

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER I.—Birth-place of the author.—The first time he was sold from his mother.—He passes through several hands	5
CHAPTER II.—The author is sold to Mr. J. Gooch.—The cruel treatment he both received and witnessed on that estate.—Repeated attempts at running away.—Escapes to his mother after being absent from her about ten years.—Meets with his sister, whom he had never seen before, on the road, who conducted him to his mother	7
CHAPTER III.—An account of the Author's meeting with his mother who did not know him; but was with her a very short time before he was taken by armed men, and imprisoned for thirty-one days, and then taken back to his master	13
CHAPTER IV.—The author is flogged and punished in various ways, but still perseveres in his attempts to escape, till he was sold to Mr. Wilson	16
CHAPTER V.—The Author was not long with Mr. Wilson, who was a Negro-trader, before he was exchanged to Mr. Rowland, who was also a Trader, for another slave, and after being with him for about a year, was sold to Mr. D. Gould, who soon exchanged him again to Mr. Louis	20
CHAPTER VI.—Travels with Mr. Louis to Pendleton Indian Springs, from thence to Columbus, where he was sold at auction to Mr. Beveridge.—His travels and history with Mr. B.—Is sold again to Mr. Register	21
CHAPTER VII.—The Author's last attempt and final Escape from Marianna to Savannah.—From thence to New York.—Quarantined at Staten Island	23
CHAPTER VIII.—His arrival in New York.—On to Poughkeepsie.—Albany.—Rochester.—Vermont.—Boston, and returned from thence to New York, and embarked for England	29
CHAPTER IX.—The Author arrives at Liverpool, November 29, 1835, Makes his way for London	31
APPENDIX,	33