DIAMOND DYEING

"We use from 30 to 35 packages of Diamond Dye every six months and would go ten miles for them rather than use any other kind. We take prizes for goods dyed with Diamond dye."

Mrs. R. Bondor, Lenoir, N.C.

DIAMOND DYES hold first place in the household dye row and for good reason. The reason is the women of the country because of their vast superiority over all other makers of dye.

Beware of Substitutes for Diamond Dye. The substitutes will appear to you with such false claims as "A New Discovery!" or "An Improvement on the Old Kind," or "One Dye for All Materials," Wool, Silk or Cotton.

Dear Cousin Dorothy,—This is my first letter to the "Children's Corner." I live on a farm, and, as it is holiday now, I go chores around the farm, such as driving up the cows and milking, feeding the chickens, picking berries and other things. There are so many jobs on a farm as to be able to do. We have about twenty-five cattle, four horses and five pigs and eighty-two chickens, and about one hundred hens. I go to school every day, and am in the Senior Fourth Book. I guess I will not write too much the next time, but will close, wishing you the "Farmer's Advocate" every afternoon. I am glad to hear of LORNY GUEST (aged 11). Betty Mote, Ont. does not go away. I will not say I am a grand second.

Dear Cousin Dorothy, I am spending my holidays at my uncle's. He lives on a farm only staying two weeks at a time. I wrote a letter last year, and was pleased to see it printed, so I thought I would write again. My uncle sends The Farmer Advocate to me, and I like to read the letters in it. He lives in Toronto, but I like on the farm best. I will close now with a few adios.

16. What two letters do boys delight

Bean Croquettes.—Press left-over, boiled baked beans through a ricer. Mix with a little butter and tomato sauce. Shape into cakes; roll in egg, then in crumbs, and fry.

Fish Balls.—Mix equal quantities of cooked fish and mashed potatoes; stir in a piece of butter, season with salt and pepper, add one beaten egg for every four cups. Make into cakes; roll in Creamed Liver.—Cut the liver in bits, cover with cold water, adding two cloves and a teaspoon of lemon juice. Simmer gently for an hour, pour off the water; add half pint of rich milk, heat, season, thicken slightly with flour, and serve on buttered toast.

Shepherd's Pie.—Mince any lean, cooked meat fine, put in an earthen baking-dish, season, pour a little gravy or water over, spread mashed and seasoned potatoes thickly over the top, cover with a layer of butter. Bake, and serve hot, with a napkin pinned about the baking-dish.

There are dozens of other recipes, but these are all for which we have space at present. I hope some of them may be useful.

Now for your baby dress. An authority on these matters assures me that you get nothing prettier for your boy in cashmere, or good-quality woollen hosiery, both of which wear well, and sh well. Make it in a little Buster own suit, buttoned at the side, with Buster Brown belt, or with a long

"Yes," announced the princess, "I all be happy to take a husband should ere be one found to my liking!"

The whole day before, the princess had steep in thought, scarcely tasting the food placed before her. It was only at morning that the ministers of state and respectfully called upon her and suggested that it would please her people much should she take a husband.

The king, her father, had been killed while hunting a full year ago, and the queen had died soon afterward from grief. While the princess was as wise as she was beautiful, still her subjects felt the kingdom needed the firm hand of a king—therefore, this request.

Now, a princess so young and beautiful and have no lack of suitors, but then it was very, very hard to please, so that a proclamation was sent far and wide telling the world of her desire to choose a husband. Up, up, up, up, up! Soon the courtiers began to arrive far and near. Some were tall and one were short; some were fat and one were lean; but all bore high-sounding titles, and possessed great wealth. Each bestowed upon her a magnificent gift—that is, all except one. Exactly one day before the trumpet blew announcing the close of the time for all aspirants to marry, there was admitted to the court
