

To Messrs. Street and Smith, of New York, and to the Proprietors of The Pall Mall Magazine, of London, I beg to express my appreciation of their sense of fairness and Square Deal. By asking of me only those rights that they could use, namely the magazine rights, they left me free to gather together now, under one cover, these stories, the majority of which originally appeared, in magazine form, under their honourable auspices.

F. N.