Choice Young Hereford Bulls

I have a good selection of choice bred young Hereford Bulls at prices within the reach of any farmer wanting a good registered bull. All animals are in fair condition, strong boned, true to type, hardy, and those heretofore sold have uniformly proven sure sires. The bull "Bonnie Brae 2nd," sire of most of the bulls offered, is sired by celebrated bull "Bonnie Brae 3rd," and his dam sister, "Perfection 2nd," is a full sister of bull "Perfection," one of the highest priced bulls of the United States. He is also a full brother of the cow "Nixa Brae 4th," a consistent winner at Eastern and Western fairs during the last three years. This bull was only shown as a senior calf, and his showing at Toronto and London, Ont., was highly satisfactory. All dams are strong, hardy and good mothers. Pedigrees furnished free of charge for all animals purchased.

lation to prevent the spread of bovine tuberculosis.

W. J. Cummings, of Glenlea ably discussed the care and feeding of the dairy cow. Farmers should study feeds more and have a better idea of the suitability of certain feeds for certain purposes. The chief things to aim at in the proper feeding of cows were plenty of palatable food, balanced rations, succulent food, comfortable surroundings and gentle handling. Silage offered the best and cheapest succulent feed but where this was not available, field roots ought to be substituted. He strongly urged the winter freshening of cows. At such time prices for milk or cream are very high, and fall calves could be raised practically as well as those born in the spring.

T. H. Rumbal, of Miami, gave one of the most interesting talks of the week when he described how he built up his own herd from 5,200 pounds of milk yearly to 7,000 lbs.

Resolutions

A number of important resolutions were passed by the Dairymen's Association. These were asked: That oleomargarine be barred from entering Canada; that the legislation passed at last session of the legislature restricting cream buying stations be strictly enforced; that standard grades for butter and cream should be brought into complete effect; that a special grade of butter, known as "Manitoba Special," be added to the grades now in effect; that cream should be pasteurized at creameries; that the work of creamery inspection should be continued in view of the highly beneficial effect on the industry.

The convention placed on record by resolution its high appreciation of the work of Prof. Mitchell as dairy commissioner for many years, and asked for the immediate appointment of a successor to him.

Agricultural College Day

Agricultural College Day was a great success. The students and faculty were "at home" to the farmers, and spared no possible effort to add to their entertainment and education. In the evening Sir James Aikens and Premier Norris delivered most interesting addresses dealing generally with the war and educational matters. J. R. Haney, of the International Harvester Co., gave an interesting address on "Mixed Farming." The growing of alfalfa was dealt with by Prof. N. E. Hansen, of the Agricultural College, South Dakota. Prof. Hansen has had much experience in importing hardy strains from abroad. Dr. C. D. McGilvray; Geo. H. Barr, chief of the Dairy Division, Ottawa; and E. H. Farrell, head of the dairy department at the college, also addressed the visitors.

The convention approved of national service and asked the government to deal with the foreign labor problem. Another resolution asked that the railway companies maintain telephones in their stations.

Bee-Keepers' Convention

President Gunn, in his address gave some very interesting details of the early beginnings of beekeeping in Manitoba. The late Mr. Vaughan, of Selkirk, had been the first apiarist, he having started in 1875. He imported his bees from Minnesota. Mr. Bridgeman, of East Kildonan, seems to have been the second man, beginning his work ten years later. At one time he had 150 colonies, and was the first person to try wintering in the open.

In 1916 there were 10,000 colonies of bees in Manitoba and they produced over 800,000 lbs. of honey, which at the present price would mean a revenue of $100,000. Every section of the older province of Manitoba has its beekeepers, from Beausjour in the east to Selkirk in the west, and from Emerson in the south to Dauphin in the north. The number of colonies owned by single individuals runs from one to 134, and the spring count shows a yield of from 7 lbs. to as high as 227 lbs. per colony. President Gunn stated that the average winter loss was about 15 per cent.

B. Brewster, of Green Ridge, Man., gave a most interesting paper on the sale, grading and advertising of the honey crop. He did not think that as yet the suggestion that the beekeepers of America, both those in Canada and the United States should enter on a campaign of advertising similar to that
