented from going about the streets unattended in the evening, and the young girls and youths who are merely loiterers could also be sent to their homes. He suggested that the chief of police be requested by the association to instruct the officers to enforce this law, and he contended that it would be a good thing to have the church bells rung at the hour after which children must not loiter on the streets, thus warning them and their parents of what would happen if the law was not obeyed.

Rev. Mr. McCutcheon also referred to this law and the desirability of having it enforced. Apparently, he said, it is not merely not enforced at present, but entirely overlooked.

BRINGS OUTCAST HOPE

Former Attendant in Tracadie Lazaretto, Falsely Called Lepor, Now Offered a Haven

The Chicago Record-Herald of Oct. 27 published the following:—Through the gloom that has surrounded the life of Miss Colliers, the so-called leper girl, has struck a new ray of hope. It promises to dispel the horror that has oppressed her since was born the persecution which ostracized her from her kin, made her a comparatively social outcast and harrowed her with public misconception and fear.

The hope was conveyed in a letter to The Record-Herald from a Minneapolis physician. The letter was dated Oct. 26 and informed Miss Colliers, assuring her of a refuge in Minnesota.

The letter was delivered yesterday to Miss Colliers at her home at 1141 South Desplaines street, by a reporter for The Record-Herald.

Tears welled into her eyes as she read the offer, part of which says: "I am particularly well pleased with the high standard of the exhibits. The display was most attractive and there were many fine dogs shown. He thought the show as a whole could easily compare with others in large cities in the United States and Canada, because although the entry list might not be so large, there were no poor dogs, but the general standard was well above the average."

Dr. DeMund spoke especially of some classes of dogs in which he said it would be difficult to find superiors to some of those displayed at the local show. He said also that the arrangements with which various details were attended to, and the promptness with which exhibitors assisted in the judging, were most commendable, and counted for much in the success of the show.

Speaking generally and comparatively, the doctor said the show could easily compare with others which he has judged for men in the success of the show.

Up to the standard.

JUDGE WELL PLEASED

Says Dogs Shown Here Are Well Up to Standard

Speaking of the dog show being held in the Queen's rink under the auspices of the N. B. Kennel Club, Dr. J. E. DeMund, who has acted as judge so efficiently, said this morning that he was particularly well pleased with the high standard of the exhibits. The display was most attractive and there were many fine dogs shown. He thought the show as a whole could easily compare with others in large cities in the United States and Canada, because although the entry list might not be so large, there were no poor dogs, but the general standard was well above the average.

OCTOBER STRAWBERRIES AND DANDELION GREENS

There came to the Times office by mail this morning a luscious ripe strawberry which was picked on October 29, in the garden of James A. Blair, Hampton Station. Several other berries nearly ripe were left on the vine. On October 29 also, Mrs. Blair picked a mess of dandelion greens for the table. The banana belt is now stretching itself out in an endeavor to embrace Hampton as well as this city of Halloween roses and violets.
