HER SISTER WAS BURNED IN THE CHELSEA FIRE

Mrs. W. O. Theal, of Adelaide Street, Receives Word of Fatality—Three Inmates of Dr. Fenwick's House Burned

Mrs. W. O. Theal, of Adelaide St., received the shocking intelligence last evening that Mrs. Dr. Fenwick, her sister-in-law, had met death in the Chelsea fire. It was stated in the message received that Dr. Fenwick left his home on a call and returned about 10 minutes later to find his house in flames. The block was roped off and the firemen would not allow him to pass. He was told, however, that his wife had been rescued. This calmed the doctor for a time but he wanted to see his wife immediately. When the ruins were cleared the bodies of Mrs. Fenwick, Miss Barnes, a cousin, and the maid were found. Dr. Fenwick identified his wife by the watch she wore.

LIONS ROAMED ABOUT THE STREETS

People in a Texan Town Were Terrorized.

Animals Escaped From a Circus—The Flood Situation Was Extremely Serious.

PORT WORTH, Texas, April 18.—With telephone, telegraph and railroad service almost completely suspended, Fort Worth was last night the center of the worst wind and rain storm that has been known in Texas for many years. With two exceptions every railway out of this city was forced to suspend operations. At midnight the telephone companies reported all wires out of Fort Worth cut. At 11:30 p.m. a wind of tornado proportions, followed by a torrential downpour of rain. Within twenty minutes after the storm broke the two bayous that run through Cleburn had left their banks, flooding five or six houses. A circus whose tents were pitched in the western portion of the city was completely wrecked, two lions escaped and prowled about town for an hour, throwing the people into a panic. One canvasser was caught under the wreckage of the main tent and fatally injured. The loss to the circus is estimated at $12,000. At Fort Worth the Trinity river began to rise again at midnight and every available man from the police force was hurried out to warn the people living in the bottoms.

CIRCUS PERFORMER LEAPS TO HIS DEATH

Five Thousand Horrified Spectators Witness Terrible Tragedy Under Canvas

BERLIN, April 18.—A French professor named Gadin was killed here last night before the eyes of 5,000 spectators while going through a diving performance known as the "death leap" at the Circus Busch. Gadin's performance consisted of leaping from the roof 100 feet in height to an inclined smoothly planed wooden slant. After landing on the slant he slid down into a net at the bottom. The distance from the point where the leap began to the top of the inclined shaft was sixty feet, and the shaft was forty feet in length. A successful performance of this feat necessitated leading skillfully to the slant that the body should hit the slant lightly and slide down the surface without severe shock. The hazardous nature of the performance was sufficiently indicated by the title given to it. Gadin himself understood thoroughly that the least deviation from the proper course through midair would inevitably result in his death. He dived from the roof heading, and poised his body while shooting through the air at an angle that he thought would be just right. He was there, he thought, sliding down without further resistance. Last night he failed to maintain this pose and struck the upper end of the slant with his chest. He turned a somersault, and fell heavily to the ground. Death ensued shortly afterwards. The performance was immediately stopped and the horrified audience silently quit the building. Gadin had performed the "death leap" 438 times without the least mishap.

LEAP FROM MOTOR CAR MEANS OWNER'S DEATH

London Brewer, Seeing Collision Inevitable, Jumps and Fractures His Skull

CANNES, April 18.—James Hiscutt Crossman, of Hamilton terrace, Regent's Park, London, a director of the brewing firm of Mann, Crossman & Paulin, died at the Hotel du Parc here yesterday from terrible injuries received in a motor-car collision near Beaulieu on Sunday night, when on his way here from Monte Carlo. At the place where the collision occurred Mr. Crossman's chauffeur, believing that another car approaching was on the wrong side of the road, turned aside to clear. At the same instant the chauffeur of the other car did likewise. Seeing that an accident was unavoidable, Mr. Crossman sprang out, falling on his head, and fracturing the base of his skull. His chauffeur was able to bring him to Cannes by train in a half-conscious condition. He roused himself, and was able to walk to a cab, but he lost consciousness on arriving at the hotel, and died twelve hours later. No one else was injured in the collision. It is believed that had Mr. Crossman sat still he would not have met with injury.

