SCOTTISH NIGHT MARKS CELEBRATION OF ST. ANDREW'S DAY

Four Hundred Gather in Keith's Assembly Rooms - Rev. W. Bruce Muir of Annapolis The

Last night was St. Andrew's Society's ottish Nicht at the York theatre, when nore than 400 ladies and gentlemen were resent to honor "the day" and to enoy themselves with song, speech and lance. In obedience to the injunction the proceedings were opened by the pipers who discoursed the music so dear the Scottish heart.

The president, Alexander Macaulay, hen made a brief address of welcome to hose who had assembled on this the lifth anniversary of the foundation of the society, and said he hoped that all would go away with a good impression if what they had come to hear and see the announced that, owing to a series of ecidents Rev. W. Bruce Muir was unble to be present to deliver his address m "the day and a' wha honor it." Subequently, however, Mr. Muir's arrival the thistle and the maple leaf would long cling to the rose.

Lieutenant-Colonel Massie then sang "Jessie, the Flower of Dunblane" in such good style that he was obliged to accede to a demand for another song.

Lieutenant-Governor Josiah Wood was then called upon to speak, the president of St. Andrew's explaining that he had not called upon him to do so before because it had been thought a change of programme would be necessary as a result of the fears that had been entertained that Rev. Mr. Muir could not come. The lieutenant-governor thanked St. Andrew's Soicety for the invitation extended to him, remarking that he had always been an admirer of the Scottish people. On bleak hills, and in the low-lands, they had grown up under conditions that were bound to produce a sturdy race. By their industry, perseverance and honorable dealings they have been successful in all parts of the world, and a more generous, thrifty race could not be found. In literature, and other spheres, the Scotch have furnished some of the brightest intellects. He hoped St. Andrew's Soicety would always have great success.

spheres, the Scotch have furnamen some of the brightest intellects. He hoped St. Andrew's Society would always have great success.

Miss. Louise Knight sang "Caller Herrin' and so pleased her hearers that an encore was inevitable.

Rev. W. Bruce Muir delivered the address of the evening on The Day and A' Wha' Honor It, which was greatly enjoyed. He spoke of the history of the country and the many features which had caused its fame to spread throughout the world, quoting from the Scottish poets to illustrate the different parts of his address.

After the imp tant function of "The Passin' o' the Mull" had been honored in the customary impressive way F. Takeken sang with fine effect. "Scots Wae Hae."

The chief of the Clan MacKenzie, E. B. McDonald then followed with the Highland Fling, doing it in fine form. The duet, "O' Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast," by Miss Louise Knight and Mr. Pidgeon, was excelently sung and the concluding item on the programme, the song "When I Get Back Again tae Bonnie Scotland," by Mr. Guy, was so well rendered that there were several recalls.

D. Arnold Fox presided at the plano with his usual efficiency. During the evening supper was served and a fine programme of dances carried out.

"Will We No Come Back Again?" was sung towards the close, followed by Auld Lung Syne and God Save the King.

The officers of the society for the ensuing year, nearly all of whom were present at the gathering, are as follows: President, Alexander Macaulay; first vice-president, Andrew Malcolm; second vice-president, Andrew Malcolm; second vice-president, Andrew Malcolm; second vice-president, Andrew Malcolm; second vice-president, Alexander Memilian; chaplain, Rev. J. James McCaakill; historian, Alexander Wilson; treasurer, John White; secretary, Frederick W. Fraser; marshals, Charles W. Bell, Brrool A. Inches; committee of charity, Dr. P. R. Inches, Francis F. Burpee, S. Rutherford Jack.
