PUBLISHER'S TALK

CHRISTMAS is upon us and we repeat our message of good-will sent out last week. The season more or less influences the contents of this week's issue. The cover embodies the spirit of a holiday season. The title is the choice of the artist herself. Miss Kerr has done several covers for us, but none more glowing in colour and spirit than this.

OUR campaign with regard to prison and criminal court reform is gathering way. Those who have read the introductory articles by Mr. Hughes and Mr. Downey will be well prepared for the one this week by Mr. Downey. There will be other articles on various phases of the work, which is how to eliminate criminality.

PUBLIC interest in the Voting Competition is growing steadily. We are rather sorry it will close on January 1st but this was our announcement and it cannot be changed. Readers have therefore only a few days left in which to record their opinions.

Ten Years' Growth

The measure of a Company's prosperity is its steady growth, along safe lines, at a moderate outlay for expenses of management.

fills the bill in these respects, its operating expenses for many years having been much lower than any of its competitors while its growth for the past ten years has been abundantly satisfactory in every department of its business.