RIOTOUS SOLDIERS SHOT UP THE TOWN

Wild Times in Mexico—Police Called Out After Three People Had Been Killed

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—While almost the entire populace of Mazatlan, Mexico, were participating in a religious feast Sunday, twenty-five riotous soldiers broke out of the garrison and began a wild career of rioting and bloodshed. Within half an hour they had killed two policemen, and one other citizen, and had waylaid and robbed three men in the outskirts of the city. The riotous soldiers were brought by Louis Bradbury, a well known mining man, who arrived here yesterday afternoon in the German steamer Abensberg, which left Mazatlan on the day the rioting occurred. Governor Francisco Canedo, of Sinaloa, who was in the city, lost no time in calling out the mounted district police and fifty of them started in pursuit of the soldiers.

SUCCESSFUL DANGER IS A MURDERER'S SISTER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—The Gall today says: "Information was received yesterday that Maud Allen, the mysterious danseuse at the Palace Theatre in London, who has taken that city by storm, is no other than Maud Durant, of San Francisco, sister of Theodore Durant, who was hanged for the murder of Blanche Lamont, and Minnie Williams thirteen years ago. In a letter to a girl friend who attended the Polytechnic school with her she reveals her identity. Hitherto all that was known of the wonderful dancer was that she was an American, whose success was as sensational as her art."

WOMAN IS SHOT BY REJECTED SUITOR

Assassin Travels From Odessa to Paris to Prevent Her Marriage.

PARIS, April 18.—A dramatic love tragedy occurred in the Russian student colony in Paris yesterday. Alexandre Gueska, aged 20, a Russian student at Odessa, was deeply in love with a fellow student, Miss Gillsky. She ignored his advances, however, and some months ago she came to Paris in order to study at the Sorbonne. A few weeks ago she became engaged to be married. The news reached Gueska at Odessa and he at once set off for Paris. About 8 o'clock last night he called at the rooms of Miss Gillsky in the Rue Melantrich and violently protested against her forthcoming marriage. The girl told him that his journey had been a needless expense, as he knew well that she did not love him and had no desire to see him. At these words the young man suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and fired at the girl, wounding her slightly. He then turned the weapon against himself and shot himself dead. Miss Gillsky, who is suffering from shock more than from her wounds, has undertaken to pay the funeral expenses, so that the remains of her unfortunate comrade will not be transferred to the morgue. A middle aged woman named Sarah Gayton was found by the Alms House Commission secretary this morning in a most destitute condition in a house on Exmouth street. The unfortunate woman is very ill with consumption and was lying on a bed of hard boards. The room was in a filthy state, but despite her poor surroundings the woman would not at first accept the offer to be moved to the Municipal Home at Crouchville.

PAPER MAKERS BLAMED FOR THE HIGH PRICES

Congress Will Take Action Against the Combine—The Tariff Not Involved.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—In the event that the Attorney General does not soon show that something substantial has been done to prosecute the Paper Trust as a combination in restraint of trade providing the pending inquiry shows it is operating in violation of the law, Congress may go into the trust fighting business on its own account. Speaker Cannon and Chairman Payne, of the Ways and Means Committee, contend that the tariff nothing to do with the high price of print paper, that if the scarcity of raw material is responsible for it, the fault lies with the paper trust, who have been combining factories and limiting the output and have put the prices up to suit themselves. The speaker may offer a resolution providing for a searching inquiry by a Congressional committee into the operations of the International Paper Company. This inquiry if held will touch upon the sources of supply, the methods of manufacture and the manner of distribution of the products of wood pulp.

ARRESTED TWICE FOR SCOTT ACT VIOLATIONS

MONCTON, N. B., April 18.—Dennis Hogan was twice arrested this morning for Scott Act violations. He was first taken on a warrant charging him with keeping for sale, to which he pleaded guilty and paid a fifty dollar fine. As he was leaving court he was again arrested on the charge of selling and the case was adjourned till Thursday afternoon. Henry Cormier was arrested and fined fifty dollars for Scott Act violation. A half dozen other cases are before the court today. A slight fire on the roof of the Marks Carriage Factory this morning called out the fire department. Little damage was done.
