St. Joseph's Academy, Toronto. The annual Commencement Exercises too lace in St. Joseph's Academy on the mornin

The annual Commencement Exercises took place in St. Joseph's Academy on the morning of the 21st.

At 8 a.m. High Mass was celebrated in the Convent chapel by the Very Reverend Viear General McCann, attended by several of the General McCann, attended by several of the Convent chapel by the Very Reverend Viear General McCann, attended by several of the grant beautiful and soul-stirring, a fitting accompaniement to this grand closing act of worship.

During the course of the morning the distribution of honors took place in the Academy concert hall, where a brief but exquisite programme was presented to the assembled clergy. The prominent figures upon the stage were the graduates, the Misses Carmel Sullivan, Mary F. Curtis, and Isabel F. Curtis. These young ladies have been under the tuition of the sisters from their earliest years, and are no doubt the pride of Alima Mare. They are, I should say, educated in every sense of the word. The diplomas which they hold from the Niumo and Harrison Business College would enable them if necessary to take a position in life, while their refined accomplishments and elegance of manner would repute them an oranaments of any drawing roometer them an oranaments of that purity and innocence they were carrying ut into the world. There is perhaps nothing so refreshing to the eye of worldy experience as the sight of a convent graduate with her manfected grace of manner and charming simplicity of mind.

The students made a "hit" with this play on St. Patrick's Day, but the presentation of Cardinal Wiseman's immortal play last night surpassed anything evertiven by amateurs in this town. The aste of characters was the same as on St. Patrick's evening, but a few of the totors are worthy of special mention for he able manner in which they had taken helr parts.

parts, phemianus, a Roman patrician, had a successful impersonator in the perof Hugh B. Hennessey. He was claily strong in the death scene of dins. Mr. Jos. Schmit took the part Mickius. 'the hidden gem,' to perfect. The way he suffered all the taunis gibes of his comrades, and lastly even denouncement of his own father, was ty saint like and the spectators' eves tion. The way he suffered all the taunis and gibes of his comrades, and lastly even the denouncement of his own father, was really saint like, and the spectators' eyes often filled with tears, touched by the pathetic scenes enacted on the stage. Fourwesk took the part of Carluns, the nephew of Euphemnans and the training faith, and later vindication of Alexius, won for him the hearts of the audience. Wm. J. Michan. as Procuns, was an unmitigated scoundrel and hypocrite, and the frequent hisses from the spectators showed that his acting was appreciated. The part of Euseblus, the pattent slave and, later, freedman, was taken to perfection by M. Darbard, was taken to perfection by M. Darbard, which all J. Weldner made a good Bibulus, the unrelenting enemy of his master. Euphemianus. The minor parts were all well taken, and we feel safe in saying that as far as histrionic work is concerned. "The Hidden Gem" was rhe best produgition that the students of the college ever put on before a Berlin audience.

Between the acts the following musical selections were given:—

I. "Hollay Soliti". Plano duet Messrs, J. Klahs and W. Winterhalt. "Aire Varle." Violin solo Mr. John Winterhalt. (b) "Life Let us Cherish". Violin solo Master Oscar Ziegler.

VOLUME XXII.

The Catholic Record

London, Saturday. July 14, 1900.

IRELAND'S ENEMY. Timothy Healy must, if one may take his latest pronouncements seriously, imagine that life is a perpetual Donnybrook Fair. He is certainly the "enfant terrible" of the Irish Party. A clever debator and incisive speaker, he could if he chose be a tower of strength to the cause of Home Rule. Time, indeed, was when Timothy was an Irishman all the time, but his later years have been given over to dreams of ambition and to dealing out abuse to his political confreres.

Despite the fact that Mr. Blake has given to Ireland the services of his magnificent abilities, and has on more than one occasion contributed largely to campaign funds, he has never ceased to be a victim of Mr. Healey's attacks and vilification. He has hounded down John Dillon : and at the present time Wm. O'Brien has to run the gauntlet of the same individual's Billingsgate.

But why do not the Irish people drum him out of the ranks? So long as he remains a representative of the people he will be a menace to the Nationalist cause—an eyesore to Irish. men who do not imagine that the irrepressible Timothy is indispensable, and who believe that one month of earnest and unselfish work is better for the cause than years of unseemly clamor. Healy should retire and hire out his vocabulary to the Belfest Orangemen.

A SPECIMEN POLITICIAN.

Now! the candidate doth don his best attire and blandest smile and departs to commune awhile with his intelligent constituents. He goeth gladly to and fro and speaketh much and at sundry times. He beameth benevolently upon the sons of toil and assureth them that the pressure of their horny hands thrilleth him with joy. And their good and excellent wife and children knoweth him not a little. "Are they quite well?" he asketh. Waiteth he in anxious expectancy for the answer and when told that the health of the family is, despite increased taxation and "patriotic" celebrations, not on the wane, he weepeth tears of glad

What a great man is a politician? His big heart has room, and to spare, for all our troubles and interests-for our wives and children, not to say any. thing of our numerous relations. In the stilly night, perchance when pondering o'er weighty problems of state, his brow may be sickened o'er with the pale cast of thought; but in interviewing his constituents he is ever accom panied by a flawless urbanity and a comprehensive and a bright and cheery smile.

Wonderful, too, what interest he takes in Catholic affairs; and more wonderful still is to have his commendatory words explained as evidences o broadmindedness. They may be, bu to us they are evidences of ways that are dark and tricks that are vain. It listening to the praise and promise of politicians we thinks of the old lines "Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes ("They sell what they seem to give")

TO THE VOTERS.

Next to the politician the politics meeting is the most interesting feature of a campaign. If you attend one yo will surely be repaid for any discon fort it may loccasion you, and be con vinced, moreover, that there is a su prising lot of human nature in man The speaker generally begins by con pimenting the electors on their i telligence and their zeal in contribu ing to the upbuilding of the soci fibric. This is one of the stock jok and is invariably greeted with a plause.

Tnen follows statistics, promispersonalities, platitudes, quotatio from Hansard, old flag allusions as freaks of imagination. There ma from beginning to end, be no point the rambling remarks; but the inte gent constituents, with a rare insig that is their peculiar prerogative, me age to extract from them the inform tion that will enable them to their whole duty on election d It never seems to dawn upon them t they have no independent opinions
